HUGE SHIPPING BOARD LOSS SHOCKS HARDING

BLAZING GASOLINE RUSHES INTO BAY; $1,000,000 DAMAGE

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, July 18.—Fire, starting with an explosion in a still at 1:54 o'clock this afternoon, had done damage of $1,000,000 to the Warner-Quinlan asphalt plant in the Bronx, at midnight. At that hour, with five acres of tanks exploding in burning oil and asphalt, which was turning Hutchinson Island sound, the plant was doomed and the city fire tugs and the United States Shipping Board were uniting efforts to prevent the flaming sea from spreading to forty of the Board's vessels moored at Chelsea, Staten Island.

The fire boat Mayor Cayner patrolled the Staten Island waters ready to lead in the fight should a shift in the wind bring the flames toward the millions of dollars' worth of shipping that lay on the other side of Prall's Island in the middle of the sound.

GASOLINE TANK EXPLODES.

The whole fire department of Staten Island was on the alert, prepared to join in the battle from the land side if they should be needed, and fire headquarters in Manhattan, with lines running to every available resource of combat, was prepared to direct the battle if local means to keep the burning oil on the New Jersey side should fail.

At midnight twelve tanks of gasoline, which had escaped because they stood across a railroad spur, were attacked. One tank exploded with a roar that was heard miles away and a tidal wave of gasoline rushed into the bay. It rolled past all barriers and reached Prall's Island, where for a time its course was checked. It is feared that if the rest of the gasoline tanks should go up there could be no stemming the sea of fire before it reached Staten Island.

LIGHTNING HITS TANKS.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CASPER (Wyo.) July 18.—Two oil-storage tanks, struck by lightning on the Midwest Refining Company's tank farm near here early this afternoon, are blazing fiercely tonight. Efforts of scores of workmen to check the flames failed.

Three men on the tanks when the lightning struck jumped to the ground. Two were slightly injured.

Six streams of water and two lines of liquid fire extinguishers are playing on the flames without apparent effect.

Workmen are throwing up twelve-foot dirt walls to prevent flames spreading to other tanks 500 feet away. Today's fires make eleven oil tanks destroyed by lightning since June 17.

RED LETTER FOR STATE

Full Committee Recommends Tariff on Products Grown in Southland.

Oil is Put on Free List, With Long Staple Cotton Taxed.

BY ROBERT B. ARMSTRONG.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, July 18.—This was a red-letter day for California in the consideration of the tariff bill. Briefly summarized, California won the following:

Bans, increased tariff rate fom 1½ to 1¾ cents per pound.

Shelled walnuts, tariff increased from 5 to 7½ cents per pound.

Shelled Almonds, tariff increased from 8 to 12 cents per pound.

Citrate of lime, a by-product of lemons, increased tariff rate from 8½ cents per pound to 7 cents per pound.

Citric acid, another by-product of the lemon industry, increased from 10 to 12 cents per pound.

Cotton, one and three-eighth staple and longer, 15 per cent ad valorem.

Turkish tobacco, $1 per pound.

These increases were recommended by the Agricultural and Chemical subcommittees and were adopted by the full committee.

Later, when they were offered to the House, they went over till tomorrow on a point of order that no formal meeting of the Ways and Means Committee had passed on these changes. This point was made by the minority members and is simply technical. Tomorrow morning a formal meeting of the committee will be held and the Republican members will report out these amendments, and when offered on the floor by the committee they will be adopted by the House under the rule which governs the consideration of the tariff.

REMARKABLE VICTORIES.

Considering the conservative character of the Ways and Means Committee, these increases are regarded as remarkable victories by Congressmen from all parts of the country, and reflect credit on the the organization and unanimity of the California delegation. The credit is due to all the Republican members, although Congressman Lineberger made the fight for the citrus by-products and Congressman Osborne fought to the last for a higher duty on beans.

Congressman Swing made his fight for cotton and due to his efforts the amendment for an ad valorem duty was adopted. This will apply to the cotton of a staple one and three-eighths or longer and provides for a straight 15 per cent duty on the value of the cotton imported. Dollar cotton would yield 15 cents per pound protection on all long staple cotton imported. Some of the cotton mills in the East while not objecting to the protection to long staple wanted an increase in cotton manufactures to compensate for this increase.

Congressman Curry was gratified that the committee would give him for his constituents a protection of $1 a pound on Turkish tobacco and declares that under this encouragement the growing of this expensive tobacco which was started during the war will be greatly increased and developed.

OIL ON FREE LIST.

Oil went on the Fordney tariff free list today by a House vote of more than two to one.

Long staple cotton, on the free list in the Ways and Means Committee draft, was put on the dutiable list at 15 per cent ad valorem, with members in doubt as to what compensatory rates on all cotton goods would be considered necessary by reason of the imposition of a tax on the raw product.

The real flare-up was over the oil schedule. It broke at the outset of the session after chairman Fordney had presented a letter from President Harding opposing the tax, and suggesting rather a bargaining provision to be placed in his hands to "guard against the levy of duties against us or the imposition by other nations of export tariffs which are designed to hinder the facilitation of trade."

About half the Republican membership of the committee, which imposed the tax after the bill had been printed and after the duty earlier had been rejected, joined Republican insurgents and almost a solid minority in throwing out the duty.

CRAIG GOES TO IRELAND

Sinn Fein Submits Its Demands.

Lloyd George Balked When Ulster Premier Refuses to Consider Terms.

Sir James Will Present to Men of North Proposals Received in London.

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

LONDON, July 18.—The Irish negotiations took an unexpected development late tonight.

Sir James Craig, the Ulster Premier, on leaving for Belfast, made an important statement, which appears to forbid any hope of assembling a conference such as Premier Lloyd George proposed between himself, Mr. de Valera and the Ulster Premier.

The Ulster leader maintains that the Sinn Feiners, by contesting the elections for the northern Parliament on a platform of "No partition," in which they were defeated, have recognized Ulster's claim to self-determination, and he seems to wash his hands of further participation in peace negotiations. Sir James said:

"I return home well satisfied with the efforts being made toward peace. Mr. De Valera has broken his silence and cleared the ground by his statement to the press that he proposes to found his claims on recognition of the right of self-determination."

He conjectured that the people of Northern Ireland in the recent elections "determined" their own parliament by an overwhelming majority.

"No partition" was the only issue placed before the electorate, said Sir James, and it was rejected by the largest majority ever secured in any general election.

"Such being the facts," he continued, "it now only remains for Mr. De Valera and the British people to come to terms regarding the area outside of that of which I am Premier. The people of Northern Ireland make no claims to "determine" the terms of settlement which Great Britain shall make with Southern Ireland.

"When this is accomplished, I can promise cordial co-operation on equal terms with Southern Ireland in any matters affecting our common interest."

RESUME THURSDAY.

The official announcement issued at the close of a long conference between the Premier and Mr. De Valera today says: "The conversations between Mr. Lloyd George and Mr. De Valera will be resumed Thursday."

This ordinarily would permit the British public and Ireland still to indulge in confident hope that a satisfactory settlement would ultimately be reached. But Sir James Craig's

MOUNTAIN IS MOVING

GOLDEN (Colo.) July 18.—A section of Table Mountain, 600 feet long, is reported to be moving again. Tons of rock and dirt on the middle Golden road are loosening and irrigation ditches on the mountain are reported damaged.

RAID BIG "DISTILLERY"

OMAHA (Neb.) July 18.—Police tonight captured what is said to be the largest "distillery" ever taken here, when they raided a downtown building and confiscated 1500 gallons of mash, three twenty-five-gallon-capacity stills, forty gallons of whisky and other equipment. Three persons were arrested.

ROBBERY AT TIJUANA

SAN DIEGO, July 18.—Three mounted men rode up to a wholesale liquor house at Tijuana late today, held up several men who were inside and robbed the safe of $2200. The three then took to the hills east of Tijuana, but were pursued by Mexican soldiers and one of them was shot dead. The other two men got away, but one is said to have been wounded.

FEARS TO DIE; IS JAILED

Declaring that he escaped from Ione Reform School and that he had wanted to commit suicide for a week but lacked the courage, Edward Kimball, aged 17, of 1152 East Forty-third street, last night walked into Central Police Station and surrendered to Detective Adams. The boy had a gun strapped to his waist and was arrested on a charge of carrying concealed weapons. In his pocket was a letter addressed to his mother which he had intended should be sent her after he had killed himself.

Denby and Fall Going to Alaska on Destroyers.

SAN DIEGO, July 18.—The destroyers Parrott, Edsall, MacLeish, Simpson, Bulmer and McCormack of the Thirty-eighth Division, now stationed in this port, have been assigned to make a cruise of Alaskan waters with Secretary of the Navy Denby, Secretary of the Interior Fall and other government officials early in September, according to announcement made here today by Capt. Cyrus Miller, destroyer force chief of staff.

According to plans announced by Capt. Miller, the Thirty-eighth Division will leave San Diego August 20 for Seattle. Early in September the government officials will board the destroyers for a cruise via the inland passage to the Alaskan coast. The government officials will inspect the Alaskan mine fields and will then board the battleship New York for a cruise to Honolulu. The destroyers may accompany the battleship.

CHICAGO BANKS TO MERGE.

CHICAGO, July 18.—The Great Lakes Trust Company, the latest of Chicago's downtown banks, which was organized two years ago, will be liquidated and its business taken over by the Central Trust Company of Illinois. On June 30 the Great Lakes Trust reported deposits of $6,665,409. Carles G. Dawes is chairman of the board of the Central Trust Company, which has deposits aggregating $58,500,000.

DEFICIT OF $380,000,000 IS POINTED OUT BY LASKER; MAY BLOCK TAX REVISION

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, July 18.—Declaring that the financial condition of the Shipping Board is shocking, A. D. Lasker, the new chairman, announced tonight that he will ask Congress tomorrow for supplemental appropriations amounting to $300,000,000 for the new fiscal year.

Mr. Lasker said it was "inconceivable that an institution like this could be in existence and be turned over to men to administer in the shape it is."

He added that, "had the books been kept with a view to cheating and deceiving Congress and the country, they could not have been kept in much different shape that they have been."

Records of the board, he said, are in "a deplorable condition," and if it had been a private business concern the corporation would have been in receivers' hands long ago.

BIG NET LOSS SHOWN.

Although Congress appropriated only $100,000,000 for the Shipping Board during the fiscal year just ended, Mr. Lasker said that the balance sheet, as prepared for him by outside auditors who have been digging into its records, shows that there was an actual net loss to the government of $380,000,000. Approximately $200,000,000 of this, he said, was a loss incurred in the operation of the fleet. During the coming year the loss from operations alone, indicated, probably will be $150,000,000.

Mr. Lasker asserted that the present system of operation of vessels by which the operator receives a 5 per cent commission on gross receipts, the government paying the losses, is as shocking as other features of the practices of the board.

PRESIDENT IS DISMAYED.

"Last year nominally out of the public treasury approximately $100,000,000 actually authorized by Congress was expended on the Shipping Board. This sum represented the total of appropriations," said Mr. Lasker. "One might deduce from this that only $100,000,000 was used by the board during last year. When I showed to the President, a few minutes ago the figures I am about to reveal to you, he was shocked and dismayed that such a condition could exist. As a matter of fact, the Shipping Board used last Consulate-General in East Explains Stand of His Country in Matter.

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

LONDON, July 18.—Japan's action in approaching the question of the Pacific conference is neither blamed nor sympathized with here. Officially, of course, the British government could not suggest a criticism of her ally, and the propriety of her request to the American government for further information is not disputed.

In the unofficial world, however, it is regretted that Japan did not accept the invitation in general terms, such as those in which it was couched, and wait for developments of details, which must necessarily ensue when the agenda of the conference comes to be framed.

The British press, which usually displays restraint when dealing with foreign questions, has shown no tendency to rub Japan the wrong way by finding fault with her action in a matter in which, after all, she is independent.

REGRET EXPRESSED.

There are to be found expressions of regret that any nation should show hesitation in regard to the invitation to the conference which has been hailed here as "the initial chapter in a new charter of liberty."

"We hope Japan and all other nations coming to the conference will come without expressed reservations," says one newspaper. "Aft-

NEW UTOPIA IS FOUND.

People of Philippine Islands Contented and Loyal to United States.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

[Copyright, Chicago Tribune.]

BAYBAY (P. I.), July 18.—The Wood-Forbes mission to the Philippine Islands has found the happiest people in the world. They live in Bohol Island, in the Southern Philippine group, and they were so delighted to see the Americans that they decorated their homes along a hundred miles of coast and highway. Everyone was dressed in his best in honor of the distinguished Americans.

Bohol contains 350,000 inhabitants. It is a mountainous island cut off from the rest of the world by a barrier of reefs and shoals. The people are contented with their lot. In the uplands the soil is rich and there is a more equitable climate than in most regions here.

REGULAR UTOPIA.

Immense cocoanut groves and rice fields are found here and the people cannot starve or freeze. They have material for building their homes at hand and there is food for the taking. They grow tobacco and make their own wine.

ACCUSED OF CRIME, MAN KILLS SELF.

Fireman of Locomotive on Which Engineer Was Slain, Commits Suicide.

EL PASO (Tex.) July 18.—Charles F. Robinson, 28 years old, fireman on the Galveston, Harrisburgh and San Antonio train, on which William Bohlman, engineer, was mysteriously killed July 8, near Sanderson, Tex., committed suicide this morning in his room.

Robinson left the home of his father-in-law, George W. Finley, here this morning, and went downtown. Returning a short while later, Robinson entered the house, said nothing to members of the family, and went to his room. A shot was heard. Members of the family found him lying on the floor, a pistol grasped in his hand, they said, and a wound through his temple. Robinson, his wife and baby, came here from Sanderson, shortly after the death of the engineer.

Finley told the police that Robinson had been despondent since the railroad tragedy.

The fireman, after an investigation by railroad officials and State officers, had been charged with the murder of Engineer Bohlman, and was at liberty on a $5000 bond.

CONVICTS FIRE PRISON.

Unruly Ones Finally Driven Back to Cells; Loss From Flames is $50,000.

PITTSBURG, July 18.—Prisoners in the Western penitentiary here today broke all records of discipline, fired four buildings and for a time kept the institution in an uproar, while prison guards, deputy sheriffs and policemen, reinforced by armed citizens, fought to put down the disorder. Six convicts were shot and two others cut in the battle. Prison officials said three or four of the wounded would likely die.

The outbreak, timed to start with the ringing of the first fire gong, began in the dining-room, where the convicts sought to detract the attention of guards from the fires, prison officials said. Alarms sounded from four places in the institution almost simultaneously, when the guards discovered the prisoners had fired the buildings with any material available.

Some 600 prisoners had just taken their seats in the big dining-room when one of them sent a soup bowl careening down one of the long tables.

Instantly the room was in an uproar, for at the same moment the fire gong sounded an alarm from the construction shop, the linen shop, the kitchen and the chapel.

The guards in the dining-room tried to quell the outbreak, but the maddened prisoners pelted them with tableware and cutlery, all the time shrieking and howling. The fire department called city firemen, while riot calls were sent in for the police.

The dining-room guards regained, in part, their control, and forced some of the men back to their cells, but 200 or more dashed for the prison yard, and when faced by other guards, backed into a building and ran for the top of a tier of cells. They pelted the guards, now reinforced by every available man in the prison, with bricks torn from the top of the wall.

It was not long until the prisoners had been chased from the wall to their cells. They signalized their re-incarceration by breaking the glass in the windows and shrieking and howling.

Within two hours the fire was under control, but not until a number of buildings had been destroyed with an estimated loss of in excess of $50,000.

John M. Egan, parole officer, said the outbreak was the result of discontent among the 1135 persons confined in the institution.

COURT FOR POOR MAN IS OPENED.

One Fellow Bought Horse for $33 "That is Not Worth Twenty Cents."

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, July 18. The small claims or "poor man's court," provided by the last Legislature, opened today and listed among its first cases the claim that R. Meinck sold J. Colynoson a horse for $33 which, according to an appraisal by the purchase, "was not worth 20 cents."

The court will be conducted by the five justices of the peace. Trial of the cases will not actually begin until Monday.

MUST PAY WAR DEBT.

American Public is Against Cancellation, Wilson Told Lloyd George.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

LONDON, July 18.—President Wilson wrote Premier Lloyd George that it was "highly improbable that either the Congress or public opinion of this country will ever permit a cancellation of the debt of the British government to the United States unless the British government to remit in whole or in part the debts due to the United States or any of the other Allied governments."

The letter, which was written by the President two months previous to the conference was made public for the first time today in the Congressional Record by Senator Lodge, Republican leader of the Senate. Mr. Wilson's letter was submitted to the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, of which Lodge is chairman, by David F. Houston, Secretary of the Treasury.

Further proof was given that Wilson that it was highly improbable that the people of the American public "would consent to a cancellation or reduction in the debt of any of the Allied governments as an inducement toward a practical settlement of the reparation claims." Mr. Wilson pointed to past rejections of the suggestion of intergovernmental debt cancellation and added:

"The views of the United States government have not changed."

Warning that "the long delay which has occurred in the funding of the demand obligations is embarrassing the treasury, which will find itself compelled to begin to collect back and current interest if speedy progress is not made with the funding," Mr. Wilson stated that unless funding arrangements were agreed upon, "in the present state of opinion here, there is likely to develop a dangerous misunderstanding."

WOULD LIMIT POWERS.

Secretary Mellon, appearing before the Senate Finance Committee to urge enactment of the administration bill to confer broad powers in debt refunding was told by Senator Curtis of Kansas, member of the committee and Republican Senate whip, that Republican and Democratic Senators alike had stated they would not vote for a refunding bill which did not require the settlements to be reported to Congress for ratification. Mr. Mellon said "it would be illogical" to amend the bill so as to limit the treasury's authority.

BOMBS FROM ARMY AIRPLANES SEND GERMAN CRUISER DOWN OFF THE COAST OF VIRGINIA.

ON BOARD THE DESTROYER LEARY, EN ROUTE TO NORFOLK (Va.) July 18.—Bombing aircraft destroyed the former German light cruiser Frankfurt late today sixty miles east of Virginia Capes after an all-day attack which both Navy and Army air officers had begun to fear would be unsuccessful. A bomb which failed to hit the target, but exploded in the water close by the starboard side near the bow, sent the cruiser down.

Up to the time this bomb, a 600-pounder, was launched, at 4:22 p.m., by an Army Martin plane from Langley Field, Va., the Frankfurt had withstood eleven direct hits, five of them "duds," without being vitally damaged, and preparations for a gunfire attack on her by five destroyers had been put under way.

As the bomb left its carriage under the wings of the Martin plane from an altitude of about 1600 feet, it appeared as though it would strike on the fo'castle deck. It missed by a scant few feet and, upon striking the water, exploded with terrific force. The Frankfurt literally was forced up several feet by the concussion and, upon settling down after rocking and rolling for a minute or two, she began to go down gradually by the head.

Another Army Martin plane put two other 600-pound bombs close to the port bow and these were believed to have hastened the end. Twenty-eight minutes after it began to settle the battered and twisted hulk disappeared.

Brig.-Gen. Mitchell, assistant chief of the Army Air Service, whose declaration before a Congressional committee some months ago that aircraft fast were making capital ships obsolete caused something of a sensation, circled around the sinking hull in a fast pursuit plane in which he had accompanied to sea the fleet of big bombers under Capt. Lawton. In all, seventy-eight bombs—fifty-seven of 250 and 300 pounds and twenty-one of 520 and 600 pounds—were launched at the Frankfurt by naval and Army aircraft.

Jane Addams is Given Honors by Vienna Congress

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

VIENNA, July 18.—Miss Jane Addams of Chicago was unanimously elected president of the International Women's Congress at the closing session here yesterday, and by common consent the present congress was pronounced the most successful ever held.

Among resolutions adopted at the final meeting was one to secure the co-operation of all branches of the organization in an effort to line up the women of the entire world for nonparticipation in any activity which would make war possible.

KNOTTY PROBLEM IN OUR FORESTS.

Something Must be Done is Plainly Seen.

Trees Depleted Faster Than Nature Works.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO, July 18.—With the United States depleting her forests four and one-half times as fast as nature grows them, it was made emphatically plain before the United States Chamber of Commerces forestry policy committee, meeting today, that "something must be done about it."

That was the keynote sounded by speakers, including lumbermen, academicians and foresters of national reputation, who, one after the other, laid incontestable facts before the committee.

But just what is that "something" which must be done, no one would definitely state.

GIFT SQUANDERED.

"That," said W. B. Brookings of Washington, D. C., secretary of the committee, "is the thing that this committee is travelling all over the United States to find out. It would be a wise man, indeed, who could tell us that right now."

"We've squandered nature's gift —over 700,000,000 acres of virgin forests—for seventy years," said D. L. Goodwille, chairman, "and now its coming to the time when we've got to face the music."

Some of the most important facts and figures were given the committee by Col. William B. Greeley, United States Chief Forester. It was he who pointed out to the committee that the total annual cut of all kinds of lumber is 46,000,000,000 feet, or about four and one-half times the yearly growth, 9,500,000,000 feet. He stated that transportation of lumber is becoming one of the most important factors in the cost to the consumer.

Mr. Brookings said there are two bills on forestry before Congress at present. One is fathered by Senator Capper of Kansas, and the other is the Snell bill, of which a lumberman from the Adirondacks is the author. The former aims at Federal encouragement of State action on the forestry problem; the latter provides Federal regulation of forestry in the States.

REGULATION FEARED.

Col. Greeley is an exponent of the Snell bill, and said the proposed regulation would probably increase the cost of lumber 75 cents a thousand feet. He declared he based this figure on government experience with national forests, but several lumbermen present disagreed with him.

"We lumber men are all fearful of government regulation," said A. L. Osborn of Oshkosh, lumberman, "because of the narrow margin of profit in the lumber business, which, in spite of public opinion, is prosperous only about one out of every five years. Government regulation, adding costs to the business, might eat up our narrow margin of profit. It might amount to a confiscation of our business."

"I believe the proposed regulations would amount to possibly $2 1000 feet," said C. H. Worcester, a Chicago lumberman. "If such a cost had to be borne by the lumbermen alone, it probably would put us out of business."

"Well," said Mr. Greeley, "assuming that the cost of forestry regulation were $1 per 1000 feet, and that the public at large had to pay it, this would amount to $52,000,000 a year, and it would be a cheap bill for the public to pay to ward off the economic conditions which would arise from exhaustion of the forests.

"This amount will inevitably have to be paid in the long run, and it is best to start early and spread it equitably over the years. The longer we waste the larger the bill the public ultimately will have to pay. Why, Chicago, as I stated before, is now paying $22,500,000 a year more for freight than it did thirty years ago, and that it is the best example I know of."

Loses His Life Trying to Save Drowning Girl.

SANTA CRUZ, July 18.—Miss Alice Kusan of San Francisco, 23 years old, slipped from a raft in Boulder Creek late yesterday and was drowned. Alfred Docker of Jersey City (N. J.,) 36 years old, also lost his life when he jumped into the stream in an effort to save her life.

Both were summer residents of the town of Boulder Creek. The accident occurred on the Longley ranch, three miles away, where they were on a picnic. Docker was said to be a good swimmer, but bystanders declare the terrified girl pulled him under the water. She had been paddling the raft on a pool in the creek.

STUDENT OFFICERS IN TRAINING CAMP.

WEEK WILL BE LARGELY SPENT IN TARGET PRACTICE AT FORT BARRY RANGE.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 18.—A week of camp life and target practice at the rifle range at Fort Barry, on the north shore of the Golden Gate, began today for 350 student officers, comprising about half the enrollment at the citizens' military training camp at the Presidio of San Francisco.

The other half of the training camp will be at Fort Barry next week. The youths, who come from nine Western States included in the Ninth Army Corps area, will sleep in tents and get their meals at field kitchens during the target practice week. Their days will be devoted largely to range shooting up to 600 yards.

Four scouting movements and other variations from close order formation are being learned by the members of the camp already, as well as the regular military drills.

BRITISH REGRET ACT OF JAPAN.

er all, it will be a conference, not arbitration, and no participant will be bound, except by his duty to his country and his country's duty to civilization. To question beforehand, even in the best of faith must, to some extent, prejudice the issue."

The Pacific conference shares with the Irish the chief place in the weekly papers. It is held that the Pacific question is the first question that must be tackled.

The Observer says: "The peaceful development of Japan is the first issue before the conference. On this hinges the maintenance of free and equal opportunities for foreign commerce in China, the recovery of China from internal weaknesses and, finally, the disarmament as a sequel of an agreement on the main problems.

"Japan needs outlets for her growing trade and population. The area open to her is restricted by the fact that the white populations of the Pacific territories claim the right to select their immigrants and to preserve their future for the descendants of their own race. To veto for Japan what they insist upon for themselves would convert the rights of white races into privileges valid only for so long as they could enforce them, and certain in time to be tested by force.

"On those lines embitterment in the Pacific would proceed apace, aligning first Japan, only, but later the whole east against the arrogant pretensions of the west. In such a contest it would be mockery to talk disarmament."

The Times, which has a special article on the conference, also argues that an agreement on Pacific policy must precede the discussion of disarmament or the limitations of armament. It states the problem of Japanese expansion and adds:

NEW MONROE DOCTRINE.

"China is the greatest of the world's neutral markets, and there is no putting bounds to the magnitude of its future expansion, with its teeming, industrious population. With its vast stores of mineral wealth China is capable, if statesmanship does not prevent it, of providing as many subjects for war as Turkey and the Near East have done. One would like to see the conference lay down a new Monroe Doctrine in regard to her.

"It is to be hoped that the conference will set its face sternly against any division of China in spheres of influence, political or commercial. From Peking to Canton there must be one industrial rule for all powers, equality of opportunity for all the nations, with no closed markets, no preferential rights of any kind.

"Great Britain and the United States have steadily pursued this policy, and though the record of Japan is not so good, she has committed to the principle, and the conference should have no difficulty in tightening up the loose screws in the Anglo-Japanese agreement."

CONSULATE STATEMENT.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, July 18.—A declaration that Pacific and far eastern problems should first be defined before being discussed, but that Japan subscribed whole heartedly to President Harding's invitation to an international disarmament conference, was given out yesterday by the Japanese Consul-General in New York City as being the attitude of Japan. The statement read:

"The United States government, through its Charge d'Affaires in Tokkio, informally addressed to the Japanese government an inquiry as to whether it would be agreeable to them to receive an invitation to participate in a conference of Japan, the United States, Great Britain, France and Italy, which would be held in Washington at a time to be agreed upon among the participating governments, with a view to discussing the question of a limitation of armaments.

"It was suggested at the same time that the question of a limitation of armaments being, in the view of the United States government related to Pacific and far eastern problems, it would be appropriate that the proposed conference should also embrace a discussion by interested powers of all far eastern questions.

"It has always been the supreme aspiration of the Japanese government and of the people of Japan to contribute to the enduring peace of the world and the common welfare of mankind. Any scheme or undertaking, therefore, which aims at these high ideals, should be especially welcome to them. Accordingly, the Japanese government made a reply to the United States on July 13, through the American Charge d'Affaires, in which they declared their intention gladly to accept an invitation from the United States to participate in a conference of five powers, looking to a discussion of the question of disarmament.

"As for a discussion by the proposed conference of Pacific and far eastern problems, the Japanese government, considering it more expedient for the purpose of facilitating an attainment of the object of the conference, that the character and scope of these problems should first be defined before it expressed its views in this respect, requested the United States government to inform them of the views it may entertain on that phase of the matter."

FOUR AWAITING BANDIT REWARD

Persons Assisting in Capture Gardner to Get $5000.

Claims Will be Decided Some Time After December 1.

Woman Among Those Who Helped Take Mail Robber.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 18.—At least four people are waiting for Uncle Sam to grow five months older and then follow the proverbial example of crutsy old bachelor uncles by leaving them some money, which they hope will be as much as $5000. They are the persons who helped capture Roy Gardner, the mail robber, at Roseville, Cal., May 23.

The claimants are Chief Special Agent Daniel O'Connell and Special Agent Barney McShane of the Southern Pacific, W. H. Locke of the railroad police force at Roseville and Mrs. Vendie Pitsos, wife of a Roseville restaurant proprietor.

WAITS SIX MONTHS.

To make sure that all claimants to the standing reward of "not exceeding $5000" to any postal employee, except a postoffice inspector, or any other person who brings in a mail robber, may have an opportunity to present their case, the governments waits six months after his conviction before deciding who gets the money.

As Gardner pleaded guilty here in the Federal Court on June 1 to robbing a mail car at Newcastle, the claims will be decided some time after December 1.

One night in May, Mrs. Pitsos, noticing that a customer at the lunch counter bore a resemblance to the picture of Roy Gardner printed in a Sacramento newspaper, handed him the paper and called his attention to the resemblance.

"That fellow is a long way from here by now after that robbery," the customer remarked. After he had finished his meal and departed, however, Mrs. Pitsos reported the circumstance to the authorities and postoffice inspectors advised her to notify them if he appeared again.

APPEARED AGAIN.

The night of May 23 she reported that the man she suspected had eaten dinner at the restaurant and Postoffice Inspectors George H. Austin and Roy Cauley of San Francisco, who happened to be in Sacramento that evening, arrived on the scene with O'Connell and McShane.

Meanwhile Locke had traced the suspect around the town of Roseville, finally locating him in a small room behind a cigar store, playing cards. There the officers surrounded his table.

"Roy," called out Austin, but Gardner, for it was he, paid no attention, continuing his game of cards. Then Austin put a revolver against Gardner's body and ordered him to put up his hands, while the other officers faced Gardner from the opposite side of the table.

"You might as well let me finish this deal," remarked Gardner, in the most unruffled manner imaginable, but the game of freedom was over for him for fifty years, except for his brief vacation of a few days between the time of his escape at Castle Rock and his recapture at Centralia.

Storm Brings Brief Relief to Chicagoans.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO, July 18.—Temporary relief came this evening in the shape of a brief rain and electrical storm to sweltering Chicagoans, who have been panting through the hottest summer in fifty years. All records for day, after day, temperatures have been broken so far.

A special bulletin issude by the weather bureau said the present summer has been the hottest on record. Two additional deaths from heat were reported today.

Weather forecasters attribute the heat plague to the "stagnant" condition of the wind. The tall buildings choke out all the breezes that venture into the loop district and the great masses of brick and stone and steel act as fireless cookers and do not cool off at night. In addition, hundreds of furnaces are operating, furnishing power for the elevators, and these basement fires make the sidewalks sizzle.

"The highest temperuture Tuesday probably will not be much above 80 degrees and the temperature will remain seasonal until Wednesday," said the bulletin.

Former Senator and Aviator Are Killed in Fall.

RENO, July 18.—Former State Senator W. A. Keddie of Fallon, Nev., and his aviator, John Austin Frost, were killed near Elko last night when their airplane fell in flames from a high altitude during a test flight. The bodies were so badly burned that identification was almost impossible.

The airplane was said to have been the first ever built in Nevada. Senator Keddie had intended to use it for flights between Elko and his ranch on the north fork of the Humboldt River. Keddie was well known in Nevada and in Northern California. He was the son of A. W. Keddie of Quincy, Plumas county, California, sometimes called "The father of the Western Pacific."

Aviator Frost was a former army flyer. He was from Reno and was a graduate of the University of Nevada.

ENGINEER DIES WITH HAND ON THROTTLE.

ALTOONA (Pa.) July 18.—Alva G. Laughlin, 55 years old, of Altoona, engineer of Pennsylvania train No. 18, Chicago mail, east, died with his hand on the throttle as his train was passing Wilmore, last night. Laughlin apparently felt himself sinking, as he made a vain effort to shut off the power and bring his train to a stop.

Fireman Theodore Ritchey saw Laughlin sink back and stretched over the prostrate engineer to reach the throttle.

SHIPPING BOARD IS SHOWN UP.

year approximately $280,000,000. Besides the $100,000,000 appropriated by Congress and $30,000,000 on hand at the beginning of the fiscal year, it sold assets for $200,000,000, all of which money went back into the enterprise. Then, in addition, it received from operation of vessels, etc., $200,000,000, which was also spent, this making a total expenditure by the Shipping Board of $680,000,000.

COUNTRY IS DECEIVED.

"This $200,000,000 received from operations, when deducted from the $680,000,000 received from all sources, shows a deficit of $280,000,000, although the public records show $100,000,000 to be all that had been appropriated by the Congress for the year.

"This is an astounding case of absolute deception of the country and Congress.

"As I look into the details I find them worse than my worst expectations. Approximately $200,000,000 represents absolute loss in operations in the fleet. There was expended $160,000,000 on construction of ships, $149,000,000 on steel ships, and the rest on miscellaneous ships, including an item of $3,000,000 for wood, composite and concrete ships. What these newly acquired assets are worth is highly questionable."

LASKER CITES CASE.

Mr. Lasker cited the case of the steamer American Legion, a new passenger boat built by the government, as an instance of waste. He said that the plans for the ship were redrafted seven times and that the total cost was between $6,000,000 and $7,000,000, although the present market value is probably not more than half that amount.

The request for $300,000,000 additional, Mr. Lasker admitted, probably would interfere with any plans for reducing taxes.

"Tomorrow I must appear before Congress to tell them it is possible the Shipping Board will require up to $300,000,000 for the present fiscal year," said Mr. Lasker. "I fear this will throw a lot of sand in the gear box of tax revision. Books are so absolutely incomplete and incompetent that it is impossible to be sure that $300,000,000 represents all we may need. We will try the first six months to get along on $100,000,000 to $125,000,000. We will not hide our losses.

OPERATOR CANNOT LOSE.

"It is the hope that, from this sum, we will be able to pay not only the losses of operations, but also to settle finally a part of the claims and the lawsuits pending against the Shipping Board. These latter amount to more than $300,000,000 themselves, but we anticipate settling them for 50 cents on the dollar, because many of them are padded.

"The boats are being operated today in the following shocking manner: An operating company is allocated a number of boats. They are allowed a commission of 5 per cent flat on gross revenue. The boat can lose all kinds of money—the taxpayers pay the losses, but the operator makes money just the same, because he gets his 5 per cent commission.

"To show the condition of incompetence that exists, the present basis of doing business went into effect in March, 1920, and out of 9000 voyages made, only 3000 are accounted for to date."

WOOD FINDS EL DORADO.

States. In other parts of the islands a group of politicians pretend to speak for the people in asking for independence from the United States, but Gen. Wood's investigation here has developed that the people do not want it, despite resolutions and orations to the contrary.

An incident which happened in one small town is a good example of the situation here. About two months ago, when the people first heard the mission was coming they held a meeting, and after a debate, voted unanimously against presenting an independence resolution. Yet, at a meeting yesterday, Col. McCoy was presented with a resolution asking independence. The man who had written it was found to be a right-hand man of Manuel Quezon. Many of the people could not understand the resolution, which was written in Spanish, and when they learned its meaning, they voted it down.

The people in the district had a few complaints to present, to the mission, and these were almost always against some oppression or crime committed against the people by their own Filipino leaders. Their loyalty to America is apparent.

In an address, Gen. Wood said: "Do not be led away by agitators and foolish thinkers. Remember what you were thirty years ago, and what you are today. Build for solidarity by studying the English language hard. Then begin to think and work alive. Your man must stand for the poor man against the rich man, who tries to steal your land."

Americans here call this island Paradise and think there is room for more Americans to develop and lead the people.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, July 18.—Bishop Charles Edward Locke of Manila, formerly a Methodist pastor in Los Angeles today cabled Congressman Osborne asking that he use every effort to get the administration to appoint Gen. Wood Governor-General of the Philippines. Bishop Locke intimated that conditions in the islands were serious and that unless the right sort of administrator was placed in the islands with the absolute backing of the entire administration there might be much trouble and embarrassment in the future.

Congressman Osborne immediately called at the White House with Bishop Locke's message and was informed that the office had been tendered Gen. Wood and that the administration would be delighted if he would accept.

After his visit at the White House, Congressman Osborne cabled Bishop Locke and urged him to use every effort to secure Gen. Wood's consent to take over the government of the islands.

Coast Guard Cutter Brings in Shipwrecked Explorers.

Russians Refused Landing to Hunting Party.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NOME (Alaska) July 17.—(Delayed.) The coast-guard cutter Bear, which rescued Roald Amundsen's exploration ship Maud from a precarious position in the ice near Cape Serdze, Siberia, arrived here yesterday with the news that the Maud had been towed to within 100 miles south of St. Lawrence Island, in Bering Sea, and is proceeding under sail toward Dutch Harbor, Alaska.

VESSEL TOTAL WRECK.

Arrangements have been made for the coast-guard cutter Unalga to tow the Maud from Dutch Harbor to Unalaska. While cruising in Eastern Siberian waters the Bear rescued the crew of the wrecked American schooner Gertrude a few miles from East Cape, Siberia, where the Gertrude was beached in a sinking condition. The vessel was a total wreck, they reported, and a large cargo of trading goods practically a total loss.

The Bear also rescued from St. Lawrence Island Dr. F. R. Bruning and Del L. Bishop, who were shipwrecked there last fall, after they had drifted about for days in a frail boat. They spent the entire winter in the island. Bishop was brought to Nome ad Dr. Bruning was landed in Siberia.

REFUSED LANDING.

Leo P. Harris, member of a party en route to Siberia to hunt sheep and to prospect, returned to Nome with the news that Russian officials at Emma Harbor has refused the party permission to land.

A. L. Johnson of San Francisco, a member of the Siberian expedition which sailed from Nome last year on the schooner Casco, later wrecked in Northern Bering Sea, returned to Nome on the Bear. He suffered many hardships last winter in mushing across the barren tundra from Chaun Bay, Siberia, with news of the discovery of gold, silver and tin at that point. John Norberg, Carl Lofdahl and Julius Silverman, all of San Francisco and members of the Casco expedition, spent the winter at the mouth of the Amagutma River, near North Cape, Siberia. Johnson reported. The other members of the expedition wintered at Cape Serdze, Chaun Bay, and Kaluychain Bay.

Other arrivals on the Bear were G. F. Hauster and Ernest Huhn of San Francisco, the two members of the crew of the schooner Esperanza, wrecked at Chaun Bay last year.

VOTED MORE CASH.

SEATTLE, July 18.—Capt. Roald Amundsen today received private notification from Christiania, Norway, that the Norwegian Parliament had voted him an additional 500,000 kroner, with which to continue his Arctic expedition, delayed last year when his schooner Maud lost a propeller in the ice of Cape Serdze, Siberia.

Receiver for Oil Company Kills Himself.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 18.—Gratz W. Helm, 41 years old, receiver for the Honolulu Oil Company, shot and killed himself in his office in the Balboa Building, late today as the result, supposedly, of a recent charge that he contributed to the delinquency of a minor. The charge was dismissed without arrest, but, according to his associates, it preyed on his mind. No warrant was ever served.

Helm's wife, Mrs. Gladys Helm, and their son, John, are said to be in Los Angeles.

Helm locked himself in his office and, according to the police and the Coroner's office, sent a bullet from a .32-caliber revolver into his brain. A clerk from an adjoining office, hearing the shot, broke open the door and found Helm dead.

WINE AND BEER MAN TAKEN INTO CUSTODY.

SIOUX CITY (Iowa) July 18.—H. A. Hansen, secretary of the national organization of Goodfellows of America, was arrested today on the charge of using the mails to defraud. It is charged that Hansen secured $42,500 in 25-cent membership fees from 250,000 persons in all parts of the United States.

The object of the Goodfellows of America is to make a drive to secure legislation permitting the manufacture of light wines and beer. Hansen was the founder.

Unknown Friends.

There are many who have used Chamberlain's Colic and Diarrhoea Remedy, with the best results, but who are unknown because they have not written to the manufacturers and told them of their experience in the use of this remedy. These people, however, are none the less friends and it is to their personal recommendations that this preparation owes its popularity and extensive sale and use. It is a good medicine to have in the house. It is widely known for its cures of pain in the stomach, colic and diarrhoea. —[Advertisement.

NO MYSTERY IN THE WAY POSLAM HEALS

Poslam heals skin eruptions so quickly that some folks almost believe there's a mystery about it. Not a bit!

Years ago an expert was seeking the best way to treat skin-troubles. One day he made a combination of certain simple, gentle things and tried it on a very severe case of itching eczema.

To his delight it gave instant relief and began to heal. So he tried it on case after case of eczema, rash, pimples, and such tormenting, unsightly affections. Almost every time it succeeded. He called it "Poslam." Its merit was immediately recognized and soon it was on sale everywhere. Aided by Poslam Soap, it is bringing skin-health to thousands daily—[Advertisement

IMPORTANT POST GIVEN LOCAL MAN.

J. W. Sanger Named Trade Commissioner in Antipodes; to Boost Los Angeles.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, July 18.—J. W. Sanger, well known in Los Angeles as an expert in advertising and trade conditions, who has for the past three years been representing the Department of Commerce in Latin-American countries making trade surveys and reporting on business conditions in Pan-America, was today appointed resident trade commissioner for Australia and New Zealand. His headquarters will be in Melbourne and he will have entire charge of the work for the department in those important British possessions. His work there will be even broader and more important than the work he has done with such credit in South America. He will be an advance agent for American trade in the Antipodes.

Mr. Sanger expects to leave for California next week. He will spend the month of August in and around Los Angeles renewing old acquaintances and preparing to take up his residence in Melbourne. He expects to sail from Los Angeles for his new post, if possible, about September 1. But, in any event, he will sail from California to open up new trade opportunities for the American merchants and manufacturers.

This appointment comes to Mr. Sanger as a reward for his exceptional work in the various posts he has held in South America for the Department of Commerce and is considered one of the best posts in the department's gift. Mr. Sanger, when living in Los Angeles, was one of the moving spirits in the Advertising Club and is determined to make the Antipodes think of Los Angeles whenever they think of the United States in a trade way.

MIDDLE WEST NEWS IN BRIEF.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

ST. PAUL, July 18.—More than one-third of the thirty canneries in Minnesota will not operate this year, according to the Commissioner of the State Dairy and Food Department. High cost of transportation and cans, coupled with the fact that there is a surplus of 3,000,000 cans of corn in the United States at present, will force several canners to suspend operations, he declared.

Warned by experiences in North Dakota, Nonpartisan League leaders in South Dakota are on the defensive, according to Peter Norbeck, United States Senator of South Dakota, who stopped in the Twin Cities en route from his home to Washington.

Indians of Minnesota are slowly passing, if the decrease in their number during the past ten years as indicated in a report issued by the United States Census Bureau in Washington, is any criterion. In 1920 there remained only 7761, compared with 9053 in 1910.

DES MOINES.

DES MOINES, July 18.—Warning the executive council that the entire industrial structure of the country will collapse if the strain on farmers is not eased immediately, Senator Cessna of Grinnell has joined with officials of the Iowa Farm Bureau in demanding that State taxation be rearranged so as to throw more of the burdens on public utilities and urban properties and less on farm lands.

Miss Anna Reinking and Miss Carrie Burghardt are enjoying a vacation in the West.

ST. LOUIS.

ST. LOUIS, July 18.—An effort to raise money within the next ten days for the immediate needs of the Missouri and North Arkansas Railroad, a line running between Joplin and Helena, Ark., a distance of 200 miles, in which St. Louisans have sunk capital to the extent of $10,000,000 has been decided by a committee representing financial interests of the railroad.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Worthington Eddy will depart August 7 for Banff, Can.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin A. Rogeir of Farmington, are leaving to spend the remainder of the summer in the East. They will have with them their daughter, Mrs. Dudley T. Fay. Mrs. Fay is now living in Bridgeport, Ct.

DENVER.

DENVER, July 18.—A war against an invasion of sugar beet web worms over the sugar beet districts in the northern part of Colorado, has been successfully waged by the Great Western Sugar Company. The worm invasion, which descended in even greater numbers than during the disastrous invasion in 1919, threatened for a time to cause larger loss than wrought by a grasshopper army in the southern part of the State.

Lansing White, who has been visiting his sister, Mrs. Lillian White Spencer, will depart Monday in company with several friends for a motor trip of several months to California.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hanington and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hanington are planning to depart August 1 for their summer homes at Grand Lake.

Approximately $20,000 will be expended this year upon widening and surfacing eight miles of the Durango-Silverton-Ouray highway, in the vicinity of Lime Creek, between Durango and Silverton.

MILWAUKEE.

MILWAUKEE, July 18.—Water power users in the Fox River valley are now drawing but 75 per cent of the normal flow, a cut of 25 per cent having been ordered recently. The long drought has lowered the level of the lake and river considerably.

Thousands of dead grasshoppers on Lake Superior shore at Minnesota Point forced vacationists to retire to the mainland to escape the stench. Late last week a horde of grasshoppers, driven north by the heat, invaded Superior only to drown in the lake. A northeast wind piled the dead grasshoppers on shore.

Brewers and maltsters of the city have appealed to E. H. Bodden, Tax Commissioner, for a reduction of their assessments on the ground that they have at last given up hope of any renewal of the brewing of beer.

A permit has been issued for the new Schlitz Building on the site of the old Schlitz Hotel, Grand avenue and Third street, and for the remodeling of the palm garden into a motion picture theater.

INDIANAPOLIS.

INDIANAPOLIS, July 18.—Kenneth Schroll, aged 6, and Thelma Schroll, 3 years old, children of Mr. and Mrs. Grover C. Schroll, eight miles northeast of Peru, were burned to death in a barn. It is presumed the children had matches. The mother discovered the fire after the children were imprisoned in a box stall.

The body of Frank Gillan, second Lawrence county boy to die in the World War, and the first to be returned from overseas, was buried with military honors yesterday at his former home, east of Bedford. He was one of three sons of D. P. Gillan, all of whom were killed in action.

DETROIT.

DETROIT, July 18.—Married children may now snap their fingers in the faces of the school board officers, for under the amended James Act, they are no longer compelled to attend school. A female child, no matter how young she may be, becomes emancipated from the Board of Education immediately she becomes a wife, and the classes in cookery, dressmaking and the care of babies, which the school board was devising for her benefit, are headed for the discard.

Among the Detroit folk spending a few weeks in the White Mountains are Mr. and Mrs. George H. Hiatt and Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Pocock.

Declaring some taxicabs are rolling barrooms, Superintendent of Police Carroll has urged the Grand Rapids City Commission to adopt a proposed ordinance to bring the taxicab business under closer supervision of city officials.

MINNEAPOLIS.

MINNEAPOLIS, July 18.—The world-wide demand for long-time credit will prevent any early drop in interest rates on long-time loans, according to John R. Mitchell, member of the Federal Reserve Board.

Interest in public education in Minnesota is growing rapidly, as evidenced by the 30 per cent increase in attendance this year at the college of education, University of Minnesota, it is said by Dean Haggerty.

Although small grain crops generally throughout the Northwest have suffered from heat and dry weather, the sections most affected by crop failures in recent years will probably harvest good crops and recuperate part of their losses, E. W. Decker, president of the Northwestern National Bank, says.

OMAHA.

OMAHA, July 18.—Recognition by the New York Art Gallery has been accorded Mrs. W. Johnson of Harvard, formerly of Hastings. Three of Mrs. Johnson's paintings were landscapes and one a girl's head.

Frank Peterson has quit his post as assistant United State Attorney in protest against the Presidential pardon of Thomas H. Matters, wealthy Omaha lawyer, who served only forty-four days of a five-year sentence, at Leavenworth.

Municipal bonds, $90,000 worth, will go on sale in open market in the near future. They run twenty years, are nontaxable, and bear 5½ per cent interest.

The Union Pacific Railroad announces it has taken on 1500 workers who were laid off with the slump in business on the mountain division. The re-employment of the men is taken to indicate the revival of business and it is expected more will be taken back if economic conditions continue to improve.

AKRON.

AKRON, July 18.—The Rubber City Clearinghouse Company of Akron, paid fines aggregating $11,375, and Andrew H. Noah, president, and Robert Noah, secretary and treasurer of the firm, were each fined $500 in Federal court yesterday, following indictment on sixty-five counts in a matter involving sale of tires at a price supposed to include a Federal tax.

Construction work on four large sewers, the cost of which will be $240,000, will be started within another week, according to J. B. Root, city sewerage engineer.

A crop of 34,000,000 bushels of wheat in Ohio this year is forecast from the July 1 condition, says the monthly report of the State crop reporting service.

KANSAS CITY.

KANSAS CITY, July 18.—The Commissioners of Wyandotte county have adopted a resolution to pension dependent widows with supplies in stead of money. A recent law provides that the amount allowed for the support of dependents may be given in supplies instead of money.

The number of former service men in need of medical, financial or other assistance is constantly increasing, according to a report made by the Red Cross. The number of cases now on record within this section is approximately 10,000.

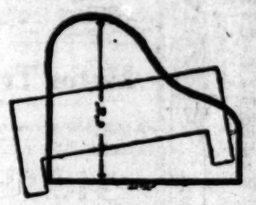
The Davenport-Treacy Small Grand Piano at $795 is the Logical Instrument for the Apartment or Bungalow Home

—it gracefully combines convenience in size, beauty of line and wonderful quality of tone. It possesses the graceful appearance of the concert grand, yet it occupies no more room than an ordinary upright piano.

The Davenport-Treacy has won a large and enthusiastic following among people whose homes are restricted in size yet whose musical requirements are of the highest.



The accompanying diagram shows the floor space occupied by the Davenport-Treacy Small Grand compared with that required by an upright piano. We will be glad to send you a paper floor plan showing how adaptable the Davenport-Treacy is to your home. We shall be glad to demonstrate the Davenport-Treacy to you.

August in the Snows

A wonder trip by auto stage over the Tioga Route

August—September—Indian Summer—with their sparkling days and star bright nights, mean in Yosemite National Park, wildflowers, trout streams, snow peaks and mountain climbing—all at their best.

That's why the great Yosemite-Lake Tahoe Auto Stage Circuit Tour, operated daily in both directions, July 15—September 15, along the safe Tioga Pass Route among the snow peaks and the pinnacles of the Sierra Nevada mountains, is especially alluring in the late Summer. Its 265 miles of fascinating travel are packed with mountains, glaciers, lakes and forests.

This Circuit Tour may be bought with your Summer Excursion railroad ticket.

Remember—August and September are "midsummer" months in Yosemite.

Bay City Bricklayers Are Now Idle.

Plumbers, Sheet Metal Men May Also Quit.

Organizer Will Ask Union to Reconsider.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SAN FRANCISCO, July 18.—While building activity was being resumed in Alameda county, the building trades controversy in San Francisco developed new complications, when the union bricklayers on city construction work walked out in sympathy with the building trades mechanics who have been out the last two months in a wage and working conditions dispute with the Builders' Exchange here.

Two more unions, it is said, the plumbers' and the sheet metal workers', contemplate similar action.

Alarmed by the health menace to the city occasioned by the walkout, as the bricklayers are principally employed on sewer construction and repair, Timothy A. Reardon, president of the Board of Public Works, summoned James Duffy, international organizer of the bricklayers, to a conference.

The result of this meeting was that Duffy announced he would ask the union to reconsider its action at a meeting tomorrow night.

PLANS DRASTIC STEPS.

About twenty bricklayers have been employed on city jobs since the beginning of the building trades trouble about two months ago. Saturday night it was voted to call out these men to further the cause of the men already out. Reardon says that in view of the fact that the public health is endangered by the walkout, he will take drastic steps to have the bricklaying work continued.

"If the union bricklayers do not care to do the job, we will have to find men who will," Reardon said.

P. H. McCarthy, president of the Building Trades Council, said the bricklayers had walked out because their continuance at work was aiding the building materials dealers, who are allied with the Builders' Exchange in the present controversy.

"If the material dealers refuse to furnish our organization with supplies they should not be permitted to furnish supplies to any one else," is the way the unions look at it, according to McCarthy.

CIVIL SERVICE EMPLOYEES.

All of the bricklayers who left the city jobs were civil service employees. According to Reardon, they have jeopardized their civil service standing by so doing. Union officials said it was the first time in twenty years that civil service employees of the city had been called out in labor troubles.

Building operations in Alameda county were resumed this morning, the mechanics returning to work under a 7½ per cent wage reduction and the Builders' Exchange plan of employment.

J. Donohue, president of the Alameda County Building Trades Council, said that members of all building trades unions were going back to the job today.

"Until late today," he said, "it will be impossible to tell accurately to just what extent building activity has been resumed. We expect, however, to see all our men back on the jobs."

WILL KEEP UP FIGHT AGAINST MINE UNION.

OPERATORS EXPRESS THEIR DETERMINATION BEFORE SENATE BODY.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, July 18.—Determination of coal operators in the Mingo (W. Va.) field to continue their resistence to efforts to unionize miners was expressed today before the Senate investigation committee by Harry Olmsted, representing the operators in the territory where disorders have occurred.

"The reputation of the United Mine Workers' organization," declared Mr. Olmsted, the only witness heard, "for breaking its contracts and halting or suspending the operation of mines for weeks at a time without just reason or excuse, has become notorious in the history of industry."

Operators in the Mingo region, he said, also oppose the miners' union "because of the conspiracy entered into between that organization and the operators of four competitive States—Indiana, Illinois, Ohio and Western Pennsylvania—wherein it was proposed that the output from West Virginia should not be permitted to grow, but should be suppressed, by means of unionizing, in order that the market might be retained by the competitors of the four States."

SENATE EARS DEAF TO PLEA OF DRYS.

ANTI-MEDICAL BEER BILL IS SIDETRACKED IN FAVOR OF FARMER RELIEF.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, July 18.—Pleas for immediate enactment of the Willis-Campbell antimedical beer bill fell on deaf ears today in the Senate which, by a vote of 47 to 17, decided to give priority to the Norris farm export finance bill.

Delay and not defeat of the beer bill, it was said, would result, the Senate vote being regarded as expressing the view that aid to farmers was more of an emergency than amendment of the Volstead law.

By making the Norris bill, to create a Federal corporation with $100,000,000 of capital and power to issue $1,000,000,000 of securities in financing farm exports, its unfinished business with daily privileged status, the Senate somewhat set its future program. During the week the Senate expects to pass the Sheppard "baby bill" for government aid to maternity and infancy. Other measures in immediate prospect are the Sweet bill to co-ordinate soldier relief agencies, the administration bill for refunding the Allied debts and several more farmer relief measures.

JAP POLITICIANS PURSUING PEACE.

LIVERPOOL, July 18.—A Japanese delegation representing all political parties arrived here today from New York after a visit to the United States. Take Tauaka of Tokio, explained in behalf of the delegation that the members were traveling for pleasure only, but said:

"We want peace in the world and if we can find an opening for speeding peace we will avail ourselves of it. Japan is rejoicing in President Harding's proposal for a conference on disarmament and the majority of our people are hoping for a grand alliance between America, Japan and Great Britain."

YANK YACHT SAILS ATLANTIC TO COWES.

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE.]

COWES, July 18.—The American schooner - rigged yacht Diablesa, which is only thirty-nine feet long on the water line and of twenty-one tons displacement, arrived here today after crossing 4000 miles of Atlantic Ocean in thirty-three days.

The party which crossed in the vessel consisted of Mr. and Mrs. John B. Kelly of New York, Egmont Arons of New York, their guest, and Capt. Opfer, a Swedish navigator. Mr. Kelly came especially to see the yacht races for the British-American cup.

PHOENIX SWIMS IN THE CANALS.

Night Diversion Also Found in Salt River.

Gila County Plans to Take Big Dam Project.

Serve Notice of Forthcoming $2,000,000 Levy.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PHOENIX, July 18.—Phoenix citizens' nightly diversion in bathing in Salt River and the canals, as well as in the resort swimming pools, during the summer months. Evenings the canals for miles are full of bathers, usually brought from their homes by automobiles. A feature of a new automobile camp to be established by the municipality is to be provision of swimming facilities in the town canal.

FAVORITE HOLE.

A favorite resort is a pool in the river at the head of the Consolidated Canal, a few miles east of the city. Till within a few years past, bathing in the canals has been forbidden. Now there is exercised only police supervision, to assure a degree of conservative attire, and the bathers within the city limits are cleared out at 10 p. m. Some doubt has been expressed concerning the healthfulness of immersion in the ditch water, which now is carrying much vegetable matter. The Chamber of Commerce has asked one of its directors, Dr. A. M. Tuthill, to make examination, for bacteria, of the water of the several canals.

TO TAX DAM.

Notice has been served by the supervisors of Gila county to the State Tax Commission of intention to tax at $2,000,000 that part of the Roosevelt dam lying within Gila county, this with consideration of the fact that a large quantity of taxpaying farming land was covered by the waters of Roosevelt Lake. If the contention be sustained, there would need be payment of $30,000 annually to Gila county by the Salt River Valley Water Users' Association. The Tax Commission thus far sees no way for admission of the claim, for the title to the dam, reservoir and works remains in the United States till final payment is made, possibly twenty years hence.

THOUSANDS NEEDED.

The city budget for Phoenix calls for collection of $934,000 during the current fiscal year, two-thirds of the sum from direct taxation on a property valuation of $47,428,000.

Maricopa county will reduce taxes 10 per cent this year, on a valuation of about $122,000, compared with about $135,000 last year. Within the county are 290,200 acres of irrigated lands, valued at $37,000,000 and 453,000 acres of dry lands, valued at $5,300,000. Even greater than the last item is the valuation placed upon the county's 12,470 automobiles, $6,147,000. The railroads are assessed at $11,000,000. Milk cows are increasing fast, now numbering $709, with $423,000 valuation. Where once were bout 6000 ostriches now can be found only 27 of the giant birds given a gross valuation of $135.

CUT APPROPRIATION.

If Pima county conditions are such that $100,000 more must be raised for the expenses of county administration, which will need about $871,000. The county appropriation for the Tucson Chamber of Commerce has been cut from $3000 to $100 per anum.

Miami has prepared during the drought for the coming of floods of the future. The city street committee has had $55 check dams constructed in all the little canyons and gulches above the city, to impede the flow and to aid in underground storage. The gross cost was only $909.

Bisbee, distinguished as the largest city in the United States without mail carrier service and also as the postoffice with the largest number of lock boxes, now is proceeding through its city government toward free delivery. Its houses are to be numbered and its rambling hillside streets are to have clear designation.

BANDIT ENDS LIFE AS HE IS PURSUED.

Fails in Attempted Hold-up and Then Fires Bullet into Head in Street.

SPOKANE (Wash.) July 18.—An unidentified man shot and killed himself on Sprague avenue, in the business district, this afternoon, after he had failed in an attempt to hold up and rob C. H. Bodden of the National Amusement Company, operating a concession at a local amusement park, and officers and bystanders had taken up a chase after him.

Bodden told the police that the man stepped up beside him as he left a street car, near the old National Bank, carrying a satchel containing $1000, and commanded him to walk quietly into a near-by alley. When Bodden struck his gun aside, the attention of passers-by was attracted and the would-be hold-up man started to run.

After a pursuit of several blocks by Special Officer Smith of the Northern Pacific Railway, and others, the man shot himself through the temple, dying instantly. Officer Smith fired a shot at the fleeing man during the chase, but Steward Milburn of the City Emergency Hospital, who examined the wound, stated that he was positive it was self-inflicted.

The dead man later was identified by Sergt. Walter Hogan of the local police department as John C. Margelin, an ex-convict.

TROUBLES MULTIPLY IN BRATTON FAMILY.

HUSBAND GOES TO JAIL AS WIFE COMPLETES HER SENTENCE.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

POMONA, July 18.—Pleading guilty to a charge of embezzlement, A. R. Bratton was sentenced to spend the next six months in the county jail by Judge U. E. White in the local Justice Court this morning.

Bratton was arrested in Chino yesterday after a chase leading through nearly every Southern California city. Bratton was charged with having sold a vacuum cleaner to many women and in every case returned the next day to borrow the machine to demonstrate to another party. He never returned the cleaner after borrowing it.

A short time ago domestic troubles with Bratton came to a climax, his wife charging him with contributing to the delinquency of his minor children and to the delinquency of a minor girl with whom he traveled around the country.

Mrs. Bratton had just completed two weeks' sentence in the County Jail on a disturbance charge for breaking up a ball game while attempting to capture her husband who was playing on one of the teams. The wife declares she will press the delinquency charges as soon as Bratton has completed the present sentence.

FORMING NEW BANK TO SUCCEED FAILURE.

NEW SEATTLE INSTITUTION WILL ASSUME SCANDINAVIAN AMERICAN DEBTS.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SEATTLE, July 18.—Formation of a new bank with a capital of $1,212,000 to assume deposit liability of the Scandianavian-American Bank of Seattle, which closed its doors recently, was decided upon at a meeting of more than 100 members of the Washington Bank Depositors' Guaranty Fund system, it was announced today.

Bankers who attended the meeting, which was held yesterday and this morning, said that under the plan of organization contemplated, depositors of the Scandinavian-American Bank would recover a large percentage of their deposits.

The Scandinavian-American Bank, with a capital and surplus of $1,256,000 and deposits totaling more than $11,000,000, closed its doors July 1 after its affairs had been turned over to the State Banking Department.

Shrinkage of values during the last year and a half and abnormal deposit decreases were given as reasons for the suspension.

MEXICAN REVOLT ENDED.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

MEXICO CITY, July 18.—The revolt headed by Gen. Martines Herrera in the Tampico oil region has apparently broken down without the firing of a shot. Herrera's request that he be permitted to surrender has resulted in an order for the disarming of his followers who are said to number about 150. It is possible that President Obregon, who is at San Luis Potosi, will give instructions from there as to the disposition of the insurgent general.

DAILY TRADE TALK.

New Note in Road Building; Electricity for Bear Valley; Current Topics.

BY CHAPIN HALL.

When California entered upon its marvelous campaign of road building it only started something, and when it authorized the expenditure of two score millions to continue the work, it did little more than to express its approval of the general proposition that good roads are an essential to commercial advancement.

As a matter of cold fact the good-road problem is more of a problem than it ever was, and to the solution of it has been brought the best thought of empire builders and financiers.

Out of the experience, which the years have taught a few facts stand pre-eminent and self-evident. The first is that California must have not only good roads, but better roads, and the second is that these new and better roads must be built directly by the communities most benefited, and the third is that they must be roads commercially practicable; capable of sustaining heavy and continuous traffic with little or no upkeep.

Every autoist and every shipper knows now that the early specifications will not do. Heavy freight trains cannot be safely or economically operated over a road bed built for light trolley cars. Yet that is just what the bulk of California roads are called upon to do. When most of these roads were built there was no anticipation of the tremendous strides which the automotive industry has taken, and but little consideration was given to the probability that huge trucks, laden to almost freight car capacity, would supplant the railroads as short haul carriers, or that the passenger traffic alone would increase from ten to twenty-fold.

EIGHT INCHES AND FORGET IT.

As a result it is going to be necessary within the next few years to rebuild a large part of the earlier construction, and to this end much of the State's activities and finances must be directed. Already many miles of "good roads" are in reality very bad roads, and the process of disintegration is going on rapidly.

Kern county is the first to see and properly interpret the handwriting upon the wall, and within that shrievalty a system of roads is being constructed, which will stay put and carry the load. Kern has adopted a striking motto in its road program, "eight inches and forget it."

This means construction of concrete highways on an eight-inch base without drown. In other words they are nonskid, and with turns banked so perfectly that the legal speed may be maintained with safety and without strain on car or driver.

The same labor will build this type of road in almost the same time. The difference is in the additional material going into the base, but it is a difference which is expected to practically eliminate patching and repairs, and will stand up under the heaviest traffic and the gruelling demands of present day and future requirements. It means bringing the roadbed up to the standard set by the rolling stock and "eight inches and forget it" may well become a slogan with State-wide application.

FINANCING THE JOB.

Just as we are learning the lesson of construction, so the problems of financing are being worked out. There must always be the great main arteries of travel built and maintained by the State, but more and more the individual needs of the separate communities are being met by the road district plan, which appears to be the scientific and logical method of getting what is wanted when it is wanted.

Under this arrangement a road district is set up on proper representation to the Supervisors of the county, a public hearing is held, differences adjudicated and adjusted and assessment levied. The legality of such assessment has been fully approved by the courts and has the o.k. of the leading legal bond experts of the country. The bonds are in every particular just as good as school bonds or any other recognised financial obligation of the county, have the same exemptions, and are backed by the full taxing strength, assessed, levied and collected in the same manner as other taxes.

For the purpose of financing and specializing in these new road improvement bonds there has been formed in Los Angeles the District Bond Company, an organization of well-known business men to whom the possibilities of this almost virgin field of financing made a strong appeal.

This company has established offices at 508 Title Insurance Building, and has an authorized capital of $250,000, of which $207,700 was issued and fully paid on July 1. In its announcement the company states its purpose to deal in municipal securities and to specialize in California road improvement district bonds. "In our opinion," it is said, "the building of paved roads for commercial purposes is one of the most important factors in the economic development of the State."

ROADS THAT STAY PUT.

The company already has a number of attractive issues in maturities of from one to twelve years, and from 6 to 6½ per cent, according to the life of the bond, and other important issues are under contemplation. Every item of the proposed road is closely investigated, and in addition to the perfect legal security insistence is made upon the permanent character of the improvement, which must be primarily for commercial development.

In discussing the new and interesting organization, Harry Lee Martin, president of the company, said: "The prevailing tendency toward a lowering of interest rates generally will have a beneficial effect upon our business, and our situation can be correctly described as satisfactory."

Other officers and directors are John H. Coverly, first vice-president; George A. Rogers, second vice-president; Charles Lloyd, treasurer; E. L. Clymer, secretary; Trigg Carner, Austin O. Martin and Hartley Shaw.

In addition to these gentlemen the list of stockholders includes W. H. Allen, Jr., O. F. Bryant, Harry Chandler, O. P. Clark, F. G. Cruickshank, Edward A. Dickson, Herbert M. Haskell, William Hicks, Eric M. Leaf, Frank X. Pfaffinger and M. H. Sherman.

KERN COUNTY ISSUE.

The District Bond Company is offering today a $312,000 issue of Kern county road improvement district No. 14 bonds exempt from all taxes in California, exempt from all income taxes and certified as legal investment for savings banks in California.

The district lies between Bakersfield and Taft, embrace an area of over 62,000 acres, and taps the Elk Hills oil field. The assessed valuation of land is more than $14,000,000 and the per cent of debt, 2.51. The bonds are fully approved and mature at the rate of $26,000 per year from 1922 to 1933 priced to net from 6½ to 6 per cent according to maturity.

The road, to defray the cost of which these bonds are issued, is about seven and one-half miles long, runs northeasterly from Taft toward Bakersfield, is of concrete and has, as now completed, a width of eighteen feet minimum, twenty-four feet maximum, and a minimum thickness of nine and one-half inches. It is designed, and is able, to carry durable, heavy traffic of any kind.

STOCK EXCHANGE REPORT.

The Los Angeles Stock Exchange report for the six months period ended June 30 shows a turnover of 5,814,947 shares of stock having a total value of $7,892,097.43. This is in addition to 18,613 bonds valued at $6,745,020.00. In the stock list by far the largest value was in the oils which involved transactions totalling $4,983,201.86 for 2,697,291 shares. Because of heavy trading at times in low priced mining stocks a larger volume of shares was traded in (2,927,666) but the value was only $1,911,241.50. Industrials were second on the list in point of value with a total of $1,727,740.82 for 179,270 shares. In bank stocks 720 shares were traded in to a value of $169,913.25.

The heaviest trader in bonds was Liberty fourth 4¼s with a sales record of 6167 and a total valuation of $2,446,061.74. This issue ranged from a high of 88 3-8 to a low of 85 3-8. The most popular corporation bond was the Union Oil at 5 per cents.

In the oil list, Union of California holds first place in value, 10,743 shares changing hands for a total of $1,613,060.58, all the way from 128 to 177, a range of forty-nine points in six months. General Petroleum was the only other oil to get into the $1,000,000 class. In point of volume Republic Petroleum is first with a turnover of 1,196,108 shares.

In mines United Eastern leads with a value of $425,464.21 for 170,602 shares. Tom Reed is second, $64,-073 shares going over the board for $263,250.89. The heaviest trader so far as volume is concerned was Gold Ore with 846,140 shares.

Industrialy Southern California Edison common is the leader for the period. With a range from 86.00 to 94.00, shares to the number of 7154 brought $652,094.03. Goodyear preferred was second, 7903 shares netting $426,192.13 the range being from 44.50 to 67.00. Globe Grain & Milling common had the great fluctuation from a low of $1.00 to a high of 75.00. The heaviest trader in point of volume was Los Angeles Investment, 147,945 shares bringin $199,731.40 within a range of from 75 to 90 cents.

STATE HIGHWAY BONDS.

Following the preliminary announcement last week details of the purchase by Blyth, Witter & Co., and the Anglo and London-Paris National Bank and eastern associates of a block of $4,878,000 State of California 5½ per cent highway bonds were received yesterday at the Los Angeles office of the syndicate member. The bid carried a premium of $19,550, equivalent to a price of 100.40. The Bank of Italy was the only other bidder.

According to market observers this was the largest sale of State bonds since the war and represents the lowest level in thirty years. In 1912 California State bonds sold on a 3.90 per cent return basis. Between 1913 and 1915 the fluctuations were between 4 and 4 1-4 per cent income and in 1917 back to a 4.50 basis. Beginning with 1918 the trend was steadily downward ranging a net return of from 4.75 per cent to 5 per cent in 1920 to 5.75 for the current offering.

CALIFORNIA'S VALUATION.

California's value, based on property subject to taxation and the assessments of 1919-20 is $9,288,945,-589, according to the annual report of the financial transactions of cities and counties for 1920, made public by Deputy State Controller Claude E. Cooper. The total assessed value is $4,581,588,324, which the Board of Equalization fixes as 49 per cent of the actual wealth of the State exclusive of properties exempt from taxation, such as church property, school property, veterans' exemption, etc. Exemptions under the veterans' exemption law alone are shown to amount to $13,361,786.

The total assessment for cities is given in the report as $2,679,362,498, as against $1,640,991,850 in 1911, an increase of 63 per cent, while the assessment roll of the counties is shown to be $3,732,509,322, compared to $2,599,916,690 in 1921, an increase of 43 per cent.

The percentage of increase in both receipts and expenditures for State, counties and cities for the period 1911 to 1920 is shown as follows:

State—Expenditures, 243 per cent; receipts, 228 per cent.

County—Expenditures, 207 per cent; receipts, 253 per cent.

City—Expenditures, 75 per cent; receipts, 90 per cent.

State receipts (in 1920) $59,743,897.86; expenditures, $61,908,-139.73.

County receipts, $146,034,045.41; expenditures, $120,655,643.80.

City receipts, $88,985,538.36; expenditures, $76,747,095.88.

The report shows the bonded debt of the cities in California to be $142,189,039.36 and that of the counties to be $94,663,069.20, and the State, $50,259,500.

NEW ISSUE OF LAND BONDS.

Cyrus Peirce & Co. and the Bank of Italy are jointly offering $500,-000 first mortgage 8 per cent sinking fund gold bonds of the Wood Live Stock Company, the largest individual sheep outfit in the United States.

The Wood Live Stock Company has grown from a capital of $25,000 in 1887 to a present net worth of over $3,000,000 through reinvestment of earnings. The prominence of its president, F. J. Hagenbarth, lends added interest to the issue. Mr. Hagenbarth was for several years president of the National Live Stock Association; for the past nine years has been president of the National Wool Growers' Association, and during the war was chairman of the live-stock section of the Hoover Food Administration. Mr. Hagenbarth and his stepbrother, Mr. Hugh C. Wood, have been continuously in charge of the operations of the Wood Live Stock Company since 1887. For thirty-four years the company has been a leader in the sheep business; was the first to import pure-bred animals; was the first to use mechanical shearing machines; was the first to employ an expert grader at the shearing pens, and was the first to ship lambs to market, the first shipment being made in 1888 consisting of 3000 head to Omaha and Chicago.

The company owns 100,000 head of sheep, over 5000 head of cattle, over 1000 head of horses.

The bonds which the Bank of Italy and Cyrus Peirce & Co. are offering are a first mortgage on 56,-697 acres of land located in Idaho and Montana. As long as any bonds are outstanding the company must maintain net quick assets of at least 150 per cent of the bonds outstanding. The bonds mature July 15, 1933, and are redeemable on any interest date at 105 and accrued interest.

BOND REDEMPTION.

The Copper Export Association, Inc., has called for redemption $1,000,000 of its 8 per cent notes, due Feb. 15, 1922. These bonds have been called for payment at 101 and accrued interest as of Aug. 15, 1921. A list of the numbers of the notes which have been called has been received by E. H. Rollins & Sons, who will be glad to furnish information concerning them.

LAST TAX DAY.

Capital stock tax returns must be filed not later than July 31, to avoid penalty. This is a special excise tax imposed on corporations with respect to "carrying on or doing business." The tax on domestic corporations is $1 for each $1000 in excess of $5000 of the fair average value of its capital stock for the preceding year ended June 30. Foreign corporations are required to pay a tax at the rate

WHEAT EXPORT RECORD.

The United States made its highest record in supplying breadstuffs to the world in the fiscal year just ended. Of wheat, which the world must have, and will find some way of buying irrespective of other conditions, the exports were the "biggest ever," totaling in round terms, 365,000,000 bushels, an average of 1,000,000 bushels a day for the full year, as against a former high record of 332,000,000 in the fiscal year 1915.

Of corn the export record of the year was far above the average for the past decade, and in rye, which we no longer use for distillation purposes and of which the world's chief producing areas in Russia, Poland and Germany have been cut off from world markets, our exports in 1921 far exceeded that of any earlier year.

The United States has surprised itself and certain of its economists, says a statement by the National City Bank of New York, by supplying to the outside world more breadstuffs than in any earlier year, despite the current belief that with the growth of our own consuming population the quantity we should be able to spare for other parts of the world would decline.

Wheat exports for the fiscal year 1921, including flour in terms of wheat, total approximately $65,000,-000 bushels; corn over $0,000,000; rye nearly $0,000,000, and of rice, of which we were, until recent years very small producers and large importers, the exports of the year total over 400,000,000 pounds, and are larger than those of any earlier year except 1920.

This large distribution of wheat by the United States has been due in some degree to the fact that the wheat imports of the year have been larger than ever, aggregating nearly 60,000,000 bushels as against the former high record of about 30,-000,000 bushels in 1918, but nevertheless the quantity of genuine United States wheat passing to the outside world is far in excess of any earlier year, and the proportion of the 1920 crop which we have sent abroad in the fiscal year 1921 is probably larger than in any earlier year, despite the considerable "carry-over" from the 1919 crop.

Europe, of course, took the bulk of this high record total of our wheat exports in the fiscal year just ended. The quantity sent to the United Kingdom alone was slightly more than 100,000,000 bushels as against about 60,000,000 in the immediately preceding year, these figures also including the flour stated in terms of wheat.

Italy ranked next to Great Britain, the wheat sent to Italy in the fiscal year 1921 aggregating nearly 60,000,000 bushels as against approximately 30,000,000 in the immediately preceding year; Germany, 34,000,000 bushels; France, 25,000,-000, and Belgium, 25,000,000 bushels.

Of the 365,000,000 bushels exported in the fiscal year 1920, Europe took slightly more than 300,-000,000 bushels, the remainder going to Canada, Latin America, Asia, Africa, and the Pacific islands, but chiefly in the form of flour. The percentage of the wheat exports which went in the form of flour in 1921 is exceptionally low, as is usually the case when very large quantities of wheat are being exported, the proportion of the total exports which our millers turn into flour before its distribution, being smaller in years of heavy exportations than in those in which the total quantity of wheat exported is small.

The proportion of this high record of wheat exports which went in the form of flour is little more than 20 per cent as against over 40 per cent in the immediately preceding year when the total exports of wheat (including flour) were only 220,000,000 bushels as against 365,000,000 in the fiscal year just ended.

While the price per bushel at which the exports of 1921 went abroad averaged less than in 1920, the total value of our wheat exports in the year just ended far exceeds that of any earlier year, totaling about $840,000,000, (including flour in terms of wheat) against $493,000,-000 in 1919, the former high record year.

During the actual operations of the war the value of wheat and flour exports never passed the $400,000,-000 link except in 1918 when it stood at $429,000,000.

The price at which United States wheat has been exported in recent years averaged 95 cents a bushel in 1914; $1.25 in 1915 and 1916; $1.99 in 1917; $2.37 in 1918 and 1919; $2.50 in 1920, and in the fiscal year 1921 ranged downward from $2.96 per bushel in July, 1920, to $2.13 in January, 1921, $2 per bushel in February; $1.92 in March; $1.67 in April, and $1.40 in May, the latest month for which official figures of price exportation are available.

Wheat exports in the seven years since the beginning of the war are two and one-half times as much as in the seven years preceding the war.

Today's Prices

UNDER certain abnormal conditions any commodity may for a time sell at bargain prices. The buyer of future income has for some time past had the advantage of very low bond prices and correspondingly high yield.

Bargain prices in bonds, however, like all other bargain prices, are a temporary phenomena.

That the present low prices of high-grade bonds may before very long be a thing of the past is an opinion widely held among conservative minds in the investment world.

Good Income for Idle Funds
SECURITY of principal is the prime requisite of all investments. We believe the present issue of First Mortgage 8% Bonds of BABBITT BROS. LANDS, INC., is a security offering that meets the demands of the conservative and conservative investor.
The total net assets directly and indirectly securing the First Mortgage Bonds aggregate nearly five times the entire amount of this issue, which is the sole Funded Debt of the Company. Earnings available for interest payments and sinking fund of the loan have averaged over 2.5 times requirements for the past five years.
The Bonds are further sold subject to certification as a Legal Investment for Savings Banks in California, which means that they are sold subject to the investigation and approval of the State Banking Department.
These Bonds are available in denominations of $500 and $1000. Normal Federal Income Tax not exceeding 3% will be paid by the Company.

NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE

NEW YORK, July 18.—Business on the stock market today totalled scarcely 335,000 shares. Irregular price movements revealed weakness in certain specialties and comparative steadiness in seasoned issues.

Atlantic Gulf, under constant pressure in connection with litigation involving the company's finances, made an extreme decline of 3¼ points. Mexican Petroleum gained 3 points at one time but reacted sharply on heavy offerings, finishing at a loss of 3¼ points.

Representative steels, equipment and motors resisted pressure, as well as specialties in the leather, textile and sugar groups. Sugars were sustained by prospects of a loan to Cuban growers. Rails moved within contracted limits, some leaders being unquoted.

News over the week end offered little incentive to the long account. Foreign exchanges were more unsettled. Demand sterling registered a new low quotation for the year at 359 3-8. French, Italian, Swiss, Dutch and German rates fell four to ten points, with losses of 17 to 50 points in remittances to Denmark, Norway and Sweden.

Last week's loss of cash reserves by clearing house banks failed to disturb local money rates. On the exchange all call loans were made at 6 per cent and the little time money available was offered at the same figure. Some outside loans were made at 6½ per cent both on call and time. Liberty issues showed mixed gains and losses on small dealings and the remainder of the bond list was equally irregular, including foreign flotations. Total sales, par value, $7,490,000.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, July 18.—The New York cotton market responded to firm cables and large sales of the spot article at Liverpool with an initial advance of 5 to 19 points. The demand came mostly from Liverpool. Wall street and local houses, while the South and spot interests sold. After the start the list held well on support from commission houses, retaining its early gains, which, however, were not as great as many had expected in view of the strength at Liverpool.

ADDITIONAL WEAKNESS IN GRAIN MARKETS.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO, July 18.—Additional weakness as the session progressed was witnessed in the grain markets and the close for all grains save rye was at lowest points. Liquidation, on large sale and further profit-taking sales as well as hedging operations were features. A private message stating that the Department of Agriculture estimates the Oklahoma wheat crop at 50,000,000 bushels, or 12,000,000 to 18,000,000 bushels more than the last government figure, the heavy movement from the interior to all terminal markets, elevator situation locally and forecasts for cooler weather in all parts of the belt, furnished the incentive for the selling. Wheat at the finish was 1¢ to 1⅞ lower, corn 1⅛@1¾ lower, oats ⅛@⅜ lower and rye 6c off. Provisions were irregular, pork showing a gain of 5@10 while lard and ribs declined 17½.

Hedging sales were 125,000 bushels, including 100,000 bushels to exporters, 75,000 bushels sorts, 350,000 bushels cash and 5000 bushels by seller. Yesterday's

A & T Production

Production is the final goal which every oil company aims at. For production means success and wealth.

A & T has production from nineteen wells, right at the start. Fifteen of these wells are in the famous Kern River field, Kern County, California. Four are in Ventura County, California. The unretouched photograph above shows the A & T Oil Company's 15 producing wells in Kern County.

The A & T Oil Company is capitalized for $750,000, of which only $350,000.00 is being sold, at par value of 10c a share. The stock is non-assessable and the A & T by-laws compel directors to declare 75% of all surplus profits in the form of dividends to stockholders.

of $1 for each $1000 of their capital employed in the United States without the benefit of the $5000 deduction. Returns are required of every corporation regardless of the par value of its capital stock. The Bureau of Internal Revenue estimates that approximately 325,000 such returns will be filed, and that the amount of revenue collected from this source will be about $90,000,000.

BEAR VALLEY UTILITY.

Bear Valley Utility Company, recently incorporated, has filed a petition with the Railroad Commission for a certificate of public necessity to build a power line and distributing system to supply Big Bear Valley with electricity, and to issue 400 shares of capital stock at $85 a share to finance the project. The company proposes to buy its electric energy from the Southern Sierras Power Company. The territory proposed to be served is described as a popular summer resort with a population from 3000 to 8000 in the vacation season. The company has a fifty-year franchise granted by the Board of Supervisors of San Bernardino county.

PENNSYLVANIA BONDS.

Hunter, Dulin & Co. have received notice from Kuhn, Loeb & Co., of New York, that the permanent bonds for the Pennsylvania Railroad fifteen-year 6½ per cent gold bonds, which were recently offered in the Los Angeles market are now ready for delivery in exchange for the temporary certificates.

UNPROFITABLE YEAR.

The San Diego and Arizona Railway Company operating for 156 miles in California reports to the Railroad Commission a net operating loss for 1920 of $716,528.90, and a net corporate loss of $956,712.99. The accumulated deficit at the end of the year amounted to $2,509,370.33.

TICKER TICKS.

Pullman company directors meet this week when the regular quarterly dividend of 2 per cent is expected to be declared.

Stock market just as thin yesterday as on Saturday. There was no initiative among the professionals and the absence of public speculation was noticable. There seems to be a large short interest in Mexican Pete.

Nothing like a definite price trend is in sight. No group of stocks seems to be in a position at present to start an upward movement while the scarcity of securities in the street makes the bears wary of adding materially to the prevailing short account.

Chevrolet Motors Company cuts prices, being second reduction within two months.

Toledo dispatch says Henry Ford is considering purchase of Toledo to Fort Wayne, Ind., division of Wabash Railroad.

Average prices 20 industrial 67.44, up .19; 20 rails, 70.33, up .01.

MILEY-KECK OIL COMPANY.—

To holders of Authorized, Subscribed and Issued Capital Stock of Miley-Keck Oil Company:

Please take notice that the following resolutions were duly adopted by the Board of Directors of Miley-Keck Oil Company at a regular meeting said Board duly convened and held July 8, 1921:

RESOLVED, That the Board of Directors of Miley-Keck Oil Company does hereby, by unanimous vote of all the members of said Board, in regular meeting assembled, order that a special meeting of the holders of the subscribed and issued capital stock of Miley-Keck Oil Company be called to be held at the principal place of business of the corporation in its building on Block 1800 of Tract No. 12, corner of Springfield Avenue and Lake Street, in the city of Huntington Beach, Orange County, California, at 10 a.m., of the 21st day of September, A.D. 1921, and also at Room 509, Union Oil Building, corner Spring and West Seventh Streets, in the city of Los Angeles, Los Angeles County, California, at 4 p.m., of the twenty-first (21st) day of September, A. D. 1921, said Union Oil Building being the building where the Board of Directors usually meets; and that the following resolutions, numbered I, II, and III, be submitted to said stockholders at each said meeting of said stockholders for adoption or rejection by said stockholders, as shall to them seem fit.

I. RESOLVED, That the capital stock of Miley-Keck Oil Company be and hereby is increased from the amount of One Million Dollars, divided into one million shares, each share having a par value of one dollar, to the amount of Two Million Dollars, divided into two million shares, each share having a par value of one dollar, and that all said capital stock shall be common capital stock.

II. RESOLVED, That the Sixth Article of the Articles of Incorporation of Miley-Keck Oil Company, dated December 11, 1920, be and hereby is amended so that, as amended, the same shall read as follows:

SIXTH: The amount of the capital stock of said corporation is Two Million Dollars ($2,000,000.00) and the number of shares into which it is divided is Two Million (2,000,000) shares, each share having a par value of One Dollar ($1.00). All of said capital stock is and shall be classified as common capital stock.

III. RESOLVED, That Article V of the By-laws be amended so that, as amended, the same shall read as follows:

Notices required to be given to stockholders or for other purposes, by publication, shall be published in Santa Ana Daily Evening Register, a newspaper published in Orange County, California.

RESOLVED, That notices of said meetings called to be held as above to given by the secretary to holders of authorized, subscribed and issued capital stock of Miley-Keck Oil Company, by publication, mailing and ; or otherwise, as required by law.

I, the undersigned, pursuant of the foregoing resolutions of the Board of Directors of Miley-Keck Oil Company, that is to say, of the holders of the authorized, subscribed and issued capital stock of Miley-Keck Oil Company, do hold at the principal place of business of the corporation in its building on Block 1800 of Tract No. 12, corner of Springfield Avenue and Lake Street, in the city of Huntington Beach, Orange County, California, at 10 a.m., of the 21st day of September, A. D., 1921, and will also be held at Room 509, Union Oil Building, corner Spring and West Seventh Streets, in the city of Los Angeles, Los Angeles County, California, at 4 p.m., of the 21st day of September, A. D., 1921, said Union Oil Building being the building where the Board of Directors usually meet; and that the following resolutions, numbered I, II, and III, be submitted to said stockholders at each said meeting of said stockholders for adoption or rejection by said stockholders, as shall to them seem fit.

Dated July 8, 1921.

HOWARD MORRIS,
Secretary of Miley-Keck Oil Company.

CITY PROSECUTOR CHARGES INTIMIDATION ATTEMPT.

Says Organizers Threatened Him for Ousting "The Clansman;" Little Progress Made by Order Here.

Coincidentally with reports of investigations by State and national authorities in the South into a series of attacks on men and women in which the victims were tarred and feathered by night riders in white masks and cloaks it became known yesterday that a Federal investigation into attempts to organize a branch of the Ku Klux Klan in Los Angeles is in progress here.

The Los Angeles investigation, it was learned by The Times, was started after City Prosecutor Widney had laid before the Federal authorities here charges that persons who said they represent the national Ku Klux Klan had attempted to sway his official acts and made statements to him which he construed as being of a threatening nature.

Assistant U. S. Attorney Green last night admitted that an investigation was ordered and is being conducted by him, but declined, at this time, to give any details other than to say that the Widney matter and other are still pending.

Mr. Green said that the activities of the organization in Los Angeles, as far as he knows, in no way approach the reports of those in the east and the south, mentioned in yesterday's press dispatches.

These include the reported tarring-and-feathering of a woman in Tenaha, Tex., and similar treatment of Phillip S. Irwin, white archdeacon of the Episcopal Church at Miami, Fla. The woman was suspected of bigamy. The minister, who is the head of the church's work among South Florida negroes, was accused of preaching social equality for the negroes.

MR. WIDNEY'S STATEMENT.

Mr. Widney's version of the affair now under investigation was as follows:

"Some time ago I was told that members of my office were being approached by a man who said he was one of the organizers of the Ku Klux Klan and asked to join the organization. He was told, among other things, that a number of public officials in and near Los Angeles are or will be members.

"Some time later, after the showing of the 'Clansmen' was discontinued here, a young man of livid appearance came into my office and proceeded to reproach me for taking any part in the removal of the picture from public exhibition. He did not at that time state who he was but left the impression that he was connected with a secret organization of some sort. Three days later the same young man, accompanied by two others, came in to see me. One of the other two said he was an attorney of Atlanta. This man upbraided me for my action in the 'Clansman matter, and made every effort to have me change my attitude. He said further that the picture would be shown in Los Angele even if he personally had to do the exhibiting. The gist of his remarks was that he considered it essential for the supremacy of the white race to exhibit that picture. He said he was the chief attorney for the Ku Klux Klan, and finally left, saying: 'You'll regret this.'

"The other two men took no part in the discussion.

"I considered his statements and attitude so uncalled for and so unmistakably threatening that I reported the matter to the Federal authorities."

All efforts to locate the attorney or anyone else connected with the organization of the Ku Klux Klan here were unsuccessful last night.

In press dispatches from Atlanta, Col. W. J. Simmons, organizer of the Klan and known as the Imperial Wizard of the Invisible Empire, Knights of the Ku Klux Klan, is quoted offering a reward for the information that would lead to any person who uses the name of the Ku Klux Klan in an unlawful manner or in connection with any purpose or movement not sanctioned by the law.

FROM FEDERAL OFFICIAL.

Asst. U. S. Atty. Green made the following statement:

"I cannot disclose the details of our investigation other than to say that the Widney matter is being investigated and that so far it does not appear that the Klan has made much progress in Los Angeles. So far as we have been able to learn those who have joined are mostly persons with grievances of some sort or another."

At the Bureau of Investigation, Department of Justice, Special Agent Sturgis said that the Ku Klux Klan like many other secret organizations has received the government's official attention, but that nothing definite has been disclosed. "My information is that there is very little activity in the Klan here," Mr. Sturgis said. He added that it appeared to be stronger in the northern part of the State.

TEXAS TO ACT.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

BEAUMONT (Tex.) July 18.—The Texas Legislature, which convened today in extra session is expected to make an investigation of the epidemic of assault upon citizens in various parts of the State by parties of masked men, in which the victims usually are tarred and feathered and later released upon the streets of the town or city of their residence. These incidents had their culmination Saturday and Sunday nights in the tarring and feathering near here of R. F. Scott, veteran of the marine service in the World War, and of Mrs. Beulah Johnson, at Tenaha, Shelby county. The assault upon Mrs. Johnson is the first one in which a woman has been a victim, alleged to have been in most instances committed by members of the revived Ku Klux Klan, the so-called "invisible empire."

The assault upon Scott took place in Orange county, but he was brought to Beaumont and released upon the streets after being held in the woods all day. He was severely beaten.

Reports from Tenaha, which is a small town railroad junction about 100 miles north of Beaumont, are that Mrs. Johnson has been arrested for bigamy and lodged in the Shelby County Jail, and it is thought the Brother of Killed Taxi Man Found Dead in River.

Slater Puzzle at San Diego Has Duplicate in North.

Lee Slater, taxicab driver, has been murdered near Spokane under almost identical circumstances that surrounded the murder in 1917 near San Diego of his brother, Edward F. Slater, taxicab driver. Eugene Slatre, said to have been still another brother, was shot and killed in 1918 in Wilmington.

Lee Slater's body was found yesterday in the Spokane River near Otis Orchards, fifteen miles east of Spokane. The hands and feet were tightly bound and he had been gagged. The case has the elements of a family feud.

Dispatches from Spokane said Lee Slater had been missing since Thursday night when about midnight he answered a call. This call evidently came from the persons that killed him, and the authorities are seeking them, but are hampered by few clews.

The case appears to be similar both in facts and the element of mystery to the murder of Edward F. Slater. In that case robbery was not a motive, for the driver's money and watch were found on the body. He had answered a call on the night of Nov. 8, 1917, and is known to have driven a lieutenant and two privates of the Colorado troops, then stationed at Camp Kearny, near San Diego. The body was found in Cabrill Canyon. The driver had been beaten to death with a crowbar.

The inquiry attempted to identify the officer and the soldiers, and also resulted in the detention of Slater's wife, who was located in Los Angeles, and of a man found in her company. But the investigators were unable to determine on any motive for the murder, which has remained a mystery.

It is believed that the murder of the brother will lead to an investigation that may unveil the events leading to the first murder.

Eugene Slater was shot by Leonardo Buelna, who was sent to the penitentiary. The shooting resulted from a quarrel, which lacked the similarity that characterizes the murders of Lee and Edward F. Slater.

SINGER :: WILL :: DEMAND :: BALM.

To Sue Man Who Filed Check Charge.

Miss Marguerite F. Kelly.

THE EMBEZZLEMENT case filed against Miss Marguerite F. Kelly, a lyric soprano, by J. O. Green, a retired business man, was dismissed by Judge Schenk yesterday, upon the motion of the District Attorney. Immediately following the dismissal Miss Kelly announced that her attorneys today will file a $50,000 damage suit against Mr. Green.

Miss Kelly, 22 years of age, is well known in Los Angeles as a singer. She was accused by Mr. Green last May of the embezzlement of two gold wrist watches, a gold watch, two rings, a lavalliere and a brooch, valued at $350, but she was not held on the charge. She was later held to answer on a charge of passing a $360 check on Mr. Green, and a $67 check on a pawnbroker, for neither of which there was sufficient funds in the bank.

During her first hearing, Mr. Green testified that he "had only been a father" to the girl, though she testified that he embraced her and tried to kiss her. She denied ever kissing him in return. This case was dismissed by Judge McCormick because the jury, standing eleven to one, could not agree.

When the case came up for a retrial yesterday it was again dismissed.

RADICAL DEMANDS MADE.

School Board Hears Teacher-Council Plan; Just Starter, Say Backers.

Prefacing their demands, which they admitted to be radical, with the statement that "this is but the initiative of what we hope to do," members of the "citizens' committee on school administration" last night appeared before the Board of Education with recommendations calling for a reorganization of the city's public school system, incuding the organization of "teacher-councils" empowered to pass upon the acts of the Superintendent of Schools and of the Board of Education itself.

The recommendations of the committee were essentially the same as those submitted to the citizens' organization by a committee of fifteen school-teachers, recommendations which, it was charged when the teachers' proposals first became public, would tend to "sovietize" educational procedure in Los Angeles.

Rev. E. P. Ryland was spokesman for the committee that waited upon the board. The statement that he read to the board members bore the following names, in addition to his own: John R. Haynes, Kemper Campbell, Frances M. Zahn, Mrs. Arthur S. Heineman, M. O. Graves, S. C. Graham, Josefa H. Tolhurst, Mabel Willebrandt, Mrs. Frances Blackburn and Mrs. Frances Noel.

JUST A STARTER.

Following Dr. Ryland's presentation of the committee's demands, coupled with his request for an early conference on the matter, Mr. Graves spoke briefly, asserting that the immediate objectives of the committee are "but the initiative of what we hope to do."

Mr. Graves further assured the members of the new board that the Citizens' Committee would seek changes in the city's educational system which, he said, "will not be revolutionary, but progressive."

Dr. Ryland, before reading his prepared statement, suggested to the board members that "possibly the organization of our Board of Education has not kept pace with the growth of our schools," he then added:

"We are conscious that we are recommending very radical changes, and yet we believe that they are changes that ought to be made."

DEMANDS OUTLINED.

In substance the demands of the citizens' committee were:

That all the work of the Board of Education be done in open meetings to which any citizen may have free access.

That the schools be organized with one executive head, the superintendent of schools.

That the depart heads of education, business, building, and so forth, be ranked as assistant superintendents.

That the Board of Education thus free itself, as far as possible, from the petty detail work and give itself in full measure to its high function of studying and shaping policies.

That the teaching body of our schools be officially recognized as an integral part of the school administration; that it be regularly utilized in an advisory capacity that it function through a system of teacher-councils represented at the conferences of the superintendent's staff and that it be given powers of initiative, council and review.

TEACHER-COUNCILS.

In the recommendations made by the teachers themselves, and indorsed by the citizens' committee, this passage occurs:

"As such organic part of the administration the teachers should function through a council for each of the teaching groups constituted in some democratic manner to be determined by the group. A representative from each council should sit at the conference table of the superintendent with her other assistants . . . No changes of policy or administrative plan should become operative until the teacher-councils have been notified and have had opportunity to be heard in criticism of the proposed changes."

It was this particular phase of the admittedly radical demands that resulted in a charge from various sources that certain radical elements within and without the school system are seeking a form of "educational soviet" in the Los Angeles schools.

The Board of Education took no action on the educational program of Dr. Ryland and his associates and the members of the board declined to comment on the plan.

FIRST SHIP OF LUMBER FLEET SAILS.

Hammond Says Others Will Start in Few Days Despite Maritime Unions.

With the sailing from San Francisco yesterday of the steam schooner Santa Alicia, first of the fleet of five ships of the Hammond Lumber Company to sail since the strike of May 1, A. B. Hammond, president of the company, stated yesterday that he expected his entire fleet to be in operation within the next few days.

With negotiations between the Shipowners' Association of the Pacific Coast and the representatives of the various maritime unions in a deadlock, the shipowners last Saturday decided to place a number of their steam schooners in operation with independent crews.

Mr. Hammond, who is looking over the lumber situation here, said last night that all his vessels will operate out of northern ports to Los Angeles Harbor, there being small demand for lumber at San Francisco on account of building trades labor troubles.

Preference will be given to union men in recruiting crews for the Hammond lumber fleet, although no agreement will be reached with the unions unless the latter agree to accept the final terms of wages and working conditions proposed by the Shipowners' Association last Saturday at San Francisco.

The remaining four vessels of the Hammond fleet are tied up at the company's wharves on Terminal Island.

Another Arrest in Connection With Cult Case.

Rev. George D. Cole, who has a house near the "Hilltop Helios" of Mme. Edith Maida Lessing, was arrested last night in connection with the case on a charge accusing him of vagrancy. The arrest was made by Detectives Posner and Adams. Bail was fixed at $500 and the prisoner at a late hour last night was trying to obtain the necessary sum.

Three distinct charges of criminal syndicalism are contained in a complaint issued yesterday by Dep. Dist.-Atty. McCartney against the Lessing woman, high priestess of the hilltop shack at Glassell Park, where, according to neighbors, weird ceremonies were performed nightly before a red-lighted altar.

At the City Jail, where Mme. Lessing has been since last Saturday, she declined to talk to reporters, saying that her attorney had forbidden her to discuss the affairs of "Helios." The so-called Red literature which was seized at the time of her arrest is held at police headquarters. Detectives are seeking to locate the printing establishments from which it came.

SAYS DIVORCE PACT BROKEN

When the separate maintenance suit of Mrs. Madeline Jones, against DeWitt C. Jones, wealthy retired hotel man of New York, came up for hearing in Judge Willis's court yesterday the tale of an asserted broken agreement drawn up by a youthful wife and her middle-aged husband to obtain a divorce was related.

Mrs. Jones is 25 years of age. Mr. Jones is 55. According to a statement made last night by D. Joseph Coyne, attorney for Mrs. Jones, she came to Los Angeles about a year ago, and the husband followed her. He purchased for her a beautiful home at 1128 El Molino street, where she now resides. Then, according to the young wife's story, she and her husband entered into an agreement whereby he was to obtain a divorce from her. She asserts that he promised that if she enabled him to get the decree he would present her with the Los Angeles property and protect her otherwise.

But, Mrs. Jones says, he broke the agreement. She charges him with obtaining at her expense the evidence which he has since used as the basis for a divorce complaint he filed last February in New York.

In his complaint Mr. Jones names George F. Shea, formerly a city fireman here. Depositions taken by Attorney William R. Law, representing Mr. Jones here, state that when the husband grew suspicious of his wife he employed private detectives to trail her.

Mr. Jones was formerly head of the Buckingham Hotel in New York. He retired from active business about a year ago, but is still residing in the East.

Judge Willis, sitting in Judge Wood's court at the hearing, which was conducted yesterday in the matter of alimony and attorney's fees, took the case under advisement and will later set the date for trial.

GARBAGE HOG-FEEDING BATTLE IN NEW PHASE.

Contractors Give Up Montebello Land and Lease El Monte Site; City May Have to Seize Reduction Plant.

As the result of the opposition of County Health Officer Pomeroy, coupled with the protests of residents of Montebello and other near-by cities, plans for the proposed garbage hog-feeding farm, which G. W. Whitman, John P. Steele and their associates intended to establish on the Reppto ranch property, have been abandoned, it became known yesterday. Mr. Whitman has received the contract to accept on August 1 for a period of ten years all of the garbage collected in the city of Los Angeles, for which he agrees to pay the city at the rate of 96 cents a ton. Garbage is now being collected at the rate of between 250 and 300 tons a day.

Following the visit of County Health Officer Pomeroy to the proposed location of the ranch and his declaration to the contractors that the property would not be approved for hog-feeding purposes, the contractors secured a lease on 409 acres included in the former Durbin hog-feeding farm near El Monte and Baldwin Park, around which centered the tremendous protest in 1911, which resulted in a county grand jury inquiry and finally the abandoning of the entire scheme of feeding Los Angeles garbage to hogs on the ground that it was a menace to the health of the people of Los Angeles county.

MAY SEIZE PLANT.

The new development in the Los Angeles garbage disposal situation further complicates an already dangerous situation, it is declared, with the possibility that unless the matter is decided by August 1 the city will be faced with the problem of not knowing what to do with the tons of garbage collected here daily. The Pacific Reduction Company, which now disposes of the garbage, is to close down its plant on that date by agreement with the City Council. In the event that the contractors are not able to handle the garbage, it is possible that the Board of Public Works may seize the plant of the Pacific Reduction Company and operate it as an emergency measure for the safety of the health of the people of the city.

Strangely enough, G. W. Whitman and his associates, whose bid of 96 cents a ton for the city's garbage was accepted as the last act of the old City Council, are not on record as having notified the Council or the Board of Public Works of the proposed change of location for the hog-feeding farm. In a letter to the Board of Public Works, dated June 30, and in a statement made to the City Council, Mr. Whitman said that he proposed to feed the garbage to hogs on a tract of 200 acres, which was a part of the Reppto, formerly the I. W. Hellman, ranch, near Montebello. As soon as this fact was made known, protests began to pour into the office of the Board of Supervisors and to County Health Officer Pomeroy from Montebello, Boyle Heights and other adjacent districts. Dr. Pomeroy's visit to the site convinced him that the contractors could not establish a farm there that would meet with the approval of the health officials.

WARNING BORNE OUT.

This proved the soundness of Dr. Pomeroy's warning to the City Council before they accepted the Whitman bid that the Councilmen were rushing into a scheme that stood in grave danger of being rejected by the county, leaving the city in a most dangerous condition as regarded the disposal of its garbage. The Councilmen did not heed Dr. Pomeroy's warning, but gave Whitman the contract and notified the Pacific Reduction Company to quit August 1, thus at the same time leaving the city no method of retreat or protection if the contractors were unable to handle the garbage.

The charge was openly made on the floor of the City Council that Japanese were behind the Whitman bid, and representatives of the bidder admitted that the garbage might be sold the Japanese. The first plan, it is said, was to have the Montebello farm act as a distributing station for the retailing of garbage to Japanese and other growers, but the contractors saw from the storm of protests which resulted that this plan could not be carried out and a new scheme of handling the city's garbage was adopted. According to John P. Steele, one of the promoters interested in the contract, five-acre tracts are to be leased at the old Durbin tract and raisers will bring their hogs there and feed them on Los Angeles city garbage.

"I have asked the contractors to withdraw their application for the Montebello location," said Dr. Pomeroy yesterday, "and in view of their statement that they have taken over the old Durbin ranch, I have inspected this property. It is more adaptable for hog-feeding purposes than the Montebello location, provided the most sanitary equipment

DOROTHY DIX TALKS

BY DOROTHY DIX.

A girl of 15 writes me that she is very much in love with a boy of 17 and that they are planning to elope, as their hard-hearted parents refuse to let them be married in the conventional manner. And she wants to know if I think she will be happy.

Not a chance of it, my dear! It needs no prophet to foretell that if you marry at 15 you will be divorced at 30 and that just about the time when the other girls of your age are having their coming-out parties you will be crawling in, broken-hearted and ashamed, to the home you are so eager now to leave.

The only certain thing about a child marriage is that it is bound to end in disaster and bring lifelong regrets to the two poor, silly young creatures, who gambled with their lives before they were old enough and wise enough to realize the risks they took, or how hazardous is the matrimonial game, and what skill and finesse it takes to play a winning hand in it.

Of all the follies that any human being, male or female, can commit, none equals the supreme idiocy of a very youthful marriage because it lacks every single, solitary thing upon which it is possible to build a house of happiness, or out of which you can construct a binding tie between a man and woman.

It lacks love. It lacks money. It lacks congeniality and suitability. It lacks self-control and experience of the world. It lacks satiety of the pleasures of youth. It lacks the desire to settle down and be about the business of life that is the real bed rock of domesticity.

If course any young girl who thinks she is in love will scorn me when I tell her that chicken love is the most ephemeral thing in the world, and that like the dew on the rose bud it vanishes while we are still looking at it. Nevertheless it is true, and because you like to dance with some boy whose step matches your own, or you dream about the way he sticks his hair back, or you thrill when he kisses you good night and holds your hand at the movies, is no sign you entertain a deathless affection for him.

Consider, my dear, the things you raved over last summer. Recall the boy at the beach that you thought just too cute for anything. Remember the sundaes you doted on, the frocks you were crazy about. How you despise them now! You smile with pity at the unsophisticated girl you were then. How your tastes have changed, improved! And how you would be bored to tears if you had to do the things, and wear the things you adored only a twelve-month ago.

Well, a husband isn't like a frock. You can't throw him into the discard, or wish him on a country cousin like you can a dress you have wearied of. Yet you can grow as sick of the sight of the man to whom you are married as you can of a year-before-last faded muslin. And believe me, little girl, life has no greater tragedy than to be tied to a husband who has nothing the matter with him except that you have just lost your taste for him.

So wait until you know what you want in a man, before you make your life selection. You don't know what you are going to be yourself yet. There is risk enough in matrimony, heaven knows, without taking any chances on yourself.

Furthermore, my child, it takes money to finance a marriage, and no very young man makes enough in these days to keep the wolf away from the door. All of this poetic boncombe about love being enough and living on kisses, is piffle. You will crave three square meals a day after marriage as much as you do before marriage, and take the same heart interest in clothes, and love the creature comforts just as much.

So will the lad you marry, and when you can't have them, and the bill collector begins hammering on the door, and you are shabby, and harassed with debts, you will quarrel, and wish to heaven you had had enough sense to stay single, until you really had the price of a marriage license.

And unless a man is a superman, gifted with actual financial genius, an early marriage is a handicap that keeps him at the foot of the ladder all his days. Every cent he can make, and more, is needed to run the home. He has no chance to get ahead, and soon his spirit and his ambition are broken, and he sinks into the drudge class. So, if you really love your boy sweetheart, give him a chance to win out. Let him get a start before you put the burden of a family on his back.

Don't marry until you have had your playtime of life. The only care-free time in a woman's whole existence is the little span between her school days and her wedding day. After that, no matter how good and kind a man she marries she is bound. There is always someone whose wishes she must consult before her own, someone whose happiness she must prefer before her own.

Don't marry until you have had all the idle flirtations you want, all the admiration from casual men you desire, all the dancing and gadding you crave. Have your fling before marriage instead of afterwards. That's only fair to the man, to yourself, and to the general public.

When you see a married woman who is giddy and flighty, who carries on clandestine affairs with men, who is flattered out of her wits by any attention from men, and who neglects her husband and her children, and her home to tear around madly to every party she is invited to, set it down that she married early. She didn't have her girl-time at the proper time of life and she is taking it when it is as dangerous as having the measles in middle life.

Don't mess up your life by a child marriage, my dear. Wait until you are a grown and mature woman and know what you are about. As its best marriage lasts a long time, and at its worst it seems to last longer.

LETTERS TO "THE TIMES."

Face the Facts.

LOS ANGELES, July 17.—[To the Editor of The Times:] Most persons who live in Los Angeles appreciate and love it, and resent slurs either upon the fair name of our city or upon its citizens. But the facts must be faced that we do sometimes hear severe criticism of, and have our attention invited to, experiences that show that sharp practices are indulged in by some inhabitants of our city. Then the loyal citizen does not gain anything by merely denying it and closing his eyes to these criticisms, but the true friend of Los Angeles is the one who investigates to determine as to the truth or falsity of such criticisms. And if he finds there is any truth in the report, he is doing Los Angeles the greatest favor when he directs attention to it in order that the evil may be eradicated.

Clients have complained to me of sending clothes to laundries in this city and never getting them back. Silk shirts, hose and other valuable articles have been sent and never returned, and no adjustment of the loss is made. It is to be presumed that most of the laundries are operated by men who are reliable and trustworthy, and I refrain from any general criticism, as I believe it is unmerited by many, but it is unfortunate for our city and does not help its reputation at home or abroad that such things as this ever occur.

Not long ago I saw a conspicuous sign in front of a barber shop, in large letters, "Hair Cut, 25c." After my hair was cut I was told the price was 50 cents, and then my attention was directed to the word, "Children's," which was in small letters and nearly concealed, just above the words "Hair Cut." Again, I saw a large sign in front of a soft drink dispensary, "Orangeade, 5c." I stepped up to the stand and asked for a glass of "Orangeade," and upon laying down 5 cents was told that the price was 10, and then was shown a smaller sign, back behind, saying, "Large Glass, 10c, Small Glass, 5c." Here was an implied offer and acceptance and then a rejection of the terms upon which the offer was made. Of course, no one is going to "kick." It means only 4 cents' loss to the consumer, and I can imagine the "squelching look" the dealer would turn upon anyone who would "say anything." Then the poor consumer would feel the humiliation of everyone standing around laughing at his discomfiture if he essayed to object, and would perhaps be referred to as "small." The returns of 4 cents on each person in the course of a week are probably not "small." Things of this kind are misleading to the public. I have found so much of this sort of thing that I find it advisable now to inquire the price of such things, no matter how positive or conspicuous the price advertised. One meets with the same situation in table d'hote dinners. The impression is conveyed by ingenious advertisement that he will get a full meal for a designated amount. On paying the price, you learn that this and that are extras.

The dealer may have a perfect right to price his goods as he chooses, but it is inexcusable for him to use ingenious methods which mislead and deceive the public and cause them to part with money which they would not part with but for such deception. And what is the result? The tourist or anyone else who is thus misled—to put it mildly—becomes distrustful and embittered by a succession of these little incidents, and is likely to condemn the whole city and we all must suffer for the sins of a few. It is the duty of the patriotic citizen to raise his voice in protest against these nuisances and strive to make our city beautiful, and it cannot be beautiful if the foul weeds of greed are permitted to choke out the wholesome vegetation of fair play.

VINTON A. HOLBROOK.

Wants Investigation.

LOS ANGELES, July 10.—[To the Editor of The Times:] Are Dist.-Atty. Woolwine and your cartoonist, Gale, the only ones in the community with enough backbone to crave the mob hysteria engendered by a foolish old man whose second childhood has caused him to believe he actually can go Christ the Savior one better? More praise to these two courageous gentlemen, who have properly branded as jackasses the simpering, superstitious neurasthenics who encourage "Brother Isaiah" in his senility.

I have been an admirer of The Times for years, but I believe an apology is due the public for your newspaper's failure to print in full the remarkable statement of Mr. Woolwine, especially since you have given so much space to letters from cracked nuts who support this alleged healer. Meanwhile, the public, even the City Council, has been stampeded by a mixture of fanaticism and superstition, aided in a measure by the small local newspaper which has been prostituting its columns to increase its withered circulation lists.

The Times would be performing a service to the city by investigating a little further into the case. I would like to have answers to a few pertinent questions, such as: What is the running sore on the "healer's" hand? Has Mrs. Farley any corroborative evidence from competent physicians that she was suffering from a "broken vertebra and a fractured rib that pressed against her lung" before she was "cured" in New Orleans? Or was her "cure" affected by the prospect of making a quick clean-up through the sale of $1000 worth of photographs of her "prophet" in about two weeks? Is there no law, State or county, that prevents a childish, even though well-meaning, old man from tearing needed braces off the crippled arms and legs and endangering the lives of crippled children who are not able to reason for themselves?

Personally, I have investigated as well as an individual can the so-called miracles and have yet to perceive the veil drawn over the sun by the "fulfillment of the Scriptures," as Isaiah calls himself. Nor can I remember in the Scriptures of any reference to running sores on the body of Jesus when he was healing the sick.

As for the neurasthenics, physicians have long recognized that many human ailments are, in fact, not ailments, except as formed in the mind. There already are well-functioning mediums to "cure" these cases, which are the only ones the Isaiah man has helped. And these properly regulated mediums operate without the tremendous danger to the community of starting a fearful spread of disease by permitting a ballyhoo circus camp following to encourage great gatherings of sick and well, crowded together indiscriminately, in order that Isaiah's retinue may reap a harvest through their concessions.

Making More Money.

Woman Makes Success as Real Estate Salesman Because She Knew What Women Wanted.

Interior decorating long ago stepped into the first rank as a profession for women who desire to augment their incomes, but Miss Cle Madigan has developed an offshoot to this business—at the same time connecting it with another—which has resulted in a means of livelihood as unusual as her first name.

When Miss Madigan first went to work she secured a position in a real estate office on Long Island, N. Y., a position which was remarkable for the amount of work which it entailed rather than for the salary which it paid. But the young lady in question had no idea of remaining a subordinate. She felt convinced that women could sell real estate as well as men—better, in fact, because they were familiar with the little quirks of housekeeping and the problems connected with the kitchen.

"What does a man know about the position of the refrigerator and whether the ice can be put in from the outside?" Miss Madigan argued. "What does he know about the convenience of the pantry, the fine points of the kitchen cabinet, the spaciousness of the preserve closet and the fact that the laundry tubs are porcelain-lined and, therefore, will not injure the most delicate fabrics? Besides, a woman can talk about the other things as well as he can. And I'm going to prove it."

Within the month she had her opportunity. One of the salesmen was ill, and Miss Madigan asked to be allowed to handle the prospect for a large house in one of the most fashionable—and expensive—sections of the island. When she returned she had the name on the dotted line of the contract and there was no question of her returning to a subordinate position. From that time on she continued to sell houses by concentrating on the feminine half of the family, selling the property to the wife and relying on her to convince her husband. That this method of approach—which Miss Madigan calls "knowing homes"—pays is evident from the fact that the best paid manager of real estate on Long Island is Miss Cle Madigan, aged twenty-four.

WEEDS SHOULD KNOW BETTER.

Cinema Star Faces Court on Charge of Failing to Keep Lot Clean.

Ruth Roland, cinema actress, had something else to think of besides directors and studios yesterday—something far more commonplace. Miss Roland was in Police Judge Frederickson's court on a charge of failing to obey the city ordinance dealing with the cutting of weeds on vacant lots.

The actress is the owner of a lot in the Country Club Heights district, and tall, unsightly weeds on the premises, it is charged, were the cause for the issuance of a warrant for her arrest. At her request the case was continued until 2 p.m. Friday.

Long Beach Man Gets Five Years as White Slaver.

Roy Peasley of Long Beach, convicted of violating the Mann Act, yesterday drew the second heaviest sentence ever meted out in the United States District Court under the illicit traffic law.

In sentencing him to five years in the Federal penitentiary on McNeil Island on each of two counts of the indictment, the terms to run concurrently, with a fine of $10,000 on each count, Judge Sawtelle said that Peasley had better have died while serving his country overseas during the World War than to have dishonored the memory of his dead brother, whose widow, Irene Peasley, he brought to Long Beach from Grand Rapids, Mich.

A child was the result of this illegal union. Furthermore, after Peasley had tired of the woman he married another. But his divorce from a deserted wife whom he had left in Michigan was not then effective, and his second marriage was annulled.

The court said the case was one of the worst he had ever investigated.

Asserted Female Fagin and Child Accused of Theft

Police late yesterday believed they had found another female Fagin when they arrested Mrs. Annie Selvido, 25 years of age, and Annie Scaduro, 12 years old, of 650 Lamar street, after, according to Nick Harris detectives, they had been seen in the act of shoplifting in a Broadway department store. A large quantity of merchandise was found in the possession of the little girl when she was searched at police headquarters, officers say.

The pair were taken into custody at Eleventh street and Broadway after detectives had trailed them from a store in the vicinity of Fifth street and Broadway. Mrs. Selvido was held in the City Jail on a charge of suspicion of grand larceny and the child was sent to Juvenile Hall. Both protested their innocence and declared the articles found on them were given to them by a strange woman whom they met on the street.

LONG FIGHT AGAINST OIL WELLS WON.

Council Committee Votes to Bar Reopening of Holes Near Homes.

The battle of many years' duration of the Angeleno Heights property owners to prevent the reopening of oil wells in that district was resumed yesterday afternoon before the Safety Committee of the City Council, ending in defeat for the oil men. The Council chamber was crowded with men and women property owners who denounced as an "outrage" the operations of the oil men and declared that the value of their homes is being ruined and their sleep disturbed by the pumping engines at the wells.

The committee, of which Councilman Conaway is chairman, finally voted to recommend to the Council a sweeping ordinance which will, after its enactment, prevent the reopening of oil wells in any residential district of the city unless a permit is issued by the Board of Public Works, and requiring further that no new wells be operated withing 100 feet of any residence, that gas engines be muffled, that pipe lines must not cross over a street or alley, and that sump holes must be covered or fenced in.

C. W. Horn led the Angeleno Heights residents in their battle, while E. A. Doran, an oil producer, was successful in securing a change in the ordinance which will limit its regulations to residential districts of the city, though as originally presented the measure applied to both residential and industrial districts.

The ordinance, if enacted by the Council, will not apply to wells already in operation. In order to prevent a rush to open oil wells in Angeleno Heights and other parts of the city during the usual thirty-day period before the ordinance takes effect, Councilman Conaway recommended that a three-day clause be attached to the measure, but there may be an insufficient number of votes in the Council to pass the measure with this emergency proviso.

MINISTER'S SON GETS LONG TERM IN PRISON.

After several months in the County Jail on three charges of burglary, Zephie Saunders, said to be a son of a minister near Riverside, was sentenced to San Quentin prison yesterday by Judge Reeve for from one to fifteen years. Saunders pleaded guilty to burglary of the residence of J. D. Gray, 2832 Ingraham street, on last March 26, Anna Farmer, a young girl who was arrested in his company, was said to be innocent and was released on probation. The two other charges against Saunders were continued for future hearing, upon request of Dep. Dist.-Atty Fricke.

CONFESSES PASSING OF FORGED CHECK.

After being acquitted in the Federal courts on a charge of stealing two checks from the mails, W. J. Lascvich yesterday in Judge Reeve's court pleaded guilty to cashing one of two checks said to have been forged with the name of L. J. Christopher. One check was for $35.10. It was originally made out and mailed to L. J. Christopher, according to Dep. Dist.-Atty. Fricke, who prosecuted the case. The defendant will appear on the 28th inst. for hearing on probation.

PLAYTIME COMING.

They are now building more than 2500 new moving-picture theaters in America. It looks as if the country would not give up its favorite indoor sport without a struggle.

PACIFIC FOREVER.

The blue expanse of the Pacific surely suggests and inspires peace. The name breathes peace and it should be possible to extend the peace of the Pacific to the nations bordering thereon.

FILMS BY MAIL.

Ships have been bringing foreign films to this country as parcel post, but the same mail facilities were denied to American-made films because of the alleged fire hazard. But this error has been corrected now and the Postmaster-General will give the Los Angeles pictures the same show as those made in Germany. Fine!

PRYING EYES.

An X-ray apparatus has been devised which will photograph bone or metal objects through a stone wall twenty-five distant. A burglar with an outfit like that would have no trouble in locating the family jewels. There won't be much chance for privacy in the world when these inventors get through.

THE ONE-MAN CAR.

They are to have a public debate on the merits of the one-man car. As a matter of fact this type of car has all the best of the argument from the essential standpoints of safety and economy and yet it hasn't the ghost of a show in this debate. People have made up their minds that they would rather be killed in a two-man car than live forever in the society of the one-man kind.

THE BONUS BILL.

President Grant, who was also something of a soldier, vetoed a soldiers' bonus bill in 1875. It was meant to help those who were in the Civil War—and the Lord knows that most of them needed it. But the President was firm in the position that the government could not stand the strain at a time when its refunding and readjustment problems were still unsettled. History may repeat.

ANOTHER BAROMETER.

Clearinghouse reports are valuable in showing the financial condition of the country, but here is something different, as Perlmutter might say. It has been found by economic experts that the garbage of the nation has fallen off more than 25 per cent from the immediate postwar period. This is a sign of returning thrift. People are eating their crusts of bread instead of casting them before swine. It indicates a pinch and the preparation of the people therefor.

DOCTOR-MADE LAWS.

The Tri-State Medical Society representing the States of Oregon, Washington and Idaho has prepared a "uniform" marriage law which will be pressed for adoption and which they hope to make of nation-wide operation. Uniform marriage and divorce laws for the whole nation are to be desired, but the making should not be in the hands of any particular school of physicians. If a youth must have a $5 certificate from a graduate of the Johns Hopkins medical school before he can propose to a girl it is a distressing blow at the little god of love.

AMONG THE SOCIALISTS.

So far as the Third Internationale is concerned Lenine is not only in good standing, but in command. He seems to have been able to dominate the last Moscow conference. The contracts and agreements he has made with capitalists are all right. It appears that it is proper for a Socialist to make any combination with a capitalist so long as the Socialist is able to figure out a chance to double-cross the other fellow and get the best of it. An agreement is valuable because the other side must keep it while the Socialist recognizes it not a bit. It is in fact a virtue in the Third Internationale to make agreements and contracts so that they may be broken.

THE HIGH FLYERS.

The perils of aviation are centered in the passion men have for doing something a little beyond or a bit more daring than the accomplishment of the other fellow. Operating upon a basis of safety and sanity, commercial aviation should furnish lesser hazards than the paved road. But as long as there are records to play with there will be ambitious souls to beat them. The altitude record is still a matter for contention. The flight hazards in this competition are not as great as in other lines, but there is a chance of experiencing heart collapse, blindness or coma or of freezing to death. There may also be unknown perils in high altitudes which would add to the zest of the adventurer. The other day a French aviator claimed to have reached a height of 34,768 feet. There is no benefit or advantage in flying seven miles above the earth. There is no need of competing with the mark hung up by the Prophet Elijah. Sustained flying at that altitude is neither possible nor desirable. The aviator experienced a temperature of 70 deg. below zero. No one cares to linger long in that blood-curdling environment. The high flyers and the stunt flyers ought really to be suppressed.

AN UNSAVORY MESS.

Unless the Board of Supervisors intervenes Los Angeles will shortly return to the antiquated, unsanitary and repulsive system of fattening hogs for local consumption on garbage. In the outskirts of Baldwin Park, one of our beautiful foothill residential districts, a tract of land had been leased for the purpose of establishing a hog farm. The garbage collected by municipal scavengers is to be turned over under contract to a group of speculators who will use part of it in fattening swine and will sell the rest to Japanese hog feeders.

For what sins are we of Los Angeles to pay the penance of eating garbage-fed meat? What have our neighbors in the foothills done that we should inflict on them a noisome and disease-breeding nuisance? By what right do we presume to drive hundreds from their homes by establishing at their doors a garbage dump?

Feeding garbage to hogs is not only to create a nuisance, but to establish a menace to the health of the community. Are we to accept as justification the excuse that the hog feeders offered the highest price per ton for garbage? Have we suddenly become so mercenary that we are willing to live on tainted meat in order to collect 96 cents a ton for the contents of our garbage cans?

The Times believes in economy, but not that kind. There are certain legitimate expenses that cannot be honorably evaded. The city now has a contract with a reduction company to dispose of municipal refuse. That contract does not expire for the next two years. Yet the old Council closed a not wholly honorable term by agreeing to the cancellation of that contract and passing a resolution directing the Board of Public Works to accept a bid from G. W. Whitman, a speculator, for the whole of the municipal garbage. Whitman is permitted to do what he likes with it. He has announced that it will be resold to the highest bidders. It was asserted during the hearing and not denied that certain Japanese are interested in seeing the deal go through, because they expect to secure a portion of the garbage.

The contract between the Board of Public Works and Whitman has yet to be signed. The garbage is to be turned over to him by the municipal scavengers on and after August 1. The only hope of blocking so discreditable a deal is that the Board of Supervisors will decline to grant a permit for the Baldwin Park garbage farm on the ground that it would constitute a menace to health and would be a public nuisance. The Times hopes that the board will find a way to nullify a transaction that savors very much of doubtful politics. Dr. Pomeroy, County Health Officer, has already made a vigorous protest. He says that the garbage farm under oriental control itself will be a menace to the health of those living in its vicinity and that garbaged pork is often not fit for human consumption.

Back in the days when Los Angeles was but a frontier town the municipal garbage was sold to hog raisers. But The Times was under the impression that we were now keeping better abreast the times than to return to such an anachronism. Feeding garbage to hogs is refeeding it to ourselves. The members of the Council who voted for such a policy dishonored themselves. The Board of Public Works discredited itself in meekly agreeing to let a contract in accordance with a resolution of a dead Council whose last official act was to slip through so indefensible a measure. If the Board of Supervisors declines to grant the permit for the hog farm there is yet hope; for there are other methods of garbage disposal which, while less remunerative, are more sanitary.

WHAT DISARMAMENT MEANS.

Disarmament, once an illusory dream of idealists, is rapidly shaping into a concrete possibility. National armaments are relative. The size of the navy necessary to safeguard the coasts and islands of the United States from hostile attack is measured by that of the countries with which we are likely to become involved in international disputes.

Each country measures its army and naval appropriations by those of its neighbors. In the last year of the Civil War the total cost of our national government passed the billion mark; but it had shrunk within two years to $300,000,000 and by 1879 it was but $179,000,000. This year's appropriations for national defense alone are nearly $1,000,000,000 greater than the total cost of the national government in 1913. If the disarmament conference, which will meet in Washington on Armistice Day, fails to accomplish the purpose for which it has been called it will be necessary to still further increase our army and naval appropriations; for that conference will decide whether justice or force is to compose international disputes.

The American people are hoping for a radical limitation of armaments; but the majority of them are not foolish enough to desire that their own country shall voluntarily disarm while her neighbors are increasing their military strength. There is a coterie that insists that we shall go ahead with a program which contemplates the construction of the most powerful navy in the world, irrespective of what our neighbors are doing. They say that we should have the biggest navy in order that we shall be in position to dictate the terms under which disarmament shall take place. Fortunately this group is weak, alike in numbers and influence. The majority believe that the time to disarm is now, and that the way to disarm is to proceed forthwith with plans for international disarmament.

Building the largest navy in the world may appeal to some imaginations, to those who give no thought of the cost and are not aware of the attitude of mind of neighboring nations. But it is extremely doubtful, under existing world conditions, whether such a thing would be possible, even if desirable.

Developments during the recent conference of the British premiers disclosed that the British Empire is prepared, if forced to do so, to triple the fighting strength of its present navy. Before the World War the British navy was maintained by the taxpayers of Great Britain alone. None of the self-governing dominions contributed to its expense, although all enjoyed the protection it afforded. It became apparent in 1914 that Great Britain could not carry the brunt of the World War alone, and her self-governing colonies rushed courageously to the common defense. Statements made by the premiers of the British dominions at the recent conference disclosed that they are aware the taxpayers of Great Britain alone cannot carry the whole burden of increased armaments, in the face of the naval programs of the United States and Japan. The following extract from a recent editorial in the London Daily Telegraph stresses the attitude of the peoples of the British Empire in relation to unification for the national defense:

> If the dominions are to be associated with the mother country in policy it will be recognized that that policy must, in some way, be translated into terms of defense, and particularly naval defense. For if armaments depend, as Gen. Smuts says, on policy, it is equally true that policy rests, in the last resort, on armaments. . . . The position is clear. In the first place, the taxpayers of these islands, as Mr. Lloyd George has confessed, can no longer bear the burden without assistance. In the second place, THE CENTER OF NAVAL GRAVITY HAS SHIFTED FROM EUROPEAN WATERS TO THE PACIFIC. . . . We stand among the ruins of the Old World, with its balance of power and its creaking machinery for the preservation of peace, and it must be the responsibility of the peoples of the British Empire, in association with those who will join hands with them, to reinsure in a new world policy the liberal civilization which has so recently been snatched from the burning.

This sentiment received the unanimous indorsement of the assembled premiers. The first step to be taken was to be an attempt to secure an international conference to discuss limited armaments and a friendly adjustment of international differences in the Pacific area. If that conference failed of its purpose, then the self-governing dominions would join with the taxpayers of Great Britain in a plan of naval construction which would assure to the British Empire the most powerful fighting fleet in the world. When one considers that the British Empire comprises about one-fourth of the land surface of the globe and a population four times as great as that of the United States, it becomes apparent that this discussion of a still more dominating British navy is no idle boast.

Every American should think deeply over what a competition in armaments with the British and Japanese empires would mean, whither such a policy would lead. If it were indeed possible to outstrip them, would the game be worth the candle? Each should ponder over whether it was for this that we made our sacrifice in the World War? Did we join in a war against the Central Powers only to pave the way for a still more awful struggle among the nations associated against them? God grant that it be not so!

THE END OF THE RAINBOW.

Cables from Wales and Lancashire indicate that a million British miners have returned to the collieries in a chastened spirit. They have accepted wage reductions against which they protested three months ago by a general strike. Their dream of nationalization and sovietization of the coal mines has ended. They have found in the strike an industrial weapon whose hilt is sharper than the blade. They have discovered that in industry, as in a nation, no single minority group is indispensable. They left the mines to follow radical leaders to the end of the rainbow, only to stumble back into the old pits.

For the follies of the miners a whole people has suffered. The effects of the cessation of work in the key industry of Great Britain have been far-reaching. By reason of the closing of the mines more than 2,000,000 workers in industries dependent upon a coal supply were forced out of employment. The export trade of Great Britain received a blow from the effects of which, by reason of the debilitated condition in which it was left by the World War, recovery will be slow. Control of markets that the British exporters once dominated has passed to other peoples, who will not surrender their advantage without a bitter trade struggle. The immediate monetary loss occasioned by the strike has been estimated at $1,000,000,000; a sum absolutely wasted, for the miners have returned to work under an agreement that they could have negotiated last spring without the necessity of a strike—if, indeed, a single instance could be found in the whole history of industry when a strike was either necessary or profitable to any of the parties concerned.

How futile must now appear to the miners themselves their dream of using the strike as a weapon to force the nationalization of the mining industry in Great Britain. Four months ago they were told by radical leaders that they had but to assert their rights and display their solidarity and the rest of the country would be quickly starved into submission. How silly now their project of a revolution of violence appears! They must be asking each other how they ever came to imagine that the powerful empire which made so glorious a record in the World War would flinch and tremble before a paltry force of 1,000,000 industrial workers.

They have learned by bitter experience that wages cannot be maintained at a level above what an industry can stand; that the price paid for mining a ton of coal must be regulated by what the ton will bring in the open market; that the selling price of coal at the pit mouth in Lancashire or Wales is regulated by the prevailing rate in the markets of the world; that to fix an arbitrary price for either coal or labor is beyond the power of British miners, of British mine owners or of the government of Great Britain itself. Wages can no more be definitely fixed and regulated by a single people than can rates of national exchange—for steam, oil, electricity and modern machinery have brought about the internationalization of industry.

As far as immediate results are concerned the taxpayers of Great Britain and the mine owners have suffered even more than the miners by the colliery blockade. The case of the owners was unassailable. The wages which the miners demanded for bringing a ton of coal to the pit mouth were more than the ton would sell for. That was a condition over which the owners had no control. They could not have borrowed money to operate the mines at a loss if they had been willing to do so. They were faced by the inescapable economic law that the ton of coal must itself pay the wages of the miner. One stands aghast at the stupidity of the miners in not realizing this fact four months ago, that they should have imagined that this economic law could be modified by some Socialistic or Communistic theory. It is a depressing illustration of the influence that unscrupulous radicals can exercise over the minds of honest but unlettered workmen.

With the collapse of the coal strike the menace of a revolution of violence in Great Britain has been conjured away. The Times held three months ago that if the government would but stand firm the people of Great Britain would not flinch. The Anglo-Saxon is the last individual in the world to be intimidated by threats. As a race they are lovers of justice and they do not take kindly to violent methods for settling internal disputes. One lesson taught by the strike is that the ballot box is the best friend of any group and of all groups; for there alone can be registered the verdict of the popular will. Any advantage obtained by a minority in opposition to public opinion can only be temporary; and the inevitable reaction will fall most heavily on the group that obtained a momentary advantage by the violation of some unwritten law of economics or industry. Decisions obtained by force, unless the cause be just, only lay the foundation for other conflicts.

In seeking to placate the miners the British government made concessions which establish a doubtful precedent. The loss of wages by the miners during the strike was estimated at $50,000,000. The government has agreed to distribute among them in the way of subsidies a sum of $40,000,000. This to indemnify them for losses during their period of voluntary idleness. Not only is this unjust to the taxpayers, who are made to pay for something that was not of their doing and for which they have already grievously suffered, but groups that indulge in strikes in the future are very likely to refuse to return to work until they, too, are remunerated for the time spent in voluntary idleness. Making the taxpayers pay the losses of a conflict between employers and employees is so manifestly unjust that it cannot be productive of good results. The penalties of injustice are not to be evaded; and it is a tragic but unavoidable condition of human existence that the innocent shall suffer for the sins of the guilty.

SOCIAL PROBLEMS.

BY ALMA WHITAKER.

It was half-past dinner-time and the host was getting anxious. Everybody there but the duchess. The host's cook, expert but temperamental, was in no mood to have his chef d'oeuvre ruined by even the most stylish dilatoriness. So the host gave the duchess another five minutes, then went down with his guests to dinner. Her grace arrived with the fish and quite obviously regarded the rest of the company as "early worms." She has probably cut him off her visiting list.

Query: Should a polished host starve nineteen people out of courtesy to one, no matter how distinguished, and risk his cook's reputation—and resignation?

The hosts were entertaining in honor of visiting European. Europe not being dry, they had gone to some trouble to secure irreproachable nectar. Rest of guests properly impressed—and enthusiastic. But guest of honor turns out to be rabid teetotaler. Wants to see all Europe go prohibition. Shocked at profusion of nectar. None for him, thank you.

Query: Does etiquette demand removal of nefarious nectar, blighting negation on part of all guests, out of respect for visiting nabob?

Eastern visitors (strangers) arrive with letter of introduction from friends who were ebullient hosts to addressees in the past. Elks in town, no hotel accommodation to be had. Eastern visitors peculiarly helpless, lean-to type. Nothing in common with local hosts. Local hosts at great inconvenience to put them up. Invite them for week-end at considerable discomfort for themselves. Do the honors with reluctant but tangible generosity. Eastern visitors delighted. Three, four, five days pass. Eastern visitors make no move. Seem to have taken root. Talk glibly about next week's sightseeing. Show no signs of hunting other accommodation.

Query: Do the laws of hospitality demand indefinite endurance by local hosts? How does one deal with inconsiderate spongers, without spoiling the established friendship that inflicted them upon one?

Distinguished but kindly celebrity discovers remote acquaintances claiming intimate and affectionate friendship, trading on it socially. Remote acquaintances not necessarily desirable.

Query: Does kindly social usage demand patient acquiescence on part of celebrity, or would firm denial and repudiation of any such intimacy be in order?

Amiable resident obtains card on country club for visiting acquaintance well recommended. Visiting acquaintance doesn't pay his club bills. Amiable resident is called upon to foot them.

Query: What form of polite vengeance does etiquette permit, if any?

Popular fellow in temporary financial straits is voted good-natured, complimentary membership to club. Popular fellow later restored to prosperity—and proceeds to join and pay dues at more stylish club, ignoring all obligations to friendly club of past favors.

Query: Is second-best club justified in feeling sore—or is it well rid of the chap?

Mr. and Mrs. Montmorency Vere de Vere are invited to dinner and bridge. Mr. Vere de Vere is unavoidably detained at the last minute. Should Mrs. Vere de Vere go alone, thus making an odd lady and spoiling the balance of the party, or should she hustle another male escort?

The Tod Romeys are a popular couple, but shy on shekels. Can't afford much hospitable reciprocity, deluged with invitations they know they can't possibly reciprocate.

Query: Are they justified in accepting on the assumption that their hosts love them for themselves alone, or should they drop out voluntarily until they are richer?

Mrs. Smith doesn't particularly like Mrs. Brown, but Mrs. Brown will insist upon kissing Mrs. Smith whenever they meet, with gushing effusion.

Query: Should Mrs. Smith endure the gushful kissiness with seeming reciprocity from purely social considerations or does etiquette permit her to dodge with obvious alacrity and finesse?

The kindly but slightly vulgar Thompsons insist upon lavishing presents upon the dignified but poor Jenkinses. And they are frequently very dubious presents, at that—neither valuable, useful nor artistic.

Query: Must the Jenkinses suffer this persistent obligation with cheerful though feigned gratitude or does refined etiquette permit them to speak their mind?

The Hopkinses are a cheerful, pleasant couple, but they have a preposterously precocious and spoiled infant whom they always bring to call. Said infant removes the books from shelves, puts the shade-springs out of commission, turns on the water in the bathroom and leaves it running, takes the crockery off the tables and generally makes a nuisance of itself.

Query: Does social usage permit the victimized hosts to send a bill in—and, if not, why not?

A USEFUL FISH.

They have a remarkable fish in Nova Scotia. It is known as the frost fish, because it can be frozen solid; but if placed in water it soon thaws out and swims around as vigorously as ever. The natives, we are told, use this fish in making ice cream. The fish is caught, frozen and placed in the cream. In thawing out it freezes the cream and its movements at the same time beat the mixture, making it nice and smooth. It is a fresh-water fish, but the story requires a lot of salt.—[Boston Transcript.

TWO MINUTES OF OPTIMISM.

BY HERMAN J. STICH.

A Little Talk to Business Men.

Cobwebbed yesterdays ago, a nude savage was about to be attacked by a wild, famished beast.

Retreat was out of the question. Escape was cut off. Hand-to-hand combat was perilously impossible.

He might tear a thick bough from a tree and wield it as a club; but such tactics necessitated coming within hitting distance, with the certainty of being dismembered and torn to tatters before he might even get a chance to strike. And he had to act instantly.

In desperation, he lunged at a jagged boulder on the ground, and with all his strength hurled it at the murderous animal facing him.

He hurled another and another until the beast, bleeding, blinded and half-stunned from the hammer-like impacts, staggered about, allowing him to get away.

But the caveman? His stupid brain probably comprehended he had avoided death; but he did not realise he had given impetus to the manufacture of rifles—and ADVERTISING.

Today you are in business. Business gets slow. You lose trade and patrons. You see the stark, grim wolf failure creeping round the corner heading for your door. YOU MUST DO MORE BUSINESS!

Will you go and drag customers in? Will you travel round and tell people of your plight and try to get them to patronize you out of pity? What chance do you stand against the punishing advertising of your competitors?

No chance at all—unless—and this is your only salvation—you advertise with them—advertise against them—or go to the wall!

You must race at their pace or you're out of the running.

And just as rocks and rifles enable a man to strike a harder blow than the impact of his fist or the kick of his boot—and at a far greater distance than the length of his arm—so consistent advertising enables a man to persuade more powerfully than by speaking to a few neighbors—enables him to reach untapped sources of patronage at wonderful distances—rather than depend upon precarious transient trade or sympathetic acquaintances.

Rifles are but perfected stone-throwers—and advertising is the modern weapon—the rifle of big business.

It is the better way, nay, the only way to bring protection from and to bring down big game!

RIPPLING RHYMES.

GREEN OLD AGE.

So live that when your head is gray and you are bent and tired you're fixed to throw your tools away and have the rest desired, and let the young men bale the hay for which they have been hired. Like many other ancient men I threw my tools aside; and then I picked them up again—I can't be satisfied with resting, rusting in my den, while toilers round me stride. But if I had to buckle down in these, my wintry years, to earn the shilling and the crown I'd earn the same in tears, and on my brow a dismal frown would reach back to my ears. But I could quit my job tonight and ply my harp no more, and live in indolence, all right, on coin I saved of yore; and knowing this, with much delight, I do my daily chore. There's nothing sadder, I maintain, than old men making tracks, by stark need driven, through the rain to toil with aching backs until they die beneath the strain and in the grave relax. I work by day, burn midnight gas and leave a trail of smoke, but I don't need to put up grass, and so the job's a joke; if I were forced to earn the brass, how bitterly I'd croak! Oh, I could sit and chew my thumbs, if that were my desire; but when for me the summons comes I'll still be at my lyre; you'll hear its tinkling tumty-tums played like a house afire.

THREL FALL.

MASCULINE PIE.

Pies hitherto have been neutral, if not neuter, but nowadays pies are taking sides. There is such a thing as masculine pie. People who have raisins to sell call them "energy dessert." A "man's pie" is one filled with raisins. It is served to "tired men at dinner" and "it sets them up." Soon, doubtless, we shall be reading of virile pies, regular sea-wolves of pastry. The triumph of he-manhood will, of course, be reached when cherry pie is trotted out and exploited by somebody as "the red-blooded pie for the red-blooded man." But getting back to raisins, hasn't anyone a good word for our old and long-established friend, raisin cake? Can't it be boosted as "the cake with the kick?"—[Leslie's Weekly.

By the Staff

About everybody in this town is a city planner—planning how to pay his city taxes.

Talk of the disposition of the Basin is again revived. What should spring a leak!

A rope ladder to enable one to get into the upper berths of the Pullmans would help some.

David Lloyd George has proved to imported Gen. Smuts to assist him in eating up the latest crisis.

Senor Cusso is at the head of the protectionists in Spain. So, while there is something in a name.

There ought to be some scheme to prevent the dress reformers from taking the feminine knee out of public eye.

Where is the farce writer to introduce a scream around the middle? Charley Hoyt is dead and left no successor.

If the world is to disarm, there are to be no more wars, what shall we do without the excitement of a Liberty Loan campaign?

Some of the straw hats we see along Spring street look as if the wearers had almost worn them to frazzle by talking through them.

When we read about movie stars getting salaries of $1000 a week in the movies we wonder whether evolution is what it has been cracked up to be.

There would really be more excitement for an increased tariff on foreign lemons if the corner drug stores and confectioners put more of a punch in their lemonades.

We knew there would be trouble in Dublin when the Earl of Mayo went there. The Irish could not resist the temptation of hearing the dornicks at his headpiece.

The value of certain European moneys has at last been definitely determined. A German mark is worth two radishes, a Russian ruble is of the value of three cents.

Back in Ohio a professor lays the blame for the failure of certain students to pass the college examination to the use of cigarettes. Somebody has denied him the right to "in's."

Normalcy is coming fast. Sam Browne belt is to be worn as a part of the regulation uniform for officers of the United States army. It was all the rage in the foreign service during the war.

The Elks are leaving Los Angeles with happy recollections of the occasion that brought them here. Speed the parting guest, and when they come again we shall have the magnificent Elk Temple to welcome them.

We are of the opinion that we would not be so much interested in this country if it were not for the mutton the English served to the American soldiers in English restaurants. Some of the boys have not been able to get the hair out of their throats yet.

The wheat harvests are on, and the Central West and Southwest are not paying $10 a day for harvest hands, either. The boys who are in the field are not wearing diamond watches and silk shirts on the fruits of their recent summer's wage. There is another story to tell.

It now turns out that the Rickard Brothers backed Tex Rickard's Dempsey-Carpentier fight entirely. The good order at the ringside and the perfect system used in handling 90,000 people without a single hitch was the old Ringling system, transferred from the canvas circus to the fight arena.

There are fashions in everything, the old-fashioned sort coming around again. There are now in order buttons, fuchsias, hollyhocks, phlox, sweet williams, honeysuckles, pinks, snowballs, bridal wreath, sweet shrubs, verbenas, lilacs, painter's brush, marigolds, larkspur and mignonette. Flowers are coming back not only in the gardens of the cities, but they are to add their charms to the country boxes which are called "villas" in the States."

The proposition of Premier Lloyd George to have converged in the national capital in October, a conference of the five leading nations with a view to determining some definite program of disarmament, with the approbation of our own State cousins. The best results are expected. But it will be interesting to note if England insists upon maintaining her program of shipbuilding to 60 per cent of that in existence before the war, as reported. If that was at that time the largest navy of warships in the world, her advantage would be apparent.

THE GLORIOUS WEST.

When one Eye lived where skies are blue;
The sun so bright and friendship true;
Wherever I roam in fashion's way
My heart will be in the land of the West.

I think of a trail that winds out of sight
Till it's lost at last in the dark of night
And the stars look down on a world so light plain
And, oh, how I long to be back again!

To be back in the land that I love so well once more,
Where flowers bloom and wild birds sing
soar.
Way out in the land I love the best
West.

SUES FROM SANATORIUM.

Madeline Stidd, who is confined in a tuberculosis sanitorium in Monrovia, yesterday filed a separate maintenance action against Colvin W. Stidd, a Hollywood broker, and mentions Helen Hearne as co-respondent.

Mrs. Stidd asks $350 per month for maintenance and that an injunction be issued to prevent her husband from disposing of property valued at $75,000 pending the decision of the court.

The Stidds were married in 1917 and separated last June 30, which is the date on which Mrs. Stidd purports to have discovered that her husband was living with Helen Hearne at 536 North Vine street, Hollywood.

The Stidds have one child, 3 years old.

"The shortsighted thing about amending the schedule to allow 7½ cents on shelled walnuts is that the production of shelled walnuts in this State is less than 10 per cent of the annual harvest," says Mr. Thorpe. We need the amendment on unshelled walnuts. Our tariff on them should be not less than 4 cents to do us any good."

WIRE TO OSBORNE.

His ideas were expressed last night in the following telegram to Congressman Osborne at Washington:

"We have just been advised that the Ways and Means Committee suggests changing the duty on shelled walnuts from 5 to 7½ cents. We are glad to receive this, and we greatly appreciate your efforts and those of other California Congressmen, but the shelled-walnut business at present amounts to less than 10 per cent of our total volume.

"What is needed most is a 4-cent duty on unshelled walnuts, as this item is over 90 per cent of the value of our business. If the duty is to be increased on only one item in the list we greatly prefer an increase on unshelled walnuts.

"Apparently the Ways and Means Committee is confusing the walnut business with the almond business, but the situation is entirely different, except on unshelled nuts, where it is the same. If unshelled almonds get 4 cents, walnuts are entitled to the same. I would appreciate your discussing this phase with other California representatives in the hope of obtaining an advance on unshelled walnuts, which is so urgently needed."

INTIMIDATION CHARGES MADE.

assault upon her was based upon this or a related charge. She was tarred and feathered, according to reports to local newspapers, and had her hair cut off. She was employed as a maid at a hotel in Tenaha.

These two are the latest cases in a long series of similar incidents occurring in widely separated sections of Texas. They had their beginning in the tarring and feathering of an attorney in Houston on an alleged charge of fraternizing with negroes and fomenting agitation for racial equality.

In nearly every instance the intimation has been given that the assaults were the work of the Ku Klux Klan and the admonition was generally given by placard or otherwise.

"GAS" FEATHERED BODY.

BEAUMONT (Tex.) July 18.—R. F. Scott, lumberman, tar and feather victim of masked men near here Saturday night, returned to his home at Deweyville today. Physicians said he is in a serious condition. Mr. Scott told reporters the masked men drenched his feathered body with gasoline and threatened to set fire to it unless he signed certain papers, but that he refused.

TO PROSECUTE ASSAILANTS.

NACOGDOCHES (Tex.) July 18. J. W. McKnight, a plumber, who early yesterday was seized by masked men as he alighted from a train at Timpson, near here, taken two miles from town and given a severe beating, left here today for Center with the announced intention of seeking aid of county authorities in prosecuting the men, all of whom, he says, he recognized. Mr. McKnight was formerly a deputy Sheriff and constable of Nacogdoches county. He is married and has three children, but recently separated from his wife. A few weeks ago, he said, he received a warning in a woman's handwriting and signed "Ku Klux Klan," which he said, he ignored.

Timpson is about twelve miles from Tenaha, where a woman was tarred and feathered by masked men Saturday night.

HUNT MISSING MAN.

Police have been asked by J. W. Shepard of Gilroy, to search for Frank P. Estrade, an oil stock and real estate salesman who lived at various Los Angeles hotels from February until June 19, when he checked out of the Hotel Stowell and has not been heard from since. Mr. Shepard told the police that there is a large quantity of mail awaiting the missing man at the hotel.

MRS. HAYDOCK SAVED FROM AN OPERATION

Followed Advice of Her Druggist's Wife and Took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Chicago, Ill.—"I was in bed with a female trouble and inflammation and had four doctors but none of them did me any good. They all said I would have to have an operation. A druggist's wife told me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I took 22 bottles, never missing a dose and at the end of that time I was perfectly well. I have a six room flat and do all my work. My two sisters are taking the Compound upon my recommendation and you may publish my letter. It is the gospel truth and I will write to anyone who wants a personal letter."—Mrs. E. H. HAYDOCK, 6824 St. Lawrence Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

Because Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound saved Mrs. Haydock from an operation we cannot claim that all operations may be avoided by it,—but many women have escaped operations by the timely use of this old fashioned root and herb medicine.

NEW FUNDS FOR ALL-YEAR CLUB.

Discuss Plan to Continue Southland Campaign.

More Teams to be Organized to Seek Pledges.

Support of Communities Near City to be Asked.

Pledges amounting to $1200 were added yesterday to the treasury of the All-Year Club of Southern California, at a meeting of the executive committee, to discuss plans for the continuance of the drive for a three-year annual fund of $300,000, with which to advertise the year-round attractions of the southland.

The newest subscribers to the fund as reported yesterday are Young & McCallister, Inc., Pacific Coast Sales Book Company, Mcbride Printing Company, Independent Press Room, Carl A. Bundy, Quill & Press, I. Behrstock Company, E. Gerson, Wurster Construction Company, North Ontario Packing Company, Peck & Hills Furniture Company, and Barker Bros. The workers reporting these pledges were J. B. Jacobs, Fletcher Ford and Daniel H. Jones.

ANSWERS TO LETTER.

Four of the contributions were in answer to the letter sent out late last week to firms in the printing trade, by Mr. Ford. It was stated that a number of additional returns may be expected from this letter, which is part of the new effort now being put forth in the All-Year drive.

In the new line-up for the fund campaign, which the executive committee considered, several new teams are to be organized today and tomorrow. These teams are to be recruited at the suggestion of Sylvester L. Weaver, president of the Chamber of Commerce, by Drive Director Harry M. Haldeman and D. H. Jones. Through the courtesy of Barker Bros., Mr. Jones, beginning yesterday, is to give all his time for several weeks to the All-Year movement, and in particular to the alignment of the communities outside of Los Angeles with the club. Mr. Jones has already done much important work along this line.

OUTLINE WORK.

For the teams just organized, an extensive list of firms and individuals who will be asked to contribute has been prepared. Those on the teams are being asked to give one or two hours every day to calling on the firms assigned to them.

With this effort and the continuance of effort on the part of a number of team captains and their workers, who have participated in the fund drive since its inception, the members of the executive committee are counting on notable results during the next two weeks.

DIES SUDDENLY.

Wife of Northern Mining Man Passes Away at Hermosa Beach.

Mrs. George O'Brien of Salem, Or., wife of a mining man of Oregon and Nevada, died suddenly Sunday evening at Hermosa Beach. She was visiting her brother, Rev. William Hughes of St. Basil's Catholic Church of Los Angeles, and her father, O. E. Hughes and sister, Miss Addie L. Hughes, both of Sacramento.

Mrs. O'Brien, before her marriage was Miss Emma Hughes, well known in Sacramento and San Francisco. Col. John L. Hughes, U.S.A., of Port Townsend, Wash.; Charles T. Hughes, attorney of San Francisco, and Luke A. Hughes of Sacramento are brothers and the Misses Kathryn and Eugenia Hughes of Sacramento, sisters.

Funeral services will be conducted in the Cathedral of the Blessed Sacrament, Sacramento. Rev. Henry I. Stark, Paulist, of San Francisco, who was visiting Father Hughes, attended Mrs. O'Brien at her death.

How to Avoid Trouble.

DEMAND FOR TANLAC BREAKS ALL REC

Amazing Success Achieved by Celebrated [illegible] Only Phenomenal, But Unprecedented. 20,000,000 Bottles Sold in Six Years. Countries Clamor for It.

Never before, perhaps, in the history of the drug [illegible] demand for a proprietary medicine ever approached the record that is now being made by Tanlac, the celebrated [illegible] which has been accomplishing such remarkable results in this country and Canada. As a matter of fact, the success achieved by this medicine is not only phenomenal, but unprecedented.

The first bottle of Tanlac to reach the public was sold just a little over six years ago. Its success was immediate and people everywhere were quick to recognize it as a medicine of extraordinary merit. Since that time there have been sold throughout this country and Canada something over Twenty Million (20,000,000) bottles, establishing a record which has probably never been equalled in the history of the drug trade in America.

Fame is International.

The instant and phenomenal success which Tanlac won when it was first introduced has been extended to practically every large city, small town, village and hamlet in North America. Its fame has become international in its scope and England, Japan, Mexico, Cuba, Hawaii, Alaska, Porto Rico and many European countries are clamoring for it.

From coast to coast and from the Great Lakes, Tanlac is known and honored. Millions have taken it with the most gratifying and astonishing results and have pronounced it the greatest medicine of all.

Tens of thousands of women of all ages in all walks of life, afflicted with [illegible] and kidney disorders, many of long standing, as well as hundreds of weak, thin, nervous women apparently on the verge of collapse, have testified that they have been fully restored to health, weight, health and strength by its use.

Restored to Health.

Still others, who were not well, yet who suffered from indigestion, headaches, sleeplessness, dizzy spells, sour stomach, coated tongue, biliousness, constipation, lack of energy, appetite, sleeplessness and a feeling of terribly dejected, discouraging, state that they have entirely relieved of these symptoms and restored to health and happiness by the use of Tanlac.—[Advertisement.]

...ence added to the ... of the court... of them sweltered in ... others were few, ... paid the closest ... testimony, particularly when their former "boss," Charles A. Comiskey, president of the White Sox Club, took the stand.

It was at this point that a physical clash appeared imminent, Ben Short, defense counsel, in cross-examining Mr. Comiskey, asked him if he had not jumped from the National League to the brotherhood, years ago.

The argument became so heated that the "Old Roman," rising in the witness chair, shook his fist at Mr. Short and shouted: "Don't you dare say I ever jumped a contract; I never did that in my life."

After other remarks he was quieted.

WINS POINT.

The defense won a point when Judge Friend ruled that the State could make no mention in its opening statement of the grand jury confessions of Cicotte, Williams and Jackson. The ruling is scheduled to change and the confessions may be admitted eventually.

Judge Friend overruled a motion by the defense to dismiss the eleventh and twelfth counts of the indictment, which charge eight former members of the White Sox with conspiring to cheat and defraud the club and Ray Schalk, catcher, from the winner's share of the world's series money.

Before Mr. Comiskey was excused, it was brought out that the baseball players were paid for their season's work before the opening of the world's series. Their salaries for their work in the series were paid by the national commission.

John E. Bruce of Cincinnati, secretary and treasurer of the National Commission until it passed out of existence early this year, said the Chicago players' share of the 1919 world's series receipts amounted to $75,140.90, which was given to Manager Gleason in the form of a check after the end of the series.

Commenting on the day's session tonight, Mr. Gorman said:

"We used our weakest line-up and shut them out. Wait until our real hitters get in."

From Thomas Nash, defense attorney, came this statement:

TELLS STORY.

Mr. Gorman devoted an hour and a half in his opening statement to telling the story of the alleged plot by which the world's series was won by the Cincinnati Reds.

Eddie Cicotte, Mr. Gorman said, met Bill Burns, former White Sox pitcher, in New York, about Sept. 16, 1919, before the Sox won the pennant, but at a time when it was virtually certain they would win. Burns, the prosecutor said, asked Cicotte if the world's series could be "fixed," and Cicotte replied "if there is a chance you know it."

The pitcher told Burns it would take about $100,000 and asked Burns if he could get someone to finance it. Burns saw William Maharg of Philadelphia, and Arnold Rothstein of New York, but Rothstein refused to go into the deal.

ROTHSTEIN READY.

When the Sox left New York, Mr. Gorman said, Cicotte told Burns to report the arrangements to him at a hotel in Chicago. A day or two before the series opened at Cincinnati, Abe Attell, former prize-fighter, and Hal Chase, former ball player, met Burns in New York, and asked him to go to Cincinnati with them and tell the White Sox players Rothstein was ready to finance the project. Burns, Gorman said, was surprised, but Attell explained that Rothstein was under obligation to him because he had once saved the New Yorker's life in a shooting scrape.

Burns went to Cincinnati that night, meeting Maharg in Philadelphia. At Cincinnati they met Attell, Ben and Louis Levy, of Des Moines, Iowa, and David Zelzer of Des Moines, Iowa, all of whom were stopping at the same hotel where the White Sox were quartered. Burns took Attell to Cicotte's room and Attell told the players Rothstein was rich and introduced a companion as Rothstein's right-hand man.

ASK A BUNCH.

The players present asked $100,000, Gorman said, $20,000 to be paid after each game. It was decided the team should try to win when Cicotte pitched, in order to help him obtain a good contract for the following year.

After Cincinnati won the first game the players wanted their $20,000. Burns went to Attell, but the latter said all the money had been bet and could not be collected until the following day. The next day Attell showed Burns a telegram reading:

"Have sent you twenty grand."

It was signed "A. R." When they went to the telegraph office they found that the money had not been received. Burns was suspicious and after the Reds won the second game he went to Attell's room. Attell, Gorman said, lifted the mattress and showed Burns a number of big rolls of bills.

COUNTING MONEY.

Two other men were counting two suit cases filled with money. Attell handed $10,000 to Burns and he delivered it to the players, explaining Attell had refused to pay more because the rumors of something wrong had reached so many gamblers that the betting odds were short.

The same night Attell wanted to know about the game for the following day and was told that Little Dick Kerr would pitch and that the players in the deal "would not win for a busher." It was this game that Kerr won.

BRITTON-WALKER BOUT IS UPSTICKS.

NEWARK (N. J.) July 18.—Jack Britton, welterweight champion, and Mickey Walker, of Elizabeth, N. J., fought a twelve round no decision contest tonight with popular opinion divided as to the winner.

Britton scored a nine-second knockdown in the opening round, but his opponent recuperated quickly and punched the titleholder in the fourth, fifth and sixth sessions. Briton then outboxed Walker at long range in the later rounds.

Darneille recently was mixed up in a little free-for-all fight and with his bare fists downed every man who came in front of him. The casualties, according to dispatches, were over a hundred. He has done quite a bit of amateur boxing, winning the heavyweight championship of the Navy during the war, and is now being groomed for a fling at the crown.

SALT LAKE CATCHER SERIOUSLY INJURED.

SALT LAKE CITY, July 18.—Surgical examination today of the injury suffered by Catcher Byrd Lynn of the Salt Lake club and former White Sox player, on Friday, revealed a serious dislocation of the shoulder. It is feared Lynn will be out of the game for two months. The injury was the result of a collision at the plate with Catcher Baldwin of the Los Angeles club.

GIBBONS LEAVES FOR MATCH WITH RATNER.

ST. PAUL (Minn.) July 18.—Mike Gibbons, St. Paul middleweight boxer, and Mike Collins, his manager, plan to leave tomorrow for New York, where Gibbons will meet Augie Ratner on July 25 in a fifteen-round decision fight.

While in New York Collins will endeavor to arrange a match for Gibbons with Johnny Wilson, middleweight champion.

BULL MONTANA GETS BACK TO TOWN—TED THYE HAS A KICK COMING—JOY DEFEATS PEGGY

BY KAY OWE.

Our handsome matinee idol, Bull Montana, returned to town yesterday evening and could be heard at First and Broadway as he was quietly getting off the train on the other side of the Los Angeles River. Bull was glad to get back and told the world about it in emphatic tones.

Montana has been back in the East and assisted Jack Dempsey in getting in shape for his Carpentier bout. Incidentally our handsome hero took on a few wrestlers both going and coming and blew in with a wad over and above expenses just about equal to Jack Dempsey's. He took a fling at Atlantic City, dropped off in Washington to say hello to the President, had a look at New York and then hopped a Pullman for Los Angeles.

"And I tells you one-a thing, boy," said Montana last night, "Poppa Bool is glad to be back."

Bull had some wild and thrilling experiences back at the big fight. It seems that he had a ringside seat right next to Gov. Edwards, and when Bull and some of his handsome friends entered the stadium the Governor thought they were a bunch of Black Hand artists and ordered the police to throw 'em out. Finally he recognized the dainty wrestler and peace was restored. Then again, in Washington, Bull had a narrow escape. It seems that he used to live in the capital of our country and before his bout in that

SEAL SKIPPER DRAWS A FINE.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 18.—Manager Charles Graham of the San Francisco baseball club was fined $50 and suspended for five days by President William H. McCarthy of the Pacific Coast League for an argument with Umpire Byron in the game between San Francisco and Sacramento yesterday.

According to McCarthy, Byron gave Graham thirty seconds to start leaving the field after Graham had made a face at him. Graham thereupon went up to the umpire and pulled the watch out of his hand.

KNEPPER FORFEITS MATCH TO JOHNSON.

CHICAGO, July 18.—Rudy E. Knepper, of Sioux City, runner-up to Charles Evans, Jr., in the final of the western amateur golf championship, defaulted to H. E. Johnson of St. Paul, after being tied for the medal prize. Knepper was worn out after his strenuous week, it was stated.

Know Who It Is?—Take One Guess.

You're right, it's the handsome matinee idol, pride of our movie colony, wrestler de luxe and Jack Dempsey's training partner, Bull Montana, who eased gently into town last night ready to meet all comers. Bull has been squandering the weary hours in the East for the past several weeks, but announces to the wide world that he's glad to be back in Los Angeles.

GOLFERS ENTER THE LIMELIGHT.

National Open Championships Under Way Today.

English and American Demons Entered in Play.

Hot Golf Expected in Qualifying Rounds.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, July 18.—Play in the national open golf tournament will open at the Columbia Country Club tomorrow with half of the 262 entrants in an eighteen-hole qualifying round. The thirty-six lowest scores and all ties for thirty-sixth place would be entitled to play in the championship round Thursday. Wednesday will be given over to the qualifying efforts of the second half of the field.

The opening pair, Robert White and John J. Rowe, Germantown, Pa., are to tee up at 8:25 a.m., eastern standard time, and subsequent pairs will follow at five-minute intervals.

ASKS FOR TIME.

Amateur Champion "Chick" Evans, who was drawn in the first half of the qualifying round, asked for more time, and will not take part until late Wednesday.

A majority of the entrants were on the course, and while none equaled the remarkable 68 of Bobby Jones Sunday, several splendid scores were made during the practice. Joseph Sylvester of Saint Aubans, was on the eighteenth green in 66, but took three putts for a 69.

Abe Mitchell, the English pro was next best, with a 71. Because of the two days of practice it appears to be the general opinion that scores within 78 will have a fair chance of qualifying.

IN FAIR SHAPE.

The course is in fair condition. Joseph Kirkwood, the Australian, Abe Mitchell, Jock Hutchinson, recent winner of the English open championship, and Leo Diegel appear to be the favorites.

At a meeting of the Professional Golfers' Association, a formal protest was planned against the system of a qualifying round of but eighteen holes. A large majority of the pros are strongly in favor of a thirty-six-hole qualifying round. While it was realized it was too late to change them in the order this season, it was demonstrated a stand will be taken against a repetition of the eighteen-hole round in succeeding years.

WERE QUALIFIED.

It was pointed out that the first thirty-six players to finish in the open were qualified to enter the P. G. A. championship, and it was felt that an eighteen-hole qualifying round was not a fair preliminary test to determine the best professionals of the nation.

The number of yards per hole and the par score per hole for the course to be played over during the qualifying and the championship rounds during the next four days follows:

TENNIS MEN WIN GAMES WITH EASE.

World's Champion Tilden Victor in Straight Sets. Iichiya Kumagae Defaults.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

PROVIDENCE (R. I.) July 18.—The outstanding stars in the Rhode Island State tennis championships, pitted against comparatively weak opponents, came safely through the first two rounds of the tournament today without greatly exerting themselves.

The most notable player to default was Ichiya Kumagae, Japan, whose failure to arrive in time for the singles resulted in his elimination in the third round in favor of Capt. H. C. McCarthy of the Cambridge University team, England.

STRAIGHT SETS.

World's Champion Tilden won in straight sets against R. B. Weeden, Providence, R. I., and J. B. Fenno, Boston, while former National Champion R. Norris Williams, Boston, was eliminating George Crumb, Providence, 6-0, 6-2. C. S. Garland, Pittsburg; Capt. Sam Hardy of the 1920 Davis Cup team and Arnold W. Jones, Providence, won their matches in straight sets.

Clyde J. Curley, Pawtucket, State singles champion, encountered stiff opposition in beating Wallace Bates of California, 2-6, 6-2, 6-4. Craig Biddle, Philadelphia, fell before Edmund Levy, California, in the second round, 6-2, 6-4.

TO TAKE IT EASY.

Having played hard for three months and winning many individual and tournament matches, Gene Murphy's southpaw bowling team will lay off for about a month, declares Capt. H. J. Meek.

TOM GIBBONS TO TAKE ON CARPENTIER.

St. Paul Pug Selected as French Boxer's Opponent. Bout Set for October.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, July 18.—Tom Gibbons, the St. Paul scrapper, has been selected as Georges Carpentier's next opponent. Eddy Kane, who manages the affairs of Thomas, stepped in on Tex Rickard at Madison Square Gardens this afternoon, and, after a hasty conference lasting less than half an hour, Eddy tossed his signature all over the dotted line calling for a contest to be staged in the second week in October for the light heavyweight championship of the world. Rickard did not announce the terms of the contest, but it is expected that he will do so in a few days.

NOT SETTLED.

It has not been definitely settled whether the battle will be held at the big arena in Jersey City or at Madison Square Garden. The weight will be 175 pounds, but the number of rounds will be determined when the battle ground is finally selected. If the bout is held in New York it will be fifteen rounds to a decision, but if Jersey City is the site, the contest will have to be limited to twelve rounds without decision.

GLAD TIDINGS.

As soon as Kane had affixed his John Hancock to the parchment, Rickard cabled the glad tidings to Carpentier and his manager, M. Descamps, for which the French party had signed articles with Rickard two weeks ago.

Kane promised Rickard that he will have his protege on the scene of the battleground three weeks before the bout. Gibbons is now on a vacation in the Minnesota woods, where he will remain until called out for the necessary training stunts.

BOXING COMMISSION TO PASS ON BOUT.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, July 18.—It was announced at the office of the State Boxing Commission today that a final hearing will be granted tomorrow on the application of the International Sporting Club for a license to conduct the championship contest between Joe Lynch and Pete Herman, which is scheduled to take place at Ebbets Field July 25. Inasmuch as the date for the contest is but a few days off it is believed that the commission will pass on the application immediately after the conference.

Lynch is training for the bout at Far Rockaway while Herman is on his way from Europe and will be ready for the fight on his arrival. Peter has kept in shape with his continual fighting since he lost the title to Lynch, last winter, in Madison Square Garden.

DUNDEE WINNER IN EIGHT-ROUND BOUT.

PHILADELPHIA, July 18.—Johnny Dundee, New York, outpointed George Chaney, Baltimore, in eight rounds of fast fighting tonight. Dundee had the better of every round. Both weighed in at 134 pounds.

Indians and Angels to Clash This Afternoon.

Killefer and Pete Back from Triumphant Sally.

Coast Race Beginning to be Very Interesting.

BY ED O'MALLEY.

What ho—ye grand and faithful rooters for the Angels—get your jazz clothes on this week for Bill Kenworthy is in town with his slightly dented but dangerous Indians.

The far-northerners take on the triumphant Angels this week for a serious of seven games and the fur should surely fly seven ways from the Jack.

NOT SO EASY.

Now don't get it into your head, ye bugs and bugettes, that the Siwashes are going to be easy pickings this week just because they dropped a half dozen to the chesty Oaks in the series just finished. Old Kopecks is liable to come back with a rattle and as he is due for a winning streak who knows but what the Rainiers will put up a whale of an argument in the next six days.

Killefer and his soaring Cherubs return from Salt Lake with six Mormon scalps to their belt. They played championship ball all through the week and came within an ace of making a clean sweep of everything. The Angels are the best road team the Coast has ever known and were they to put up the same article of ball here that they put up when away from home and mother, the old Coast pennant would pretty nearly be tucked under their wings right now.

PRONE TO BLOW.

However, they are prone to blow up at times on their native heath after winning a few games and fall into an unaccountable slump. Let us hope that Killefer has passed through the severest of these tumbles and that from now on the old Seraphs will shoot consistently good until early October.

San Francisco, which has been showing signs of cracking lately, is seven and one-half games ahead of the Angels. This, however, is not an insurmountable barrier and as the season is just a little over half finished, plenty of time still remains for the Seals to be caught. Apart from the Seals' rather substantial lead, four of the other clubs are in menacing proximity.

NO SURPRISE.

Therefore, we should not be surprised, provided the Graham lads fall to the leeway for a spell, to see a blanket cover the first five teams by the time the middle of August rolls around. Should this state of affairs obtain the Coast League would be confronted with one of the greatest struggles for pennant honors it has ever experienced and the picking of the winner would indeed be a most complicated task.

Young George is to Take on Bay City Pugilist.

Corking Card of Seven Bouts at Doyle's Tonight.

If ever a card looked good on paper the program scheduled for the old Vernon arena tonight should walk away with first prize, for the seven bouts from the curtain-raiser to the main event figure to be filled with action.

Young George and George Shade, middleweights, are billed for the feature go. It will be George's first start in the south in many months. It wasn't so very long ago that the local boy ranked as one of the best steppers in this section. Then he slipped, only to come back and put up a wonderful battle a couple of weeks later.

George can fight and he hopes to prove it tonight. Shade hasn't fought here in a year, but during his absence from Southern California he has piled up an impressive string of victories.

Eddie Macey will get another chance to climb into the top rung of the bantamweight division when he meets George Marks in the semi-wind-up. Macey was going great three weeks ago when he was stopped in the fourth round of a bout against Ad Rubidoux. Marks turned around last Tuesday and handed the Riverside bantam the neatest sort of a trimming.

Al McManus, an old-timer in the four-round game, will take on Tommy Richards in one of the feature preliminaries. Another good-looking prospect on the card is the Mike Doll-Eddie Huse argument. Both boys can hit and there doesn't seem to be a possibility that the affair will go the limit.

Sailor Burrows, the battler, will start again tonight, being matched with Jack Martin. Two other good bouts complete the card.

The full card follows:

Young George vs. George Shade, 158 pounds.

Eddie Macey vs. Georgie Marks, 116 pounds.

Tommy Richards vs. Al McManus, 135 pounds.

Eddie Huse vs. Mike Doll, 150 pounds.

Sailor Burrows vs. Jack Martin, 145 pounds.

Casey Smith vs. Kid Layman, 125 pounds.

Jack Spar vs. Al Biddle, 135 pounds.

the Tiger chuckers thus far has about ruined Vernon's chances for a repeat on the gonfalon. Added to this, that mighty Mitchell-Fisher combination around the keystone sack is very conspicuous for its absence and it should be many a day before another fast duo of this kind is crimped.

However, the Bengals are of the never-say-die sort and in case the chuckers get into their stride in the near future, the Old Hap Hogans are liable to come along with a last sixteenth rush that would carry all before it.

The wiseacres are turning a watchful eye on Del Howard's commuters, who have been going lickity scoop lately. Any team that can wallop Seattle six out of seven must be reckoned with in all cases. The outfit treks to Salt Lake this week and should have a soft time of it. If this is a successful presage, Del Howard should come pretty close to being the runner-up next Monday.

San Francisco will meet a more dangerous bunch this week in the Beavers than they fattened off of in the two series they have played with them. McCredie has his kindergarten on their tip-toes just now and if they flash the same kind of ball they flashed here last week they should make the Seals hump themselves to beat them. If Mac can check the league leaders, he would draw benisons from every manager of the first-division nines, Charley Graham excepted. It isn't likely that the Ducks will jar the Seals very much, but then one can never tell.

Busy-bodied rumor has it that things are not running any too smooth on the inside of the Sacramento team. This same rumor has it that internal dissension has shown its menacing head a number of times and like the old axiom, "A house divided against itself" the Solons, if such be the fact, are about fated to suffer the same results. However, the team is intrinsically strong and if Bill Rodgers can subdue Bolshevism in his ranks, the Sacs should have something to say about the old rag before many weeks have passed.

The game this afternoon will begin at 2:30 o'clock sharp. It is expected that a big crowd will be on hand to give Killefer and his pets the glad hand. They are in the running again and unless all signs fail should be up there right along until the end of the session.

Ted Thye, Portland's demon wrestler, leaves for Houston, Tex., this morning in a rather grouchy frame of mind. Thye came down here to meet Walter Miller in a decision match, and while Miller won the title neither one of them won anything from the financial point of view. Miller was guaranteed a percentage of the net receipts and there weren't any, according to Thye. He, himself, was assured of expenses and a fat purse and these were both missing at the finish. Consequently the Portlander is peeved and apparently rightly so.

The match itself, from a financial standpoint, was a flivver and whoever promoted the affair was terribly optimistic. There wasn't much money in the house, but it seems that the men who put on the show should have received a little of what there was.

The "Grudge" race between the yachts Peggy and Joy came to an end Sunday night with the Joy about one hour and thirty-five minutes to the good. The skipper of the Peggy challenged the Joy to this race from the Newport Harbor Yacht Club to Catalina and return, but he failed to figure things closely enough, for the Joy accepted and won in a walk. The crew of the Peggy will now dig down and furnished the winners and their lady friends an elaborate turkey dinner at the Clun house.

The Automobile Club of Southern California has been kicking about contractors leaving sand and boards and building material out in the streets where motorists would be apt to run over them with sad results.

The club could get some good material for a story right down in front of our own City Hall. A temporary grand stand was erected there for the Elks' convention. Yesterday this stand was being torn down and the spikes which held the planks together were being thrown into the street with reckless abandon. Several dozen of them were scattered in the street in front of the City Hall last night. Everyone of them was capable of ruining a perfectly good tire and several of them probably did.

PHILADELPHIA, July 18.—Cincinnati took two games from Philadelphia today by the same score, 9 to 5. Peter Donahue, a recruit from Texas, relieved Marquard in the first inning of the first game after the Phillies had secured four runs and held the home team to four scattered hits. Eller was the winning pitcher in the second game, though he was taken out of the box in the seventh inning when the Phillies staged a brief rally. The scores:

BAMBINO LANDS HARD.

DETROIT, July 18.—Babe Ruth hit his longest home run of the season today, sending the ball over the corner of the centerfield fence in the eighth inning of a game that New York won easily, 10 to 1. The ball hit the ground 560 feet from the home plate. Ruth's former record for the season was 460 feet, made at the Polo Grounds. It was Ruth's thirty-sixth circuit drive this year. The slugger scored one runner ahead of him.

"THE MAN WHO."

BERT LYTELL IN A RIPPLING COMEDY AT TALLY'S.

By Grace Kingsley.

If you see a bare-footed man clad otherwise in evening clothes, traipsing the streets with a crowd at his heels, you'll probably be much amused. But you won't be nearly so much amused as you will if you follow him down to Tally's Broadway to see the show he's advertising, viz., "The Man Who," which is one of the most thoroughly delightful comedies of the season.

"The Man Who" is from Lloyd Osborne's story, and Bert Lytell, as the young man who is determined to win a lady by becoming "a man who—" and who to that end goes barefoot through the New York streets, advertising that he won't buy shoes until the price comes down, gets any amount of telling comedy into his role.

Maxwell Karger directed, and the whimsical story is put on the screen in fashion to transfer without spilling every drop of the original humor.

The only criticism is that in some spots the action is too slow, and there is a trifle too much detail. The story should have been done in five reels. Personally, too, I prefer Lytell in romantic and dramatic roles, but the crowded house yesterday testified amply with laughs to the fact that it likes Lytell as a comedian.

Mr. Karger had expanded the opening part of the story, where the young hero is a returned soldier, falls in love with one of the society girls who play at war work so as to plant the reason for the following action and make convincing the whimsical behavior of the hero; and he does it capitally, with scores of humorous touches.

There's a surprise finish, too, when the hero falls in love with the other girls, and—but go and see it all for yourself. You'll certainly get a "kick" out of that comedy, and especially the finish.

Virginia Valli's playing of the society girl struck a wrong note, it seemed to me, in exaggerating too much the affectations of the snobbish rich girl. The effect was amateurish. Lucy Cotton as the other girl, the young artist, is delightful.

IDEAL HOT WEATHER SHOW IS AT ORPHEUM.

If you don't like to exert yourself to laugh, this hot weather, the Orpheum is no place for you. Because laughter at the Orpheum is the thing, "there is nothing else but," as Ring Lardner would say.

Trixie Friganza continues the high-power headliner, with Jack Norton and Queenie Smith also in big type in their girl act "Bubbles," which is a mixture of burlesque and spectacle that is full of excellent material, but which, however, might have been better arranged, it seemed to me.

The girls wear some costumes in one scene that nearly put one over on Eve, but which I suppose are very comfortable these days. Two girls, in one case, share a head between them. If that head ever busts—!

Queenie Smith has a delightful personality and is a good dancer. As the statue that comes to life, she is a ripping blimbo. Norton has good personality and scores with his fun. I wish the spoken lines were as young and pleasing as the girls' lines.

Nice cold chills up and down our backs would be welcome in any case these days, and Ce Dora's motorcycle act, in which she ascends the inside of a huge golden net ball spiral fashion aboard her fiery mount gives you a breathless thrill. Ce Dora closes the show, but you can bet nobody walks out on the act.

A snappy little farce, full of smart lines, is "Now What?" given by Wilfred Clarke and company, and treating humorously of the eternal triangle. Two personable boys, Young and Wheeler, one hitting the piano, the other fiddling the violin, got away to good returns. Wilfrid Du Bois opens with some superior juggling. Mae Melville and George Rule remain one of the big hits on the bill in "The League of Servants," while Kitner and Reany also second-run with a repeat triumph.

DAVID WARFIELD TO WORK IN HOLLYWOOD.

All the great ones in the dramatic world come to Hollywood sooner or later. The newest to be announced is the famous one of David Warfield. From New York yesterday came word that Warfield, who was alleged some time ago to have signed up for pictures with Metro, is shortly to come to Hollywood to make his pictures.

The pictures which Warfield will make in the West will be film versions of "The Music Master" and "The Return of Peter Grimm," in both of which plays he is world-famous on the stage, and both of which no doubt will psove sensational successes in the films.

Mr. Warfield has said up to a short time ago that he would never appear on the screen. However, he and Marcus Loew are life-long friends, and a few months ago, the latter persuaded the artist to affix his signature to a contract by the terms of which he will record his successes on the screen.

Post Not in "Tent-Maker."

After all, Guy Bates Post will probably not appear in the film version of "Omar the Tent Maker," the Richard Walton Tully play in which Post made such a big sucess on the stage. This report comes from an authoritative source. Just who will play the role is not known. It is said that Post was not satisfied with his screen tests for the role.

Mr. Post will at once proceed to the making of "The Masquerader," which was perhaps the greatest success of this very fine artist on the stage.

"THE BONZE BELL" GRAUMAN THRILLER

There's strong fascination in the double role. Everybody who's anybody in pictures wants to try it at least once. They'll have plenty of chances, for everybody who's anybody outside of pictures wants to invent such a role. Why, I myself—but that's another story, as the great Rudyard K. tantalizingly tells us every now and again.

Louis Joseph Vance, who has invented many startling things in fiction, of course, had to look into the double role to see what he could do with it that nobody else had done. He produced a startler in doubles. An East Indian prince and a London gentleman look so much alike that the Londoner goes to India and poses as the Prince, thus preventing trouble with England by quelling an incipient revolution. Great stuff, just the kind that Louis Joseph loves to write (and laugh in his sleeve over.) But we eat it up—and that's the main thing to be considered, isn't it? Unless you're a highbrow and a real artist—and what have you to do with a motion picture?

Anyway, to return to safety, "The Bronze Bell" is a corkingly mellow one, and if it nowhere at any time touches life, or even approaches it, that doesn't militate against it to those who like excitements in pictures. Too, it fairly blazes with local color, the color of the Orient as seen by the imagination of the occident stay-at-home, and the plot is a whiz. Louis Joseph always turns out whizzers.

Courtenay Foote is both Har Dyal Rutton, prince of India, and David Amber, gentleman of London. Mr. Foote has the cast of countenance that fits into "The Bronze Bell," and he is also an actor. So he gives both men elegance and dignity, and as much humanity as the case permits, perhaps more than the scenario calls for. Doris May is the very attractive American girl that David loves and almost loses through the sinister intrigues of Prince Har's court. But after desperate fights and startling adventures, he wins the fair Sophia by snatching her away from the point of a dagger.

In the support are such good actors as John Davidson, Clare Dubrey, Noble Johnson, Otto Hoffman, Gerald Pring, Normand Hammond, Howard Crampton, Fred Huntley, playing under brown skins or white, according to characters.

"A Dress Rehearsal," a Blanche Hertz Revue in which many little artless maids in artful clothes do songs and dances, pirouettes and parades, for almost an hour and a half, delighted Grauman audiences yesterday, and will continue so to delight them for a week.

FIRST STEP TAKEN TO FREE FILM MAN.

MOTION FOR NEW TRIAL OF W. J. CONNER, CONVICTED IN BANK CASE, FILED.

When the case of the government against W. J. Conner, found guilty on seventeen counts of a Federal grand jury indictment charging misapplication of the funds of the National Bank and Trust Company of Pasadena, came before U. S. District Judge Bledsoe yesterday for the sentence of the accused, a motion in arrest of judgment, for the vacating of the verdict and a new trial, was filed on behalf of Conner by Capt. W. T. Helm, of counsel for the defense.

After arguments by Capt. Helm and Special Prosecutor W. Fleet Palmer, in behalf of the government, Judge Bledsoe took the matter under advisement. No date was set for the decision on the motion.

A motion that the bail of Conner be reduced from $15,000 was denied by the court, but it was intimated that the matter would be discussed later on.

The point made by counsel for the defense was that without the assistance of Edward J. Pyle, who was acquitted on the same charge, Connor could not have misapplied a cent of the bank's money; that he would have been helpless in his campaign for coin, but for the assistance of some officer of the bank; that the jury has found Mr. Pyle did nothing to warrant the charge that he had misapplied the funds of the bank, and therefore there could not be laid at the door of Conner any violation of law.

Special Prosecutor Palmer argued that Conner could be guilty without the relation of principal and abettor existing between the parties.

DEATH IS EXPECTED.

Little Hope Held Out for Recovery of Optometrist Who Shot Self.

Physicians held but slight hope last night for the recovery of Samuel O. Richey, prominent optometrist of 5513 Fifth avenue, who, the police say, attempted to end his life Sunday morning following a quarrel with his wife at the Richey home. He shot himself, the Bullet severing the spinal cord, it is declared.

Richey, who is a member of Los Angeles Lodge No. 99 of Elks and who was prominently identified with plans for the entertainment of the visiting Elks last week, attempted to end his life, it is said, as a result of a nervous breakdown.

PERENNIAL APPEAL OF "JIM THE PENMAN."

You and I and John Smith, with our respective sweethearts, wives, mothers and grandmothers, have seen "Jim the Penman," in its stage form, at least once, and probably more than twice, for it has some age and has always been popular, and dramatic stars of magnitude have shone splendidly in it.

I have seen it in its cinema form. Have you and John Smith? If not, why not? For it has been showing at the Alhambra since last Saturday noon, and it is quite as absorbingly interesting as the stage presentation, and in some ways more so, for the stage didn't show us the herd of shrieking conspirators drowning in the cabin of the yacht that Jim the Penman scuttled after locking all the doors. That scene is one of the hair-raising sort, believe me, and well worth the money, even if there were no others, which there are.

To Lionel Barrymore has been assigned the attractive role of Jim, the man who won out by a lifetime of forgery, but who at the same time lost everything that makes life worth the living. The story has a sad fatefulness that grips the heart. Lionel Barrymore carries that fatefulness in his countenance all through the tragic twenty years, and thus gives the role of Jim a fascinating power that repels even while it attracts.

Doris Rankin assumes the role of Jim's wife, the unfortunate girl whom he loved so deeply that he committed an unforgivable crime to win her. That she does not, in the denouement, forgive Jim, is not surprising, but what does astonish is the cattish way in which she turns upon him. It lacks dignity, and therefore does not win our sympathy. Miss Rankin hasn't realized the wife at all, it seems to me. She gives the part no life, no reality.

The support of Lionel Barrymore is for the most part adequate, in one or two cases very good, but generally we are made to feel that this is a star's play—quite in the stage tradition, which won't do at all in pictures, even as it won't do at all in stage plays any more.

The photoplay was made in New York, and the photography is exceedingly bad, with lighting that is peculiarly ill-fitted for a face like Mr. Barrymore's.

DEATH MYSTERY HUNT UNCOVERS LOTTERY.

MAN, BELIEVED FROM WATTS, DIED IN REAR OF PLACE, POLICE DECLARE.

When the police late yesterday began an investigation surrounding the circumstances of the death of a man thought to be R. K. De Priest of Watts, they stumbled into what they declare to be a fully equipped lottery joint in the rear of a Chinese grocery store at 1504 East Ninth street.

Mr. De Priest's body was found in an alleyway in the rear of that address. Detective Sergeant Smith, detailed to investigate, learned that the man had just entered the lottery rooms when he was seen to fall. He cried out for help and four negroes rushed to his aid and carried him to the alley, where he died.

A letter in the dead man's pocket was addressed to "R. K. De Priest, Watts, Cal.," and was apparently from the man's wife, Mrs. R. K. De Priest, 2516 Lafayette street, Denver. She expressed the hope that Mr. De Priest would "be cured by faith" from some malady, the name of which did not appear in the letter, and the writer urged him to gather courage and find work in order that they and their baby might be together again. The body was taken to the undertaking establishment of Conner-Johnson & Co., 1400 East Seventeenth street. Death was due, the police believe, to heart trouble.

Officers are investigating to learn whether a lottery has been conducted at the Chinese grocery store recently.

JUDGE THREATENED.

Writer of Letters to Bledsoe Held as Violator of Postal Law.

Charged with violation of the postal laws, Ben Mount, an inmate of the County Farm, was arrested yesterday after he sent a number of asserted threatening letters to U. S. District Judge Bledsoe. The police feared that the writer might be a Red. Inasmuch as all the letters were signed with the name and address of the sender, the police believe Mount is demented.

Explaining his act Mount said the food at the farm was unbearable and that he wrote the letters in violation of the United States laws so that he might be sent to a Federal prison where, he declared, the food and treatment are much better.

ANOTHER KYNE.

"THE BEAUTIFUL GAMBLER" SHOWING AT THE SUPERBA.

By Antony Anderson.

Have the picture houses gotten together to make this a Peter Kyne week? Good idea, even if an accident. "The Ten-Dollar Raise" is flashed at the California and quite another kind of a Kyne story is the attraction at the Superba. Peter is versatile.

But that he is much more than versatile both these interesting photoplays amply prove. You can be happy with either, and happier with both. So don't miss "The Beautiful Gambler" at the Superba. The original story (of course, an S.E.P. story) was called "Renunciation." Hope Loring turned it into a very acceptable scenario.

As there is nothing new under the sun, of course, there's nothing unique in "The Beautiful Gambler." The main grains and ingredients of the plot have been thrown into the hopper some thousands of times, but still this last grinding brings out palatable stuff, and, moreover, it is served attractively by those who know how. What more can any reasonable being ask in these days of the already effete motion picture?

As the plot is old, I won't make it older by an extra rehearsal. But I will tell you that it is thrilling, full of human interest, has a murder, a fire, a fight in a gambling hall, a trial in a courtroom, a beautiful heroine who is the victim of a man's greed, and that the love theme is touching, clean and beautiful. In short, it's a corking good story unusually well done—so well done that it seems absolutely fresh.

Grace Darmond is the beautiful gambler, forced to run a roulette wheel by the man who married her by a trick. Her rescue and the happiness that comes to her, only to be dashed from her lips, are all a part of the stirring drama. Molly's rescuing lover is Miles Rand, finely played by Jack Mower. The bad man is Harry Van Meter, the murderer is Charles Brinley, and Hershall Mayall, handsome and dignified—and true to life—is Judge Rand, father to Miles. An excellent support to the charming Grace Darmond, you perceive.

Hershall Mayall and Jack Mower (father and son in the photoplay) will make a personal appearance at the Superba tomorrow night.

LITTLE LILLIAN IS GRAUMAN PRIMA DONNA

When a five-year-old girl stepped out on the Grauman Symphony Concert platform Sunday morning, the audience of music lovers hardly knew whether to feel shocked, startled or pleased or displeased. It was something new. But when little Lillian Ruggiero had sung the first note of "Musetta Waltz Song" and had entered into the passages of that difficult number, all doubt left their minds. They should have been—and to judge by the deafening applause, they were—very much pleased indeed. Little Lillian was something new and something very, very good. She is a charming morsel of harmony and has, in addition to her voice, a natural personality and unaffected sweetness that is compelling and forceful.

Miss Melba French Barr comes in for an equal share of attention for her delightful portion of the "Popular Program." She has a voice of unusual range and beauty and yesterday afforded her audience with several minutes of pleasing song, rendering "If You Would Love Me," MacDermid, and "Musetta Waltz Song," the latter in competition with the tiny star of the day.

Mischa Guterson's arrangement of the orchestral program gave a well-balanced effect. The numbers "Carnival" overture (Dvorak,) "Sunny South" (Lampa,) "Invitation to the Dance" (Weber,) "American Patrol" (Mecham) and "Gratitude" (Grieg) were well played throughout. The concert, as a whole, was novel and pleasing.

HI JINKS SHOW A BURBANK WINNER.

With the festival spirit still lingering, the downtown musical comedy presentation of the Hi Jinks Revues company at the Burbank will provide further fun in "Southern Gal," the racing music show put on this week.

Everything dear to the heart of the fan is contained in the new revue. It is a fast piece of musical comedy, staged with pep and dash, and an abundance of sprightliness. Al and Loie Bridge are as effervescent as ever. This couple steal a march on many a famous musical star with their impersonations every week. Loie Bridge ran away with the show honors and was ably supported by an excellent cast of favorites.

"Southern Gal" is the name of a Kentucky race-horse, and the locale of the play is laid near the race track on big Derby Day. A real race is brought on to the delight of audiences. Rivalry and jealousy in the ranks of plotting individuals supply the more exciting moments of the music show.

The Hi Jinks Revues beauty chorus holds the spotlight of optical attention. The fetching girls make delightful jockeys. Their ensemble work is showing evidence of careful training.

In short, this week's Hi Jinks Revue is an A-1 production, thanks to the energetic Edgar A. Barnett, producer.

"P. B. and B." Popular.

The fourth week of "Parlor, Bedroom and Bath" at the Majestic finds that lively farce just as popular as ever. Mary Newcomb in the leading role continues scoring the big success she achieved when the play was first presented. Florence Deshon, a new member of the cast, has been enthusiastically received and is making a good impression. Franklin Pangborn, Fred Cummings, Sara Sothern and Marie Curtis give their usual excellent support.

"Proxies" Shows at Miller's.

That a crook may reform and stay reformed is admirably shown in "Proxies," the thrilling and entertaining picture which opened a second week at Miller's yesterday, after having established new attendance records at the California all last week.

The picture is one that commends itself invincibly to every motion picture fan because of its heart appeal and gripping dramatic qualities, and it also has its full quota of thrilling episodes and rich and clever humor.

Peter, a butler, portrayed by Norman Kerry, is an excellent specimen of the man whose great purpose is to live straight after spending a term in prison and discovering the great truth that "honest is not only the best policy, but the only policy."

He accomplishes this purpose against great odds, and the telling of the story provides the spectator with a lot of excitement, mystery and fun.

Zena Virginia Keefe, the leading woman, and Raye Dean, Jack Crosby, William H. Tooker and Paul Everton of the capable supporting cast all do fine work in their respective roles.

At Broadway Pantages.

In "Wives and Husbands," which opened a week's run at Broadway Pantages yesterday, the Albright Follies Company scored one of the biggest hits of its long engagement at the popular Broadway house.

Henry Sherr, as Abie Cohen, is seen at his best in this sparkling new comedy, which really has a plot and one that is followed very closely from the time the curtain rises on a beautiful scene at the beach until the finale. The company has been augmented by a quartet of young men who use their voices to good advantage.

Joe Kemper has really outdone himself in the staging of the musical numbers for "Wives and Husbands," and the first-nighters were not at all backward in showing their appreciation of "Oklahoma Bob's" new offering.

Pearl White is seen in "Tiger's Cub," a thrilling photoplay of the Alaskan ice fields.

CONCERT AT THE AMBASSADOR.

The Assistance League will hold a benefit concert in the Ambassador Theater tomorrow afternoon.

The concert will be given by the Ambassador Artist Ensemble, Henri J. Van Praag, director. F. Brooks Cole, the well-known baritone, will sing several songs, which have been requested.

The program is as follows:

1. Overture, Martha (Flotow.)
2. Four Indian Love Lyrics (Amy Woodforde Finden)—Mr. F. Brooks Cole.
3. La Fete De Seville (Manchetti) (1) Solero, (2) Sierra Morena, (3) Jota, (4) Sevillanas, (5) Marcha Con Tornadoro.
4. The Road to Mandalay (requested)—Mr. F. Brooks Cole.
5. La Boheme (Puccini.)

Guild Makes Plans For Conduct of Recently Opened Clubhouse.

Officers were elected and plans for the conduct of the new clubhouse were made last night at the first meeting of the fiscal year of the Screen Writers' Guild of the Authors' League of America, Inc. The clubhouse, at 6716 Sunset Boulevard, was opened Thursday with a dinner, and it is planned to hold a public reception soon. It was decided last night to open the associate membership to all writers, painters and sculptors, and thus to make the club representative of the fine arts.

Officers of the guild were elected as follows: President, Frank E. Woods; vice-president, June Mathis; treasurer, Eugene W. Presbrey; secretary, Dwight Cleveland; executive committee, Thompson Buchanan, Elmer Harris, A. S. Le Vino, Miss Jeanie MacPherson, Frederick Palmer, Elmer Rice and Rob Wagner.

NO OTHER SHELL WOULD DO AT ALL.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SANTA MONICA, July 18. In his effort to find a seashell which he declared he had lost in the sand yesterday, Johnny Witherson, 5 years old, wandered several miles up the coast along the shore this morning.

It took much urging and coaxing and many promises on the part of Officer Ben Corrillo to get Johnny back. No other shell but the one he lost yesterday would do, he told the police. He was not sure where he dropped it, but he said it was about as big as his little finger nail and it was "kinda pink and had kinda brown spots on it." Though he had seen many, many other shells in his search, he could not find the right one.

He was finally prevailed upon to return to his frantic mother, however, with the promise that the ocean probably would wash the shell up tonight.

TALKS GOOD ROADS.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

POMONA, July 18.—Speaking before the directors of the Pomona Chamber of Commerce today, Supervisor Prescott F. Cogswell announced that the contract for the paving of three and one-half miles of Brea Canyon, a strip extending from the Orange county line, north to the top of the hill, had been awarded to the Sierra Construction Company, the price being $32,000 exclusive of the cement, which will be furnished by the county, and will bring the total cost to $100,000.

After this paving is completed there will still remain more than two miles of paving to complete the linking of the Brea Canyon road with the Valley Boulevard. This strip cannot be paved until the new grade on this side of the hill has been settled by the winter rains.

Supervisor Cogswell appeared before the chamber directors in company with Road Commissioner Jones. Both men favored the extension of West Second street in this city, to avoid three dangerous grade crossings, which must be crossed by traffic on the present Valley Boulevard leading into Pomona from Los Angeles. They agreed that from a safety standpoint the work should be done immediately, and Supervisor Cogswell stated he favored a 1-cent special road tax being included in the county budget to provide for the improvement.

In this he was indorsed by the directors, who passed a resolution favoring the 1-cent tax and expressing their belief that the work should be done at once.

TARGET PRACTICE BRINGS POLICE.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

PASADENA, July 18.—Because they could not resist the impulse to try out their stolen firearms, Thomas Evans, aged 17 years, and Edwin Cook, aged 14 years, were arrested near the Annandale Golf Club today and confessed to being Pasadena's latest boy burglars.

The boys admitted to Detective Sergeant Robert O'Rourke and Officer Stanley Decker that they burglarized the sporting goods store of W. T. Hauser, 28 West Colorado street, last night, taking guns, ammunition, revolvers and pearl-handled knives.

The burglary was discovered when the store opened this morning. Meantime the boys went to the hills near the golf club and practiced marksmanship. The firing attracted attention and was reported to the police.

The boys also admitted burglarizing the Boston bakery a few days ago.

BABIES THRIVE HERE.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

PASADENA, July 18.—Fewer babies die in Pasadena than in any city in the United States of 25,000 to 50,000 population, according to the report of the American Child Hygiene Association, made public here today by Dr. J. Severy Hibben, city health officer. Only thirty-three babies out of every 1000 born in Pasadena die, this being the lowest infant mortality rate in the country in cities of the class named. The highest mortality rate in this classification, according to the report, is East Chicago, Ind., with a rate of 172 to the 1000.

SEARCH FOR RADIUM IS A FAILURE.

Precious Tube Lost at Hospital at San Diego—Other News Notes.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SAN DIEGO, July 18.—Search for a $6000 tube of radium, which was lost at St. Joseph's Hospital some days ago has been abandoned, although the local detectives and police will keep a lookout for the possible thief. For several days O. J. Adams, local radium expert, has been conducting a search at the hospital with an electroscope, an instrument which detects the presence of the precious element. Gilman A. Gist, agent of the company that insured the radium, said today the hunt with the electroscope had now been discontinued.

The radium in a tube disappeared from the hospital after it had been laid on a table by Dr. L. C. Kinney, cancer specialist. As the radium is all registered, the thief who may have the tube will be unable to dispose of it, it is said.

W. W. Wales of Los Angeles loaned his automobile to two sailors Saturday, and they have failed to return it, he reported to the police today. Wales picked up the two sailors for a drive Saturday, and at La Jolla he allowed them to remain in the car and take a little drive while he attended to some business. The two boys failed to return.

The B. F. Goodrich Rubber Company, in a petition to the County Supervisors, protests against the assessment of $16,800 made by a deputy county assessor against its local property on B. street. The company in the petition admits that its assessment return on the property represents only 25 per cent of the value of the stock. The company's return on the property, which it admits is worth $40,000, was $10,200. The County Supervisors recently took steps to reappraise the county on a new 100 per cent legal basis on account of protests of taxpayers against the high tax rate.

TWO AUTO SMASHES.

Residents of Riverside Victims of Mishaps.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

RIVERSIDE, July 18.—Two closed cars figured in collisions due to the carelessness of the "other fellow" while Riversiders were returning through the Santa Ana and Laguna canyons from beach resorts last night.

Postmaster Harger's car was forced off the road into a ditch by a Santa Ana driver whose car number is in possession of the officers. The occupants of the car, which included Mrs. Harger and her mother, aged 82, were slightly injured, the latter suffering principally from shock.

Walter C. Davison and family collided with a car near Corona, which backed across the road in front of the Davison car without warning. The Davison car was bowled over on its side, the occupants being released through the side door.

SHIP BY WATER.

Raisin Company Takes Advantage of Lower Rates.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

FRESNO, July 18.—Due to the failure of the Interstate Commerce Commission in putting into effect the new all-rail rate on raisins and dried fruit, the first of a series of raisin shipments through the Panama Canal will leave San Francisco tomorrow, it was announced here today by officials of the California Associated Raisin Company.

According to Traffic Manager A. C. Kohlmann, the equivalent of fifty or sixty cars will be shipped immediately by water. The company hopes to have the reduced rates which were to become effective August 22 in force on August 1, but pending delay has decided on the water shipment. The new rate is $1.25 a hundred as compared to $1.66⅔.

HEAT IS FATAL TO PROSPECTOR.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

RIVERSIDE, July 18.—The body of Elijah Herndon, 65, who was overcome by the heat on the desert while prospecting near Calexico yesterday, will be buried here. He died while being brought to this city by his two sons, who were with his prospecting expedition. The dead man has a daughter residing at Long Beach.

ROB CLOTHES CLOSETS.

POMONA, July 18.—Burglars entered the home of N. F. Chormicle, 1075 East Seventh street, last night and made away with several suits of clothes and jewelry. The police have been unable to find a trace of the intruders.

AVIATOR FALLS IN ARMY PLANE.

March Field Flyer Crashes to Earth at Ontario.

Saves Life by Rare Display of Judgment.

Machine Badly Damaged by the Fall.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

ONTARIO, July 18.—Cadet Arthur L. Smith narrowly escaped death and sustained painful cuts about the face and bruises about the body when the Curtis army plane he was piloting crashed to earth and landed upside down at Latimer Field here shortly before noon today.

Cadet Smith was attempting a landing at Latimer Field when, according to his own statements, his engine suddenly caught and refused to operate properly.

The plane and its pilot narrowly escaped detruction when it swooped down among a group of orange packing houses and a large oil tank but Smith succeeded in extricating it in that emergency only to fall to earth in the field a few hundred feet distant.

The plane bounced along in the field for some distance finally snapping off the landing gear and turning turtle. The aviator succeeded in liberating himself from the wreck by loosening his safety belt and falling from his seat head first. Both propeller blades of the plane were broken and it was otherwise severely damaged. Smith was one of a party of ten flying cadets in charge of First Lieutenant Brand to arrive here from March Field on a cross country fly today.

He had had forty hours' flying experience since April 13. His plane was of the type known as a J.N. 6-H, Curtis, equipped with a Wright motor.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

POMONA, July 18.—Samuel P. Twomey, one of the pioneer implement dealers in this city, has sold his interest in the Rancher's Manufacturing Company and will retire from active business. Mr. Twomey has just completed thirty years of business life in Pomona. His business was purchased by George A. Griggs of the George Junior Republic at Chino.

Items of Interest About Doings of Women.

DEBATE STARTS UPROAR IN CLUB.

Attorney Hotly Assails Rail Superintendent Here.

One-Man Cars Are Cause of Verbal Fireworks.

Woman Tells Growing Power in the Legislature.

BY MYRA NYE.

To market to market, to buy a fat pig!
One-man car, one-man car, jig-i-ty-jig!
Crown Hill steep, Crown Hill steep, in the mad gig;
Down again, down again; lost is your wig!

Which applies to the special brand of vicissitude which befalls the passengers in the one-man cars run on the Griffin-avenue, Crown Hill and Angeleno Heights lines, as discussed at the Woman's City Club yesterday under the title, "Shall the One-Man Cars be Abolished?"

"The dinky things raise the cost of living every time you ride up hill in them," said Morris G. Ferguson, an attorney who spoke, "it increases meals to six a day, three going down and three coming up, so sea sick is the passenger."

There are 999 ways to say infiamming words, and the unbiased listener would say that Mr. Ferguson exhausted 998 of the hottest of them in referring to George Baker Anderson, superintendent of transportation of the Los Angeles Railway Company, speaking for the company. When Mr. Ferguson was through the poor cars had not a leg to stand on, or rather a wheel to run on.

"RULES VIOLATED."

"Every rule of this club has been violated. Courtesy has not prevailed nor order been maintained," proclaimed Mrs. Martha Law, speaking from the floor at the conclusion of Mr. Ferguson's address.

"The chair cannot call a speaker to order when he talks within his time limit," said Mrs. J. B. Stearns, president of the club.

"She can and she should," said another member. "Ridicule is never argument, neither is giving the lie argument."

In quick succession many members spoke, all of them expressing opinions averse to the one-man car but favoring Mr. Anderson, who had spoken at first dispassionately during his twenty minutes in favor of the little yellow cars. The debate became more heated. Half a dozen women were on the floor at once, most of them appealing with outstretched hands for an opportunity to speak. Dr. Lulu Peters was the favored one.

"I give my two minutes to Mr. Anderson," she said in do-or-die tones.

CONTROLS ANGER.

His face working with emotion and controlling his anger with difficulty, Mr. Anderson said: "I am not prepared with rebuttal. I thought I was asked here to speak on behalf of the safety cars as operated in our city, according to law. I have been attacked personally concerning the fare asked by the company. I have been attacked as to the probity of the company. I have been attacked concerning my own integrity and truthfulness. Since I am forced to defend my integrity I will say that every statement I have made to you is down in black and white and can be verified by the Board of Public Utilities or by the State Railroad Commission, I challenge the speaker to prove them untrue. I have been called a liar and practically every statement I have made has been questioned. I can offer no rebuttal to this."

"I move we adjourn! I move we adjourn!" came the calls from members anxious to save the club's reputation as a "tolerant open forum" and the club did adjourn abruptly.

WOMAN SPEAKS.

All the hot argument came after a charmingly informal talk of Assemblywoman Hughes, who is spending the summer in Los Angeles attending classes at the State University, and was in sharp contrast to her poise and control. She spoke on "The Mother in Politics."

"When I first went to the Legislature I rejoiced to put my profession down as 'housewife,'" she said. "We had been told that women would be too idealistic in the work we four California women were entering upon; but throughout my experience in Sacramento my original conviction has strengthened that politics needs the woman's vision for better schools, for better cities and most of all for better homes and mothers.

"It has been a wonderful thing to watch the growing power of women at Sacramento. At first we were left courteously alone and our opinions were not asked. We did not talk much. Then a few came to us and asked our opinions and how we were going to vote. We listened to their arguments with an open mind, sometimes changing our votes when we had heard both sides. And now virtually every member of the Legislature comes to us and asks not only for our votes, but for our influence to rescue other votes."

ROBS DEPARTING ELK.

Bandit Holds Up Lodge Man in Daylight Near Espee Station.

Rudolph Frei, a visiting Elk from Hoboken, N. J., was held up and robbed of $70 on the street near the Southern Pacific station at noon yesterday, according to a complaint he made to the police a short time later.

He had just purchased a ticket for St. Louis, he told Detective Gravitt, when a stranger accosted him and asked him his destination. "I'm going to St. Louis, too," Mr. Frei says the stranger told him, and then the latter suggested a walk.

They had gone about two blocks north of the station when the stranger pressed an automatic pistol to Mr. Frei's ribs and demanded his money. Mr. Frei handed over $70 in bills, all he had, he said. The highwayman was described as about 26 years old, and wearing a light gray suit and straw hat.

CLUB MAKES TOUR OF LOS ANGELES HARBOR.

Carrying out its policy of educating its members to a knowledge of Los Angeles and vicinity and promoting fellowship within the organization, the Crane Club of Los Angeles, composed of 110 employees of the Crane Company, made a tour of Los Angeles Harbor, last Saturday. Sixty-five members of the club went to the harbor in automobiles and then inspected all points of interest, including the warships, at the harbor. This outing contrasted with one enjoyed recently when the club conducted a farm party which ended with a dinner and dance in Pacoima Canyon. The organization, of which F. L. Manshester is president, now is laying plans for the annual picnic of the club to be held in September.

PRISONER ORDERED NORTH.

U. S. District Judge Bledsoe made an order yesterday removing Roy Stewart to Seattle, Wash., for a hearing on the charge of having sent an improper letter through the mails. Stewart said he would be glad to get back to his old home, and would have no difficulty in proving his innocence.

The Daily Fun Hour.

BY HONOR WALSH.

THE FOUR ELEMENTS.

There is no leader in this game, which may be played indoors, on a wide porch or out-of-doors. The players separate into two equal groups and sit in chairs or on the ground, facing one another. The first player on one said throws a rolled-up handkerchief to any player on the opposite side, at the same time calling out the name of one of the Four Elements—Earth or Air or Fire or Water. The player so chosen must reply instantly by naming bird beast, fuel or fish, according to the element given. For instance, if "Air" is announced, he may respond with "Eagle;" if "Earth," he may answer "Horse;" if "Fire," he may reply "Hickory Wood," and if "Water," he may say "Trout." If he fails to answer promptly he is subject to forfeit.

When a player answers quickly and correctly, the one who has summoned him says, "Righto! Eagle you are," and he is Eagle, or whatever he has named, until the next round. Then he throws the handkerchief to an opposite player and the game proceeds in the same manner until all have named themselves or have been dropped for forfeit. If a summoner fails to say "Righto!" and calls "Forfeit!" instead when the player has answered correctly, the summoner is put out on forfeit. So clever players try to puzzle their summoners by giving an answer which may fit two elements for instance, "Swan," "Duck," or "Seal," which belong to both water and earth.

When both rows have finished, the forfeit players must imitate Eagle, Trout, Horse, etc., at the command of these players.

Efficient Housekeeping

BY Laura A. Kirkman

THE HOUSEKEEPER'S INDOOR DRESS.

Several of my readers have asked me to write upon the subject of the housekeeper's indoor dress. For the woman who does her own housework this question resolves itself into two heads: the work dress and the afternoon dress (I assume that the heavy part of the day's work will be done by noon—as it should be in the home of all efficient housekeepers.)

Let us consider the working costume first. What color shall it be? I believe I will surprise many by my answer to this question—white. To my mind, a white dress is the most practical to choose for heavy work, covered, of course, with an all-over gingham apron. For a white dress does not fade when one perspires from hard exercise; a white dress does not fade from frequent washings or from hangings in the sun after washing; a white dress, when spotted, may receive applications of all kinds of acid spot removers which would ruin a colored dress. Yes, in the long run a white dress gives the best service for hard work.

And now for the question of the afternoon frock. Here we may satisfy the primitive love of color that lurks in each and every one of us. With our heavy work done, we feel justified in donning a dress of the color which becomes us, and receiving our friends or enjoying a well-earned hour with a new book.

But note that I said "the color that most becomes us." We cannot all wear the same color with equal success. It takes a tiny woman, for instance, to wear one of the red-and-white checked ginghams (red is considered a disturbing color, and if worn by a stout or tall person it is rather too much in evidence.) Pink, on the other hand, may be worn by almost anybody—stout or thin, short or tall, blond or brunette. Pink brings out the color in our cheeks and is becoming to us all. Blues of all shades are particularly well adapted to the woman whose bones or features are large; blue is considered a dignified, inconspicuous color. And greens—especially the green-and-white checked ginghams or striped dimities—are chosen when a cool effect is desired; it is nature's color and it seems to carry its coolness with it.

Cottons and linens are perhaps the most practical fabrics to choose for these indoor dresses; for moths do not attack these materials while they are stored away during the winter months, and the housekeeper is sure of taking them out of her attic trunk, the following spring, ready for another three or four months of warm-weather service.

Mrs. E. B. C. Answer: Send me a stamped, self-addressed envelope for an article which I keep printed up to send to readers who ask for a list of the protein, starch and fat foods. This article will also tell you what you want to know about a well-balanced meal.

All inquiries addressed to Miss Kirkman in care of the "Efficiency Housekeeping" department will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So if a personal or quicker reply is desired, a stamped and self-addressed envelope must be inclosed with the question.—[The Editor.

SOCIETY.

BY VIRGINIA WOODS.

To Welcome Miss Armstrong.

Miss Nelchen Armstrong, who has just returned from New York, is incentive for a tea, at which Mrs. Charles Jeffras is to entertain twenty-five girls on Thursday afternoon in the Cocoanut Grove at the Ambassador.

Miss Armstrong and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Allen Armstrong, have just returned after a year's absence in New York, and are again in their former home on South Harvard Boulevard.

Told at Tea.

At a tea for twenty girls Saturday, announcement was made of the betrothal of Miss Frances Elizabeth Gardner to William Arthur Godshall. The wedding is to be in September. Miss Gardner is the daughter of Mrs. A. G. Gardner of 1963 Cheltenya avenue, Hollywood, and Mr. Godshall is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Lincoln D. Godshall of this city, and is associated with his father in mining. He is a graduate of the University of California. Miss Gardner graduated from the Hollywood High School. Mr. Godshall is a brother of Dr. Leon Dean Godshall, who married Cecile Call. Miss Frances Fitzgerald and Miss Nora Gardner assisted at the tea. The secret was revealed in cards, tied to the individual cakes.

Arrive in Europe.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry E. Huntington, who sailed from New York on the Aquitania on July 4, have arrived in France, and are by now at their villa, in Versailles.

Arriving in New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Bovard Hammond (Harvie Wallis,) whose marriage Saturday morning was one of the interesting surprises of the summer, are expected to arrive in New York tonight, and will sail immediately on the Red Star liner for a motor trip through England and France, planning to return to Los Angeles in October.

No one but members of the immediate families knew of the plans or even of the engagement of the couple. The bride is one of the leaders in younger society. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Wallis of 602 South Harvard Boulevard, formerly of Beaumont, Tex. Mr. Hammond is head of the bond firm of Paul B. Hammond and Brother, and is a son of W. T. S. Hammond, vice-president of the First National Bank.

By Mrs. Day.

Mrs. L. Dabney Day of 629 South Serrano street was hostess at a smart little high tea in honor of Mrs. Horace B. Chilton, wife of formerly United States Senator Chilton of Dallas, Tex., now visiting her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Boren of 1881 Buckingham Road.

Off to Europe.

Mrs. Henry Clayton Witmer and her niece, Miss Virginia Humison, are leaving this morning for New York, from where they will sail for an extended visit to England and the continent.

Storrows Home.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel B. Storrow have returned from a month's visit at Miami Lodge, near the Yosemite Valley.

Planning Motor Trip.

Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Sanders (Ruth Hoyt,) have just returned from their ranch, near Seattle, at the foot of Mt. Rainer, and in two weeks will leave with Mr. and Mrs. Asa V. Call for a motor trip through the Yosemite Valley and the Yellowstone Park. Mrs. Sanders's mother, Mrs. Albert Sherman Hoyt, who expects to motor through the Yellowstone, may go with them, and later she will visit in Denver and then go to New York.

At Grossmont.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Hubah (Olga Steeb,) are back from Grossmont, where they spent the week-end with Mrs. Carrie Jacobs Bond, at her country home.

Back From East.

Dr. Charles G. Stivers and his daughter, Miss Hildegarde Stivers, have returned from an extended eastern trip. They visited relatives in New York City and stopped in Buffalo, Niagara Falls and Chicago. Coming West Mr. Stivers made a survey of speech correction standards in various universities, and read a paper to the American Medical Association, at Boston.

For Portland Girl.

Miss Anna Barker, daughter of the late Bishop Barker of Portland, who is an attractive visitor here, is to be honor guest at a luncheon at which Mrs. Edgar Frost of South Kingsley Drive is to entestain tomorrow. Her guests will be Miss Barker, Miss Byrd Wallis, Miss Dorothy Baker, Miss Ethelyn Wallis, Miss Alwyn Thomas, Mrs. A. S. Edmonds, Mrs. William Dellamore, Mrs. D. C. Millette and Mrs. M. S. Robbins.

In New York.

Mrs. E. R. Brainerd is now in New York, stopping at the Hotel Chatham.

On Eastern Tour.

Dr. Robert Dudley Emery left yesterday for Cleveland, O., where he is to attend the osteopathic national convention. Later he will visit the Mayo brothers in Rochester, Minn., and will visit the clinics at Harvard Medical College in Boston, and at Columbia University in New York.

Is Baby Showing a Steady Gain?

If not try Certified Milk from Holstein Cows.

If you cannot nurse your Baby, see to it nevertheless, that it has an equal chance for health and strength with that enjoyed by the breast-fed baby.

You can do this by feeding Certified Milk from Holstein Cows. The milk from the Holstein cow is most nearly like human milk in structure, in quality and percentage of fat, and in nature of curds formed

Unlike other milk from Guernsey or Jersey Cows, Certified Holstein Milk contains its fat in the form of small even globules which produce tender, flaky and digestible curds, easily taken care of by the digestive juices.

In other milks the curds are coarse, heavy and stringy and produce a serious obstacle to the delicate stomach of baby.

The use of these heavier, fatter milks usually causes indigestion. Most of the best and most celebrated physicians and dietitians throughout the world recommend the use of Certified Holstein milk, not only for infant feeding, but for growing children, invalids, convalescents and the whole family.

Arden Certified is the only milk produced in Southern California which will meet the very rigid requirement of your baby's delicate digestive system.

Corroborate these statements by consulting your physician.

Port Notes.
The San Luchenbach freighter Katrina Luckenbach became disabled after leaving Balboa, Panama, for this port last week, and will be several days late in arriving here as a result. It was reported along the waterfront yesterday that the steamer was originally due here today, but is thought to be still in port at Balboa.
The Swedish motorship Buenos Aires, flagship of the Johnson Line, sailed from Antwerp for Los Angeles Harbor on July 9, carrying 4500 tons of cargo for this port.
The Pacific-Argentine-Brazil Line freighter West Nivaa sailed from Montevideo on July 6 for this port, bringing 5000 tons of coffee and 2000 sacks to be discharged here. This will be the heaviest single shipment ever received here from a South American port.
The Norwegian motorship Theodore Roosevelt, sister ship of the George Washington, which was to have recently sailed from Antwerp for this port on July 7, bringing 1000 tons of pig iron, 5000 tons of silver sand to be used in the making of plate glass, and 250 tons of general merchandise.
Capt. A. B. Paulsen, general manager of the Port of Los Angeles Stevedoring & Ballast Co., which was recently organized at the harbor, has moved his family here from San Francisco, and is located at 411 Fortieth street, Point Fermin.
Three vessels sailed for off-shore Atlantic and Gulf ports yesterday after loading cargo at the harbor. They included the European-Pacific freighter Pontoma, sailing for Liverpool, Glasgow, Hamburg and Antwerp; Lake Gumul, of the swayne & Hoyt Line, sailing for New Orleans and Havana, and the Nawson Line freighter West Keene, sailing for Atlantic ports.
Off-shore sailings scheduled for today include the British tanker Lompoc, with oil for Antofagasta; United-American freighter Alaskan, for Boston and New York; Nawson freighter Clemence C. Morse, for New York, Boston and Portland.
Mr.: Struthers & Dixon freighter West Calcos, for the Orient.

Judge Reeve yesterday denied the motion of Dr. John Kutch and Marie Harrison, his office nurse, to set aside an indictment by the grand jury accusing them of being implicated, through an illegal operation, in the death of Margaret Fitzgerald. The trial was set by the court for October 10.

Falling Truck Crushes Garage Worker to Death.

John Marek, 35 years of age, of 926 Wall street, a garage man, was crushed to death yesterday when a truck under which he was working fell into the pit where he was standing. The accident occurred at the Ideal Garage, 721 South San Pedro street, where Marek was employed.
Witnesses told Detective Sergt. Ritch, who was detailed to investigate the accident, that Mr. Marks had driven the truck over the pit and had just descended into the latter when an automobile, operated by Charles Fisette, 1655 West Fifty-sixth street backed into the truck, causing the rear wheels to fall into the pit on Mr. Marek.
The body was taken to the Reed Brothers-Dolkenbaugh Company's undertaking rooms by order of the Coroner. Mr. Fisette was held blameless for Mr. Marke's death.

LIBRARIAN REPORTS.

Perry, Back from East, Gives Data to Aid Plans for New Building.

Public Librarian Perry attended the regular meeting of the Library Board yesterday and made a written report of his observations on the eastern trip, from which he returned Sunday night. He gave much data of value in planning the city's library building, but he made no recommendations regarding either the type of building or the site to be selected. These matters probably will not be decided for some time.
Mr. Perry attended the American Library Association meeting in Swampscott, Mass., and served on three of the committees. He stopped off at Detroit to inspect the new public library there. It is the work of Cass Gilbert, New York architect, noted for public building construction, and is similar to the library in St. Louis, which Mr. Gilbert also planned.

JAIL AND FINES FOR PAIR IN BOOZE CASES.

Clarence Firth and Harry Widerner pleaded guilty to three counts in an indictment charging them with violation of the national prohibition law in U. S. District Judge Bledsoe's court yesterday. They were each fined $150 and given three months in the Los Angeles County Jail. Anastacio Miranda, who pleaded guilty to a similar offense, was fined $200.

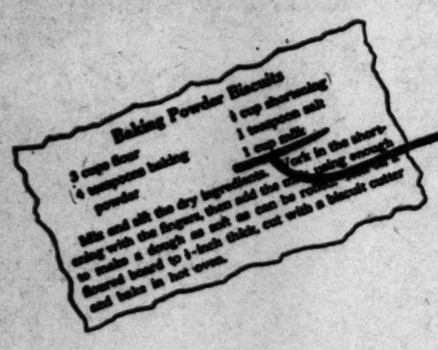
You will gain added richness and flavor by using Carnation Milk, which is twice as rich as ordinary milk.



To ½ cup of Carnation add ½ cup of water and stir.

This pure cows' milk is evaporated to the consistency of cream by removing part of the water. It is then hermetically sealed and sterilized. Cook with Carnation—it is economical and convenient. Sold in two sizes by all grocers.

Recipe for Omelet

[illegible] and yolks beaten separately, 1 cup of Carnation Milk mixed with 6 tablespoonfuls of water, 4 level teaspoonfuls of cornstarch, dissolved in the cold Carnation Milk, 1 teaspoonful baking powder, and a little salt. Add the whites, beaten to a froth, last to a little butter.

Creamed Asparagus a Nourishing Dainty

Prepare the asparagus, either fresh or canned, in the usual way. Make the thin white sauce given here. Have toast ready, put asparagus over this, and cover with the white sauce in quantity desired. Use lettuce leaves under the toast if desired.

White Sauce That Is Creamy and Nourishing

Melt 2 tablespoonfuls of butter in sauce pan; when bubbling add 1 tablespoonful of flour, and stir until well blended. Pour in, very gradually, ½ cup of Carnation Milk mixed with ½ cup of water. Add ¼ teaspoonful of salt and a dash of pepper. Beat until smooth and creamy.

Home Made Grape Sherbet

One and one-half cups sugar, 1 quart water, 3 cups grape juice, juice of 2 lemons. Boil water and sugar together for ten minutes. Strain into freezer, and when cold strain fruit juices into this. Freeze. (Use 3 parts of ice to one of salt, if a fine grained sherbet is desired.) Serve with whipped Carnation Milk. (See page 15 Recipe Book.)

The artist has chosen in the painting above represented to portray the arrival in Southern California of a typical party of those hardy adventurers, whom the news of the discovery of gold called to this then little known land of promise. Of all the historical pictures which adorn the new home of the Citizens Trust and Savings Bank at 736-740 South Hill Street, this one calls to mind most vividly the amazing growth and development, which have transformed California in little more than a generation from an unproductive wilderness into one of the richest and most fruitful of modern states.

The Gold Rush of '49

We follow, as did those pioneers of an earlier day, the call of promised wealth and prosperity. We seek that goal in the realm of modern business rather than through the discovery and exploitation of natural wealth, but the goal is the same. The physical hardships and dangers which they faced so constantly have given place largely to financial risks, but those hazards are none the less real.

The modern bank is doing more to eliminate financial risks, uncertainty and loss than any other agency. The Citizens Trust and Savings Bank, for instance, has developed eight distinct Departments, each of which offers you a special type of protective service. The COMMERCIAL and SAVINGS DEPARTMENTS safeguard your money and give you in addition the great advantages of compound interest and checking privileges. The ESCROW DEPARTMENT protects your interests in every detail of the transfer of property. The TRUST DEPARTMENT makes it possible for you to assure yourself that the wealth you accumulate will not be lost or dissipated, but will serve the exact purposes for which you intended it. Wherever your business requires transactions outside of the United States our FOREIGN DEPARTMENT is ready to facilitate and safeguard such activities and to advise you as to the proper conduct of such affairs. When you are considering the investment of money the BOND DEPARTMENT will be glad to advise with you regarding the many unusual opportunities which are yours today. The COLLECTION DEPARTMENT will assume the responsibility for the collection of notes, mortgages, trust deeds, etc. Your personal valuables, securities and documents are safeguarded absolutely by our SAFE DEPOSIT DEPARTMENT.

Here in one organization is a complete safety service which protects you at every turn in the road to your goal. Moreover, it is the purpose of this bank to give to every depositor and client the very fullest, friendliest and most helpful of service.

WIFE'S CHARGE DECLARED VOID.

Cannot Legally Accuse Husband of Embezzling, Court's Ruling.

After a jury had been impaneled yesterday in Judge Avery's court to hear testimony in the case of Samuel Spence, an automobile dealer of Long Beach, charged by A. M. Spence with having embezzled $2500, the attorney for the defendant objected on the ground that the plaintiff was none other than the wife of Samuel Spence and that, while the couple are separated, the wife cannot legally bring an embezzlement charge against her husband. Judge Avery ordered the case dismissed.

Protest Against Nickname Leads to Death Fight.

John R. Armandia, a helper at an oil well near Montebello, died on Sunday protesting against being called a "Wop," it was disclosed yesterday by deputy sheriffs, who took a statement from Charles W. Anderson, an oil well driller, accused of murdering Mr. Armandia.

"I don't want you to call me a Wop any more," Mr. Armandia is said to have asserted. "My name is John; call me that."

Words are said to have passed between Mr. Armandia and Anderson, according to the latter's statement, resulting in threats by the former. Anderson says he shot in self-defense. The statement was taken by Deputy Sheriffs Johnson, Allen and Cronin. Later a complaint charging Anderson with murder was issued by Dep. Dist.-Atty. Becker.

WILL INSPECT AQUEDUCT.

For the purpose of making up an annual report a number of the members of the county grand jury left yesterday for several days of inspection of the Los Angeles Aqueduct. They will return on Friday. Foreman Charles L. Elmdorf was one of the party. The jury will meet next week.

SAYS HIGHWAYS IN POOR SHAPE.

Auto Club Tells Locations of Bad Pavement.

Shows Huge Repair Costs Paid by Citizens.

lic these additional facts of State highway failure.

"While past failures can not be retraced, the club believes that practices that have clearly shown themselves to be wasteful should be stopped and that roads should be built with the $50,000,000 or more yet available that will be lasting and useful.

"One instance of State highway failure—observed by thousands of motorists—is the portion of the Los Angeles to Bakersfield highway, beginning at the foot of Grapevine Canyon and extending northerly 17.39 miles. From the foot of the grade to mile 2 the road is in good condition. The surface is very rough but the slab is intact.

"From mile 2 to mile 14.5 the failure has been extensive. The slab has broken down along the edge and has been hammered down into the yielding subgrade. This bad condition began soon after the road was opened to traffic and has continued in increasing measure to the present time.

BUSY ON REPAIRS.

"The road is now failing so rapidly that two maintenance crews are continually employed in making repairs and yet traffic is forced to turn aside to avoid many holes. The right of way is strewn with concrete which has been broken up by traffic in the roadway. Repaired portions have failed and the broken concrete thrown out and replaced with new. This condition is directly due to construction policies criticised by the report of the automobile clubs.

"The extensive and disastrous failure in this section has not only entailed great expense in making repairs but traffic has been seriously inconvenienced and many accidents have occurred. The road was opened to traffic on May 12, 1916. The total cost was $16,077.70 per mile and the bond interest charges amount to $722.11 per mile for an approximate average bond life of twenty years.

"The section has been in service five years at an annual upkeep cost of $1114 per mile. During the first half of 1920 there was spent for general maintenance $20,297.55 and for one mile of reconstruction $26,340. Including annual interest, the cost per miles in 1920 for maintenance and reconstruction was $4519.36 exclusive of depreciation.

POOR CONDITION.

"In spite of costly repairs and reconstruction, ten to fifteen miles of this road are yet in poor condition and the combined efforts of two maintenance crews are not sufficient to keep them in good condition. When it is considered that this section is typical of approximately 50 per cent of the entire system the gravity of the situation from the standpoint of those who use the roads and the people who pay for them is apparent.

"The initial failure of this road was brought about by a deflection of the slab to such an extent that the concrete broke. Lack of adequate preparation in preparing the foundation was responsible for the breaking of the surface.

OTHER FAILURES.

"Marked instances of failure are to be found along the highway which extends from Universal City to Springville, traversing the San Fernando Valley, Conejo district and the Santa Clara Valley. This is one of the first roads built by the State Highway Commission and is 46.6 miles long.

"The total first cost was $770,196 or $16,528 per mile with interest charges to July 1 of $216,654. The maintenance and reconstruction to July, 1920, amounted to $306,856, giving a total cost, according to State board figures of $1,292,706. Estimating reconstruction and general maintenance to July, 1921, the total cost is $1,307,708, or $28,062 per mile. In addition to repairs completed there are ten miles now under reconstruction.

"The record of this piece of highway, including reconstruction now under way, shows an average cost of $34,890 per mile, exclusive of bond retirement and shows 22.06 miles of reconstructed highway. The 1920 classification gives 27.78 miles classified fair, but which will soon need to be reconstructed. Reconstruction work on this highway was begun in the fall of 1919 and the road has been closed in part or entirely up to the present time.

COSTLY TO GROWERS.

"Territory tributary to the highway is mostly under cultivation and the closing of this road for extensive repair work has been both costly and inconvenient to the growers.

"Because this highway was one of the first to be built, its extensive failure might be partly attributed to lack of information and precedent. A considerable portion of the road was built over adobe soil and it was here that engineers discovered that the swelling and contracting of such soil is unfavorable to the success of a thin slab of concrete.

"In the face of this result, however, and with the benefit of the experience, the State commission failed to take advantage of the information in later construction. Hundreds of miles of State highway were built following the failures noted in this section and the results in almost every instance have been the same—extensive failure, making reconstruction imperative.

"Other conspicuous examples of State highway failure are on the Ridge Road, the highway to San Diego, in Imperial Valley and elsewhere. Motorists are familiar with many of them."

GOVERNOR BACKS GROWERS

Gov. Stephens yesterday addressed a telegram to the American farm bureau, urging aid for California vegetable growers, who face the necessity of abandoning their farms because of the freight rates on perishable produce. The Governor's action resulted from a conference Saturday evening with spokesmen of the growers.

In addition the Governor ordered James P. Britt, deputy State market director, to make an inquiry to ascertain just how widespread is the loss to farmers. This data will be employed in urging the railroads to reduce the tariff.

The Governor's telegram to the Farm Bureau Federation at Washington said:

"A conference of vegetable growers was held in my office in Los Angeles Saturday, by men representing thousands of productive acres in the southern part of the State. The facts presented with reference to the demoralized conditions of affairs due to the high freight rates were startling and pathetic.

"Responsible American growers informed me that unless there is an immediate relief from the horizontal increase of freight rates that serious, disastrous results will follow. Producers, I am told, will be unable to continue, and men and women will leave the farm for other means of employment.

"With the help of your wonderful organization back of this splendid movement I feel assured we shall have success. As Governor of the State of California I appeal to you to use your best efforts to the end that relief may be brought about and the products of California be permitted to go on to the ultimate markets."

The answer to this question, based on the life experiences of 100 average Americans, is the center of interest in one of the most compelling window exhibits shown by the Guaranty Trust & Savings Bank in recent months.

A colored chart, used by permission of the National Association of Life Underwriters, shows the varying stages of man's financial development by decades from 25 years to 75 years of age.

At 65 years of age 36 of the 100 have died, 1 is wealthy, 4 are well-to-do, 5 live on their earnings, and 54 are NOT self-supporting.

You will be interested in the facts so graphically shown by this chart. Don't fail to see this exhibit this week in the windows of the Guaranty Bank, Spring and Seventh Streets.

is installed and the department requirements rigidly complied with in handling of the garbage.

"If Japanese are to do the feeding, it can be said right here and now that the farm will constitute a menace to the health of the people of the county."

"The residents of El Monte, Baldwin Park, Covina and other districts adjacent to the Durbin ranch, must also be considered before the final approval is given by the Board of Supervisors to the contractors' application for a permit. Generally speaking, the County Health Department dislikes very much to see Los Angeles city return to hog-feeding in the county as a method of disposing of its garbage. While it is mandatory on the Board of Supervisors to grant the application for a permit, if the county health regulations have been complied with, the Supervisors can at once, if they desire, revoke the permit on the ground that conditions do not justify the maintenance of the farm, and this, in my opinion, is what would have happened should the contractors insist on going ahead at the Montebello location.

"The next step is for the contractor or contractors to file an application for the new location, then the protest will doubtless come from the near-by districts, and a date will be set by the supervisors for a public hearing on the new application, when the entire matter can be threshed out. I can only repeat what I said before, that I regret very much that the City Council rushed into this county-hog-feeding-farm proposition without considering the matter carefully with the county authorities."

DIVORCE VEIL TO BE LIFTED.

Sunday "Times" to Tell All About New Law Designed to Banish Secrecy.

Further additions are to be made to our supply of light reading. Under a new law that becomes effective August 1 the veil of secrecy that has shrouded papers filed in connection with divorce cases is to be lifted. In other words, the law will give you a chance after August 1 to get the "low-down" on your neighbors if they happen to seek the court's aid in ridding themselves of their family troubles.

The veil of secrecy regarding divorce complaints is to be lifted for various reasons. One reason is made evident by the fact that the crop of divorce complaints has taken a decided upward spurt the last few weeks, all because, the lawyers say, many now married ones would get under the legal wire before the whole world can read of their home-brewed varieties of troubles.

In The Times next Sunday the divorce situation will be discussed, with emphasis on secrecy and a few other things.

The Whitman contract is still in the hands of the City Attorney, but it is expected that it will be signed by Mr. Whitman at once and filed with a $75,000 bond, and it is mandatory on the Board of Public Works to attach its signature in accordance with the instructions of the old City Council and the board's formal acceptance of the bid on the 1st inst. The next step in the long-standing, complicated and now increasingly dangerous problem of Los Angeles garbage will be taken by the county authorities.

STUDIOS KEEP UP OPERATIONS.

Producers Are Optimistic in Spite of Walkout.

Garbutt Explains Need for Cut in Wages.

Declares Reductions Started at Top; Workers Last Hit.

Though carpenters, electricians and painters at the Lasky and Realart studios yesterday joined the workers already on strike at the Goldwyn, Roach, Metro and Fox studios, making a total of close to 500 persons employed in the film industry now fighting the reduction of a $1 a day in wages, recently announced by the producing companies, all of the studios, with the exception of Roach's, which had shut down temporarily before the issue came up, are continuing their operations.

Frank A. Garbutt, vice-president of the Lasky corporation, last night issued the following statement on the situation:

"The film industry, like every other in the country, must get on a new basis in the process of readjustment. We must produce better films at a lower cost for the simple reason that exhibitors cannot afford to pay former prices for their offerings, the public having been forced to curtail its amusement expenditures. It is not fully realized here that the nation-wide business stringency affects the Los Angeles film producers acutely through the depression and consequently reduced spending power of a large part of the United States, even though business conditions are, by contrast, still good here.

LIGHT AS POSSIBLE.

"It became evident to the producers some time ago that the industry to continue solvent under the new conditions would have to make a reduction of at least 25 per cent in operating costs. To do that we were forced, among other things, to reduce wages. We began at the top by cutting the larger salaries in many cases as much as 40 per cent. That process began weeks ago. At that time the men, who are now on strike were told that their wages would probably have to be reduced also, but that we would only come to them last and then with as light a cut as possible.

"Consequently when we came to them with a reduction of only 12½ per cent as contrasted with an average of 25 per cent for all of our employees, a majority of them saw the fairness of our attitude and were appreciative of it.

"Most of the studios have the feeling that they will have no difficulty in replacing the men who have walked out. At the same time there are quite a few which will take advantage of the situation to shut down for a time.

"It is, however, from the community standpoint, unfortunate that unstable business conditions must be still further disturbed and further unemployment brought about right at this time.

"With the producers it was simply a matter of absolutely shutting down or making drastic reductions in operating costs."

PLAN WIDE APPEAL.

Vern Ostendorf, on behalf of the joint strike committee, made public the following: "We are in this fight to win. We will not consider any counter proposals by producers. We plan to make an appeal to every union in the United States, Canada and Great Britain for its members to withhold their patronage from theaters showing pictures made at the studios where strike conditions prevail, and to use every other legitimate means to prevent the proposed cut in wages.

"More than 400 workers went out last week, and in excess of 400 joined the ranks today. A considerable proportion of the strikers are women.

"The strikers are members of practically every trade involved in the technical end of motion-picture production. The list includes the following:

"International Alliance of Theatrical and Stage Employees, United Brotherhood of Carpenters, International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, Bridge, Ornamental and Structural Workers, Painters, Decorators and Paper Hangers of America; International Machinists, International Plasterers' Union, Bricklayers, Bill Posters, American Federation of Musicians, Actors and Artists' Association of America, Hod Carriers and Common Laborers' Union, Plumbers and Pipe Fitters, Sign, Scene and Pictorial Painters and the Motion-Picture Machine Operators."

COMMERCE CHAMBER HEARS POWER PLANS.

DEVELOPMENT FROM BOULDER CREEK CANYON WORK TOLD IN SECRET SESSION.

Members of the Chamber of Commerce yesterday were advised of the plans for development of power for Los Angeles from the proposed government reclamation work in Boulder Creek Canyon. They met in secret conference with Mayor Cryer and the heads of several of the city's departments.

Attending the conference were Chief Engineer Scattergood of the Bureau of Power and Light, who was the principal speaker; President Robertson of the Board of Public Service Commissioners; Chief Engineer Mulholland of the water department, and W. B. Mathews, special counsel for the Board of Public Service Commissioners.

The Southern California Edison Company has submitted to the Chamber of Commerce its plans for development of the Colorado River Basin, which are in conflict with the city's power program. The chamber directorate will indorse one of the projects. The business before yesterday's conference was not made known.

Took a Neighbor's Advice.

"Two or three years ago whatever I ate distressed me. My liver was torpid and I lacked energy and ambition. A neighbor advised me to take Chamberlain's Tablets. I was wonderfully benefited by their use and have since enjoyed the best of health," writes Mrs. Frank Pellett, Hannibal, N. Y. If troubled with indigestion why not take these tablets? PEACE OVER LOVE BALM SUIT CAMPS.

Damage Action Dropped by Mrs. Margaret Tregelles, War Veteran's Divorcee.

Peace has been declared in the camps of Margaret Tregelles, former wife of a veteran of the Gallipoli campaign, and Mrs. Amy Bertha Brnestine Shute, wife of a British army major. Mrs. Tregelles was recently divorced by Capt. John A. Tregelles. Preceding the trial she had sued Mrs. Shute for $100,000 damages, alleging that Mrs. Shute had alienated her husband's affections. A stipulation for the dismissal of this suit was filed yesterday by Mrs. Tregelles.

The step toward dismissal buries the hatchet in the bitterly contested legal battles that have been waged during the last year by the parties concerned. It closes the case for all time, according to the attorneys representing both sides.

Capt. Tregelles, a British marine officer, was severely wounded in the Gallipoli campaign. While in a hospital he met and later married Mrs. Tregelles. They came to America, and Capt. Tregelles was employed by Mrs. Shute, who was visiting in this city. Then did Mrs. Tregelles file her heart balm suit. Next came the officer's divorce suit, and a decree was granted to him in San Diego, where he was represented by Attorney George F. Rankin.

The stipulation filed yesterday was signed by Mrs. Tregelles, B. C. Strang, Simpson & Simpson, her attorneys; Amy Bertha Ernestine Shute, the defendant, and her attorney, Mr. Rankin.

"Little Editorials on the Eye"
By C. H. HEARD, D. O.

The SURGEON

THE Surgeon is probably more jealous, more considerate, more careful of the condition of his eyes than the follower of any other profession.

Day after day finds LIFE ITS VERY SELF dependent upon the keenness of his vision—the ability with which his trained mind THROUGH THE EYE directs the operating knife.

Small wonder is it that he is JEALOUS of the condition of those eyes—that he calls in the very best talent obtainable when they need attention.

It has been a pleasure during the course of my 19 years' practice in Los Angeles to fit some of the most famous surgeons in the West.

CASTORIA

The Kind You Have Always Bought has borne the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher, and has been made under his personal supervision for over 30 years. Allow no one to deceive you in this. Counterfeits, Imitations and "Just-as-good" are but experiments, and endanger the health of Children—Experience against Experiment.

What is CASTORIA

Castoria is a harmless substitute for Castor Oil, Paregoric, Drops and Soothing Syrups. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other narcotic substance. For more than thirty years it has been in constant use for the relief of Constipation, Flatulency, Wind Colic and Diarrhoea; allaying Feverishness arising therefrom, and, by regulating the Stomach and Bowels, aids the assimilation of Food; giving healthy and natural sleep. The Children's Panacea—The Mother's Friend.
